Petain Accused by Ex-Premier Reynaud at Stormy Trial

FACTS OF 1940 DEFEAT UNROLL IN PARIS COURT

Gendarmes Forced to Clear Room

PARIS, July 23—Paul Reynaud, former premier of France, today described his vain efforts to keep France fighting in June, 1940. Testifying at the treason trial of Marshal Petain, the former premier from whom the marshal took over one day before France asked for an armistice with Germany, promised further evidence tomorrow to back his charge that Petain was responsible for France's capitulation.

The former premier, recounting the events that led up to the collapse of France, cried out at one point: "I despise him [Petain]." He charged that Petain was responsible for the armistice despite a solemn pact with Britain not to make a separate peace.

Tells of Call to F. D. R.

Reynaud also told how he had telephoned the late President Roosevelt on June 5, 1940, "imploring him for guns." Mr. Roosevelt replied "with that loftiness of view and that grandeur of soul that were characteristic of this great man, that I would have 75 mm. artillery and ammunition," said Reynaud.

The trial had gotten off to a stormy start with all the drama that had been anticipated. It was marked by jeers and uproar and a screaming melee among lawyer-spectators that forced the judges three times to adjourn and await a clearing of the disorderly courtroom.

Once the jammed and noisy chamber had to be cleared by gendarmes carrying tommy guns.

Petain Reads Statement

Petain, after the reading of the lengthy indictment that charged the 89 year old former Vichy chief of state with intelligence with the enemy, Germany, and plotting against the Third republic, read a statement in his own defense. The marshal asserted that, far from betraying France, he had "prepared the road to liberation."

Other dramatic highlights of the trial's first day were:

1. Dogged attempts by the three defense lawyers to prove the court was not impartial and hence was not qualified to judge Petain.

2. Altercations between the aged prosecutor, Andre Mornet, and lawyers watching the trial, whom he called "fifth column" and "Germans."

Marshal Appears Strong

Thruout the proceedings Petain sat slumped in a worn armchair with a resentful, martyred expression. He appeared strong and in good health despite his advanced age and only toward the end of the afternoon did he seem to feel fatigue.

The marshal entered the court room with a firm step. He wore a freshly pressed dress uniform of a marshal of France with seven stars on each sleeve and a single decoration on his breast—the bronze military medal on a yellow and green ribbon, the proudest decoration of a French officer. He had won the medal for his defense of Verdun in the first world war.

Placing his red military hat with

94° Sets High, Brings Joy to Corn Growers

3½ Inches in Day

Champaign, Ill., July 23 (AP)—An early morning shower followed by plus 90 degree heat virtually "pulled up" the laggard corn crop 3½ inches in 24 hours in Champaign county. Measurements were made yesterday and today by Don Duncan, district manager of a hybrid seed company.

Farmers and gardeners watched happily yesterday as the thermometer climbed to 94.3 degrees, marking the hottest day of the year and the third day this month the temperature has registered 90 degrees or better. The hot weather is urgently needed to speed the corn crop and vegetables delayed by cool weather.

City residents found the heat more endurable than that of Sunday, despite a 3 degree increase. Forecaster I. W. Brunk explained that the humidity yesterday was somewhat less than Sunday when the weather was sticky and muggy. The city beaches benefited by a record weekday crowd estimated at 250,000.

Showers Due Tomorrow

Today will bring more 90 degree weather, Brunk predicted. The thermometer may reach 95 degrees and when the humidity will be about 40 per cent, he said. Afternoon thundershowers are predicted for tomorrow in northern Illinois and the high temperature in Chicago is expected to be around 88 degrees.

Farm authorities said the hot moist weather was most welcome and still more is needed. The corn crop, off to a late start, is about two weeks late in most areas and will need a lot of hot weather to catch up.

In Homewood, the thermometer hit 94 degrees by late afternoon. Oak Park reported 95 degrees. Joliet had one heat prostration case as the thermometer reached 95 degrees. Waukegan reported 94 degrees and Aurora 93.

Hot Weather Diet Tips

Most of the midwest sweltered in the heat wave while floods swept parts of three eastern states. Eastern New York, Massachusetts, and New Jersey reported several million dollars damage after cloudbursts caused rivers to overflow their banks.

Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen, Tribune health editor, recommended yesterday that fruits, salads, and vegetables constitute major parts of the hot weather diet. Plenty of liquids and increased amounts of salt also are important in hot weather, he said.

In addition to wearing light clothing and avoiding over-exertion, a person can help make hot weather more pleasant by keeping his home cool. This can be done by closing windows and drawing shades during the daytime. At night the windows and doors may be opened to catch the benefit of the cooler temperatures, Dr. Van Dellen said.

Tracy, Minn., July 23 (AP)—Frank E. Starr offers this solution for the meat shortage with an advertisement in a local paper: "Rabbits, fryers. Also some young does. Blue ribbon stock. Get the habit—eat the rabbit."

OVATION GIVEN TO U.S. ENVOY BY ARGENTINES

BUENOS AIRES, July 23 (AP)—American Ambassador Spruille Braden, wildly cheered by Argentine citizens in a spontaneous ovation last night, today attributed a vitriolic leaflet campaign against him to "foreign Nazi elements totally alien to the truly noble feelings of the Argentine people."

The demonstration accorded Braden at a railroad station when he returned from a trip to the interior was one of the most enthusiastic ever given to an envoy to Argentina.

Observers here viewed the demonstration as a blow to the prestige of Vice President Juan Peron because it came when all political parties have vowed to have nothing to do with the military government of Argentina.

For the Tied-in-Knot-on-Top Girls!

Newark, N. J., July 23 (AP)—Mrs. America faces the possibility of a pate as bald as her husband's and Miss America may find herself relying on wigs to win her mate if feminine hair dressing clings to the tie-in-a-knot-on-top style now the vogue, Marcus Tushnet, president of the New Jersey Association of Master Hairdressers, predicted today in a statement.

Tushnet says the style not only is "gruesome" but will weaken the hair structure until it will start "receding ever so slowly at the neck and . . . creep upwards until they [the women] resemble Indian braves."

Pulling the hair tightly upward into a knot over an old fashioned "rat" or artificial hair piece will cause weakening and eventual destruction of the hair by rotting the hair base structure, Tushnet said.

He has asked hairdressers thruout the nation to embark on a program to educate their customers to the "dangers" of the style.

"If the style were beautiful or even good looking enough to warrant the chances that are taken to attain the effect it might be understandable," Tushnet said, "but the style is a throwback to the jungle women of New Guinea—the fat face, the thin face, all faces hanging low beneath a bower of hair and the only thing that is lacking to complete the picture is a spear or a baby slung over their backs."

Tushnet said the style is enough to cause a "Pacific war veteran to shriek with terror at the sight of "tribal beauties he met in South Pacific jungles walking the streets of his home town."

Girl, 5, Joins Dad in Death Leap at Bridge

San Francisco, Cal., July 23 [Special]—A 5 year old girl and her ailing father today leaped to their deaths from the Golden Gate bridge and apparently were swept out to sea.

Marilyn De Mont

Painters working on the bridge, who saw them, said the girl climbed over the rail, apparently without urging, and leaped, twisting and turning, to the water 266 feet below. A few seconds later her father followed her.

The father, August Charles De Mont, 37, an elevator repair man, left a note scrawled on cardboard, on the front seat of his automobile, which was abandoned near the bridge. The note said: "This automobile belongs to Mrs. A. C. De Mont, 4357 26th street, San Francisco. I and my daughter have committed suicide."

Bodies Seen in Water

Highway patrolmen called to the scene where De Mont had left his automobile saw the bodies floating in the water.

De Mont, who had been ill since suffering an injury three months ago on an elevator repair job, left home at 8:30 a. m. today, taking Marilyn with him.

He told his wife, Carolyn, and another daughter, Carol, 8, who was ill with measles, that he was going to get gasoline and then go to the office of the doctor who had been treating him. Mrs. Lucille Small, a sister of De Mont, said he had been tired and nervous.

Wife Expected It

Police told this story of how Mrs. De Mont received news of the tragedy:

"O, I knew it, I knew it," she repeated over and over.

Asked if she had expected it, she sobbed:

"O, yes, yes."

She said that when her husband left this morning she told him, Marilyn is pretty little to let sit out in the car," and he replied, "I'll take her in with me."

He apparently did not go to the doctor's office. At 8:50 a. m. the bridge painters, Jack Ricketts and Al Maloux, saw De Mont drive north on the bridge and stop his car. The girl got out of the car, walked alone and unhesitating to the rail, and jumped. De Mont followed before the painters could stop him. No explanation was advanced how De Mont was able to prevail upon the girl to jump.

600 B-29s RAID 2 CITIES; NAVY ATTACKS KURE

Carrier Pilots Bomb Great Sea Base

GUAM, July 24 [Tuesday]—(AP)—A record breaking strike by more than 600 B-29s attacked industrial targets in the Osaka-Nagoya region with nearly 4,000 tons of explosives at noon today.

The raid followed by only a few hours an attack "in great strength" on Kure, great naval base on Japan's inland sea, by carrier planes of the 3d fleet.

The Super Forts, splitting into several task forces, flew without fighter escort at altitudes ranging from medium to high and dropped their demolition bombs.

Sixth Raid on Osaka

Osaka, population 3,250,000, Japan's second largest city, has been attacked five times previously, the first in March and four in June. For Nagoya, one of Japan's four largest industrial centers, this was the 17th attack by Super Forts.

Since June 26 the Super Forts have been concentrating on incendiary blows against smaller enemy cities as profitable targets were becoming harder to find. Since Feb. 25 the B-29s' incendiaries burned out more than 140 square miles of Japanese cities.

Third 600 Plane Raid

It was the first daylight B-29 strike on the Japanese islands since June 26, when 10 aircraft and airplane parts factories in four Honshu industrial areas were hit by nearly 500 Super Forts.

Maj. Gen. Lemay, commander of the 20th air force, did not immediately announce the number of targets on today's schedule, but it was likely the B-29s had several objectives as it was the largest force yet sent over Japan. This was the third raid by more than 600 Super Forts.

The carrier raid on Kure, one of Japan's four largest naval bases, was the second onslaught against a major enemy naval base in seven days, planes of the same force having heavily damaged the Japanese battleship Nagato and sunk 12 ships at Yokosuka last Wednesday.

1,000 Planes Raid Kure

Adm. Nimitz, who announced the present strike, gave no details. His bulletin said merely that the attack was on "military targets in the vicinity of Kure, in western Honshu." His use of the term "great strength," however, indicated that it was among the heaviest carrier-plane strikes of the war. Previous use of the term has meant

FLYING BOXCAR WILL HAUL HOUSEHOLD GOODS OF 4 FAMILIES

New York, July 23 [Special]—A huge cargo plane carrying the household furnishings of four families will take off tomorrow night from New York airport for Los Angeles, Cal., in an experimental flight to determine the feasibility of using air transport for long distance moving.

The load of 18,500 pounds, including everything from a piano to refrigerators, will be carried in a Consolidated Vultee aircraft experimental ship, known as Model 39, which the American Airlines has leased for three months for research in the transportation of large volumes of merchandise.

Cost of transporting the goods will be $20 a hundred pounds, or $3,700 for the shipment, which includes trucking at both ends of the journey.

CREWMEN BALK, CANADIAN SHIP QUITS JAP WAR

DUNCAN, B. C., July 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes said in an address here that the Canadian cruiser Uganda is returning from the Pacific because 500 members of her crew resented being asked to volunteer for Pacific service after having already volunteered for service anywhere when they enlisted originally.

Will Return Soon.

MONTREAL, Que., July 23 (AP).—Navy Minister Abbott said at his home here tonight that the Canadian cruiser Uganda would be returned to Canada "just as soon as she can be spared," to allow those members not volunteering for service in the Pacific to be discharged and be replaced by those who have volunteered.

$2,500 CONGRESS 'EXPENSE' ITEM IS TAX EXEMPT

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP)—Members of the house won't need to pay federal income taxes on their new $2,500 a year expense allowance if their tax returns say that the money was "fully expended in the performance of official duties."

A treasury ruling to this effect was disclosed today in a letter from Commissioner of Internal Revenue Joseph D. Nunan Jr. to Rep. O'Neal [D., Ky.], printed in the Congressional Record.

The congressmen will not have to itemize in the tax return the ways in which they spend the $2,500.

BRITISH WARPLANES ALMOST OUTDATED, ROLLS CHIEF SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 23—Britain's warplanes are on the verge of becoming obsolete and speedy reequipment is essential if this country's air force is to maintain its position, particularly in the fighter class, Capt. E. C. Eric Smith, chairman of Rolls-Royce, Ltd., said today.

Asserting that the tempo of modern war called for air borne armies, Smith said British dominions had a right to expect prompt assistance from the mother country immediately if they are threatened. He said he saw no reason why it could not be possible to transport whole armies by air in one twentieth of the time needed by sea.

E. W. Hives, Rolls-Royce works director, said Britain was well advanced in regard to jet-propelled air craft. "On the question of 'weight for thrust' the British jet engine is 40 per cent better than the German, and on the consumption basis is 25 to 30 per cent better," Hives said. "From the view point of longevity also our turbines are many times better than the Germans'."

REPORT TRUMAN URGED TO TELL TERMS TO JAPS

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP)—Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] said tonight he had been informed by a "high military source" that a communication had been sent to President Truman urging him to stop the Pacific "slaughter" by outlining specific surrender terms.

Under suggestions in the purported communication, Japan would be stripped of her conquests and steps would be taken to destroy her capacity for aggression, but the emperor would retain his throne and Japan proper would avoid occupation.

Wherry, Republican whip of the senate, told a reporter he was given to understand the "high military source" compiled a list of Japanese "peace feelers" indicating the terms on which Japan might stop fighting. Partly on the basis of this compilation, a letter to Mr. Truman was drafted, Wherry quoted his informant as saying.

Wherry said he was not informed who actually wrote the letter, but he understood that the "high military man"—there was no indication just how high he was—agreed with the tenor of the letter.

Copy of Letter

"President Harry S. Truman,
"Potsdam Conference,
"Potsdam, Germany:

"Won't you stop slaughter of American boys and Japanese civilians immediately by message from Potsdam promising Japan that immediately after her unconditional surrender the emperor will be reinstated in accordance with Secretary Byrnes' promise that Japan shall retain her social and religious freedom and that the emperor shall be empowered to set up a new cabinet, acceptable to the allies and one that will protect our vital interests; further, that we do not regard military occupation of Japan as necessary but that a control commission be authorized to see to it that while Japan's social and economic problems are left in her own hands, her capacity for military aggression shall be completely destroyed. Other terms would be as already proclaimed in Cairo declaration with the added provision for the ordered withdrawal of Japanese troops from the continent after the allies have moved in."

Urges Acceptable Terms

Wherry said he thought that if terms such as these were not acceptable to the President and the state department, Mr. Truman ought to lay down the conditions which were.

"If those terms aren't harsh enough," the Nebraska senator said, "then let's fix terms that are and let the Japanese know what they are. If we can end this war on our own terms by just stating the conditions now, we might save a great many lives."

Wherry said he intends to ask in the senate tomorrow if any terms paralleling those suggested in the purported communication have come from Japan. He emphasized that he was not contending that any official document had been received from the Japanese, but he said he felt the state department had been advised of "feelers." The department has denied receiving anything resembling a genuine peace offer.

Would Take Islands

Acceptance by Japan of the Cairo conditions, it was pointed out, would strip her of all of the islands in the Pacific which she has seized or occupied since the beginning of the first World war in 1914.

She also would be forced to give up to the Chinese Manchuria, Formosa, and the Pescadores and would, in the language of the Cairo declaration, be "expelled from all other territories which she has taken by violence and greed."

The Cairo declaration, signed by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, also pledged freedom and independence for Korea "in due course."

HEAR TRUMAN GAINS RUSSIAN CONCESSIONS

Hint Understanding on Jap War

'Surprise' Mission

New York, July 23 (AP)—Roy Porter of the National Broadcasting company said in a broadcast from Berlin tonight that part of the American delegation to the Big Three conference already has left Germany and other members are preparing to leave for "a new and surprising destination." He added that further discussion of the matter was prohibited, "this time by security rather than political significance."

POTSDAM, Germany, July 23 (AP)—President Truman was reported tonight to have won important American aims at the Big Three conference and to have established a cordial friendship with Premier Stalin that produced unexpected Russian concessions.

A spokesman for the United States delegation said the Big Three had met again today—their seventh day of conferences—and "are driving ahead."

Sources close to the chief executive said he and Stalin have reached a stage of understanding considered impossible before the meeting opened.

The belief prevailed that Truman, in his debut as an international negotiator, had achieved a substantial understanding with the Russians on impending developments in the Japanese war.

Men close to the President reported he is happy over concessions won thus far. Despite the difference of language, the President is said to have made a big hit with the Russian leader, who, like the midwesterner, is a man of direct action and few words.

Early Close Indicated

Prospects for an early conclusion of the Big Three parley appeared enhanced tonight.

The last of their scheduled state dinners took place tonight, with Churchill and his daughter, Mary, entertaining Mr. Truman and Stalin at the "Little No. 10 Downing Street" here.

A string orchestra of royal air force members played several selections, including requests by both Mr. Truman and Stalin.

Guests included the chiefs of staff of the three armies—Gen. Marshall, Gen. Alexei Antonov, and Field Marshal Alan F. Brooke; Secretary of State Byrnes, Foreign Commissar Molotov, and Foreign Secretary Eden; Clement L. Attlee, former deputy prime minister of Britain; Soviet Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov; British Field Marshals Montgomery, Alexander, and Wilson; Edward Bridges, secretary of the British war cabinet, and Lord Moran, personal physician to Churchill.

Secrecy Maintained

A tight lipped silence was maintained in the allied compounds about concrete matters already agreed upon by the conferees.

The President, however, was believed to have had "two strings to his bow" in frank talks with his two greatest allies on the way to bring Asia out of the chaos of war.

Firstly, he appeared to believe it was not impossible that Japan's saner militarists and wealthiest industrialists might at last join hands in seeking peace so as to avoid heavy occupation of the home islands.

Coördinated Blow Is Aim

Secondly, if Japan's leaders persisted in their suicidal course, he wanted to assure employment of allied forces, including those of the soviet union, in such a coördinated manner that the greatest blows would be struck at the most vulnerable points of enemy defenses.

One of the best kept secrets of the Yalta conference concerns what tentative agreement Stalin may have assented to with the late President Roosevelt and Churchill regarding far eastern hostilities. To allied observers in Moscow, for example, it has seemed obvious that the continuing of large lend-lease shipments to Vladivostok depended upon some still secret terms.

In carrying on Mr. Roosevelt's policies Mr. Truman would have had to implement such a Yalta understanding with actual operational plans.

The impression given by the smooth, workaday advance of the Potsdam meeting was that serious hitches concerning the far east have not arisen.

If Japan's rulers are less blind than were the Nazis last year, there is a chance they may be able to read the handwriting on the wall of Potsdam. Their choice is a peace saving the national existence of the Japanese people, or a prolonged war whose results would even be more terrible than those into which Germany plunged.

Expect Aid of Russia

Among allied sources who have long enjoyed cordial contacts with the soviet government it has not been doubted that the Russians, after their own fashion, would play a role in defeating Japan.

These sources have sharply rejected the possibility of the soviet union indefinitely sitting back while America and Japan fought on to exhaustion. They point to the United States' good faith in contributing heavily to the destruction of nazism in Europe after some minority voices were heard suggesting the Anglo-American policy was to remain aloof and let the Nazis and Russians knock themselves out. They assert the soviet union will likewise keep faith with the United States in the far east.

If surface appearances are not misleading, the Big Three may leave Potsdam before the end of this week, after having delegated authority to their respective foreign officials to continue seeking harmonious coöperation in European affairs. Always before, the Big Three dealt in general terms with problems of less than class 1 priority. The scope and cost of the Japanese war give it stature above all other questions today.

SENATORS ASKED TO SAVE DOOMED CHICAGO SOLDIER

Telegrams were sent last night to Senators Brooks and Lucas in Washington asking them to save a Chicago GI from the gallows for the slaying of a comrade. He is Pvt. Edward J. Reichl, 39, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Reichl, 5343 School st.

The pleas were sent by his sister, Mrs. Rose Michalski of the School st. address, who said the sentence was excessive. Reichl is now at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., awaiting execution. Authorities there declined yesterday to discuss the case, saying any information must come from the war department.

Mrs. Michalski visited her brother over the week-end. Her information is that he accidentally fired a rifle at random while drunk, fatally wounding a sergeant. The shooting occurred Nov. 17, 1943, at Hamilton field, Cal. Reichl was court martialed Feb. 14, 1944, and the sentence only recently was confirmed. Mrs. Michalski said Fort Leavenworth officers admitted "it is most unusual" to impose the death penalty in a case where the slaying is unpremeditated.

JAPS PREPARED FOR BAD NEWS FROM POTSDAM

San Francisco, Cal., July 23 (AP)—A Japanese broadcast prepared the enemy home front today for bad news from the Big Three conference, and proposed "a fresh, vigorous diplomatic policy toward Russia."

The Domei agency quoted Sangyo Keizai, Tokyo commercial newspaper, as urging the foreign office to "check to a minimum Japan's unfavorable position." While this might be interpreted as either a policy of conciliation or of belligerence, the tone of the dispatch was clear in regard to the Potsdam conference.

"The Japanese people," said the newspaper, "must be prepared for the eventuality that the communique to be issued upon its conclusion will include provisions considerably unfavorable for Japan."

House Group on Record Trip Arrives in London

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—A house committee led by Reps. Wickersham [D., Okla.] and Dondero [R., Mich.] reached London by air today on the start of perhaps the longest trip ever taken by a congressional group. They planned to visit nearly every country on the continent and then go to the mideast and perhaps to India and China.

B-29s Strike Japan in Daylight

2 BIG AIR FLEETS RAID KURE BASE, OSAKA, NAGOYA

600 B-29s Hit Often Bombed Cities

at least 1,000 planes were involved.

Ships damaged in March may well have been still under repair at Kure. It is probable that the yards were filled with war and merchant vessels. There also are many worthwhile shore targets in the immediate vicinity.

The three largest Japanese naval bases besides Kure are Yokosuka, Sasebo, and Maizuru.

Shell Paramushiro

Nimitz also announced that on Sunday light units of the fleet shelled Paramushiro in the northern Japanese Kurile Islands, but that fog obscured results. This force undoubtedly was from Aleutian waters, part of the 9th fleet of Vice Adm. Fletcher.

American destroyers attacked enemy shipping directly off the coast of Chekiang province, China, south of Shanghai. Several small craft were sunk and others damaged. This was the first surface blow off the China coast, altho planes have raided the area.

As the cruisers and destroyers thus roamed far afield, in and out of Japanese home waters, Nimitz reported that search planes continued their blockade of Korea and Japan. On Sunday they sank two cargo ships, set three on fire and left two others sinking in Tsushima straits near Korea and in the Yellow sea.

Knock Out 56 Ships a Day

The fleet and naval planes were seeking to maintain their record of knocking enemy shipping out of action at the rate of 56 ships a day for the past fortnight.

The Kure attack was in the same area where the seaborne flyers on March 18 caught and sank the Japanese super-battleship Yamato, two cruisers, and several destroyers.

Location of battleships of the American and British fleets still was hidden by a security blackout, but customarily capital ships operate with the carriers.

The crippled Japanese sea and air arms appeared powerless to ward off the rain of blows, but Vice Adm. McCain warned that the enemy might be saving up resources "and waiting for a more propitious time."

Nimitz' summary of the carrier plane raid last Wednesday on the big Yokosuka naval base in Tokyo bay disclosed that one of Japan's last two seaworthy battleships, the 32,720 ton Nagato, had been put out of action and 20 other enemy vessels sunk or damaged.

Camouflaged as Pier

Carrier planes dived repeatedly thru some of the heaviest anti-aircraft fire ever seen over Japan and damaged the Nagato's superstructure.

The Nagato was camouflaged to look like part of the pier, but by the time the bombs had marched across her deck the forward section was wrapped in smoke.

Many enemy batteries were silenced by bombing and strafing airmen. Pilots reported 500 planes swooping down on Yokosuka caught many ships in the harbor.

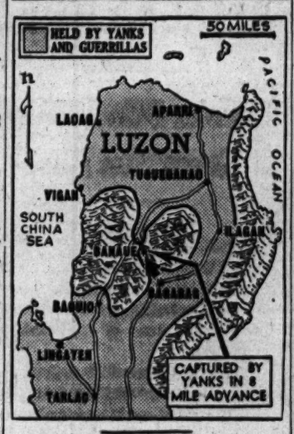
Sink 14 Jap Ships

MANILA, July 24, Tuesday—(AP).—Wide-spread air blows sank 14 Japanese ships and small craft over the week-end, Gen. MacArthur announced today as the Tokyo radio claimed that Shanghai again was pounded by more than 100 of his bombers and fighters.

The enemy said the new Shanghai attack struck air fields in Shanghai's suburbs and installations on the bund along the Whangpoo river Sunday.

Bombers attacked 95 enemy watercraft ranging from junks and luggers to small freighters and gunboats in patrols around the China coast, Formosa, Indo-China and Borneo. Enemy shipping in the Gulf of Siam was pounded for the second day Saturday. Liberators bombed two small Japanese gunboats, a medium freighter and three small cargo ships.

Japs Lose Town



MANILA, July 23 (AP)—American 6th division troops, driving eight miles along a highway lined with enemy dead, have captured the Japanese mountain retreat of Banaue in northern Luzon and are within two and one-half miles of a junction with Philippine army forces pushing down from the northwest.

When the two join, Japanese remnants on the island will be divided into three segments, in one of which, according to native reports, is Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, commander of the Philippines.

Yamashita is hiding out, hungry, in the mountains with a picked bodyguard of 300 troops, and was in Kiangan shortly before that stronghold fell to the Americans recently, natives reported. Japanese broadcasts recently asserted he still was leading his troops in the field.

FULBRIGHT SAYS CHARTER COSTS U.S. SOVEREIGNTY

BY WILLIAM MOORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 23—The United States must surrender part of its national sovereignty to the League of Nations or the International Peace Charter won't work, Sen. Fulbright [D., Ark.] told the senate today.

One of the charter's most ardent supporters, the former Rhodes scholar and university president, said frankly that the charter misstates facts in saying the proposed global organization will be "based upon the principle of the sovereign equality of all its members."

The fact, Fulbright asserted, is that our government can no longer protect our people from the disastrous effects of war, "even tho victorious in the warfare itself."

Departure from Tradition

"Therefore, it is entirely appropriate—in fact, it is essential—that our people consider the delegation of power to some other and higher organization which is reasonably designed to perform the functions which this government cannot perform," he declared.

Fulbright taunted senators who are willing to approve the charter after their vain effort to defeat the Bretton Woods and reciprocal trade global plans, and asked:

"Can it be that the senators do not recognize that if we are to accept this charter in good faith, it means a complete departure from our traditional policy in international relations?"

Not True in Fact

Turning to the charter's early declaration on the sovereignty principle, Fulbright said:

"I think it is a very unfortunate principle to begin with. It is unfortunate because it is not true in fact, and the organization denies it in the allocation of power in the security council.

"It is unfortunate because it reaffirms our allegiance to the concept of national sovereignty, under which our civilization so closely approached self-destruction. . . . It is unfortunate because it has caused some of the most ardent supporters of the charter to assure this nation and the people that there is absolutely no sacrifice of our sovereignty and that none is intended, thereby denying by implication the ultimate objective of the organization itself."

Unfortunate Word

Fulbright asserted that sovereignty lies in the people, not in their governments.

"The most serious consequence of the use of this unfortunate word," he told the senate, "is the probability that it fortifies and revitalizes the extreme nationalists, which is quite inconsistent with the re-establishment of rules of conduct for all nations."

Fulbright said the lesson of the war is that the world cannot survive another war as a civilized society of free men.

Plan Oversold

With proposed ratification assured [opposition has been flattened by the charter steam roller] Fulbright praised the charter as one of the great documents of history, but conceded:

"I have the feeling that perhaps the charter has been oversold. By that I mean the obligations and responsibilities we are assuming have been played down and have been presented in a negative manner."

Today was a glorification of the charter, with Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], one of the authors, acting as master of ceremonies while the ruddy face of Edward Stettinius, American representative in the global organization, gleamed from the gallery.

Connally Shouts Plea

Connally came in a long black coat, with his black eye glass ribbon crossing his white shirt front. He'd had his white curls shorn from the back of his neck for the occasion.

Skipping nimbly among the desks in a prizefighter's pose, he shouted:

"We wern't afraid to go to war!"

Stretching his long arms toward the ceiling, he tried to recite "Concord Bridge," got his verse mixed, and wound up:

"Let's fire a shot for peace that will be heard round the world."

Switching to pathos, he exclaimed:

"Remember how the league of nations was slaughtered here in 1919? Can't you see the blood on the floor? And on the walls?"

Vandenberg Also Heard

He spoke impartially of witnesses who had testified for and against the charter. He hadn't a word against those who opposed it—only shrugs, wry faces and a "Can I help it?" gesture of his supple hands as he called off the names of opposing organizations.

Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], who shared in the authorship with Connally, recommended the charter as "our great experiment," and vehemently defended himself against newspaper accusations of creating a super-state.

Other senators who spoke for ratification were Guffey [D., Pa.], Wiley [R., Wis.], Chavez [D., N. M.], and Thomas [D., Utah]. There wasn't a senator who spoke in opposition, altho some criticism is expected tomorrow.

Chinese Recapture Three Towns

Push Toward Base

CHUNGKING, China, July 23 (AP)—Chinese soldiers have recaptured three towns guarding Kweilin, tightening their stranglehold on the big airbase city, while a Chinese column approached another former United States 14th air force air field at near-by Yangso, the Chinese high command said today.

Along China's "invasion coast" west of Formosa, Chiang Kai-shek's warriors fought into the rear of Japanese troops battling toward Swatow and apparently broke up an enemy attempt to establish a coastal corridor between Swatow and Amoy.

Closing on Kweilin, with its three large airstrips, the Chinese seized the walled town of Paishou, 25 miles west of Kweilin; the highway junction of Ining, 11 miles northwest, and the rail town of Chaihsu.

BRITISH BOMBERS BLAST 21 JAP SHIPS OFF BURMA

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—R. A. F. Sunderland bombers in attacks over a nine day period sank six Japanese ships and damaged 15 off the Tenasserim coast of southeast Burma west of Thailand, the air ministry announced tonight. The ships were carrying petroleum and other supplies from the Dutch East Indies and Singapore to Japanese forces in Burma and Indo-China, the ministry said.

Kill 500 More Japs

CALCUTTA, India, July 23 (AP)—Five thousand Japanese troops, pocketed by allied forces in the Pegu area of southern Burma, already have lost more than 500 killed in initial attempts to break out and reach the Sittang river, the southeast Asia command reported today.

The Japanese were continuing attacks against the allied cordon but only a small number had succeeded in escaping eastward across the Mandalay-Rangoon road toward the Sittang.

AUSSIES THRUST 3 MILES ALONG BORNEO OIL ROAD

MANILA, July 24 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Australian patrols have thrust out three miles along the inland road leading north from Balikpapan to the big oil center of Samarinda on eastern Borneo, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

Behind the patrols, other Australian troops overran Japanese positions around Mount Batochampar, six miles north of Balikpapan, striking by night and heading off an enemy attempt to withdraw. Several truck loads of enemy troops were killed.

BIG NAVY PLANS OF STALIN JOLT CHARTER BLOC

Critics Say It Shows He Has No Faith

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 23—A new and embarrassing development for the defenders of the world peace league charter was plumped into the senate today in the form of Soviet Dictator Stalin's proclaimed plans for "a still stronger and mightier Russian navy."

Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] and other critics of the charter pronounced the Russian navy program tantamount to a declaration by Stalin that he has little, if any, faith that the new league of nations created at San Francisco can maintain peace or bring about any reduction of armaments.

"It is hard for me to understand the attitude of Mr. Stalin when he says he wants a great navy at the very time we are considering the San Francisco charter which is to achieve peace and security thruout the world and bring about future disarmament," said Wheeler in an interview.

Shows Lack of Faith

"The only explanation of his statement is that Mr. Stalin, like most of the rulers of Europe, has no faith in the San Francisco charter as a means of keeping us out of war. In my opinion, the European countries have learned nothing from this war. Many of them would be at each others' throats right now if they had the money and material with which to fight a war."

Wheeler said Stalin's navy project would furnish him a text for his address on the charter in the senate tomorrow. Wheeler intends to vote for the charter in the hope that its futilities and other shortcomings will be remedied in time but will expose the hollowness of the claims of the internationalists that it will banish war from this planet.

Others Silent on Plan

Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and other defenders of the charter declined to discuss the Stalin navy program for publication. One of them said privately that Stalin's navy plans are no more inconsistent with the charter than is the Truman administration's promotion of post-war compulsory military training. Advocates of the charter generally take their stand with Sen. Vandenberg who said in his senate speech last month that the new league represents an experiment pending the outcome of which the United States should maintain top-notch ability to defend itself from attack.

Stalin outlined his plans in connection with the observance of Red Navy day yesterday. He said "Our people will create new fighting ships and new bases for the navy." The mention of bases by the Russian dictator recalls the interest manifested by the Moscow government in the consideration of trusteeships for conquered territories at the San Francisco conference.

Rumored at Frisco

The Russians were particularly interested in the disposition of the Pacific islands wrested from Japan by American forces. They wanted all these islands committed to trusteeships under the new league of nations so that some of them could be assigned by the league to one nation as trustee and some to another nation. It was bruited about at the time that Stalin contemplated the construction of a great Russian navy, for which he hoped to obtain the financial assistance of the United States and was taking steps toward the establishment of bases for the future Russian Pacific fleet.

The islands in question are the [illegible]rshall, Caroline, and Marianas [illegible]ipelagoes, which Japan held [illegible]r mandate of the first league of [illegible]ns, the Volcano group, includ[illegible] Iwo, and the Ryukyus, includ[illegible] Okinawa, all of which have been [illegible]quered by American arms.

Military Leaders Objected

The Russians, patently angling for possession of some of these islands, came into collision with the United States war and navy departments, which insisted that annexation of the territories would be essential to the exclusive control of naval bases located thereon for American national defense. As finally agreed on the trusteeship chapter of the charter would permit the United States either to annex the islands or place them under a trusteeship.

If any or all of the islands should be placed under a trusteeship with the United States as trustee certain strategic areas could be reserved for military bases, which, however, then would be subject to supervision by the league's security council in which Russia could exercise a veto power on arrangements for American national defense.

Stalin and Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov assert that Mr. Roosevelt agreed at Yalta that all these islands should be committed to trusteeships. Mr. Truman's statement in Berlin last week that the United States wants no territory would seem to support the Russian position. The Democratic leaders who helped to frame the charter, however, say Mr. Truman could not have been thinking of the island bases which it was clearly understood at San Francisco the United States could annex if it should so desire.

CHICAGOAN BUMPS INTO OLD NEIGHBOR, A CAPTURED GERMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 23—Pvt. Paul Atkinson, son of Roy Atkinson, make-up editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, had a surprise when he ran across a German soldier from his old neighborhood in Chicago.

Pvt. Paul Atkinson

Pvt. Atkinson, 20, veteran of the Normandy invasion, the St. Lo break-thru, and the Ardennes counter-offensive, bumped into the former Chicagoan while herding 1st army prisoners. The man had lived 16 years in the Edgewater district. He was bitterly regretful of having gone back to Germany.

In London on a furlough, Atkinson is attached to the military police at a redeployment center in France. He served with the 1st engineer special brigade, amphibious outfit. The brigade recently was awarded the croix de guerre.

ONCE FRIENDLY CHINA REDS NOW BITTER AT U.S.

Alliance with Chiang Seen as Cause

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP)—The Chinese Communists, once extremely friendly toward the United States, have been making increasingly bitter attacks on the American government recently. That was the line of a North China radio broadcast today, and diplomatic officials here said it followed the current trend.

They could only speculate on the causes, but it appeared that one reason is the closer relationship between Washington and the Chinese government at Chungking.

Another cause, it was suggested, may be the alarm of the Communists over the successful talk which Chinese Foreign Minister T. V. Soong completed with Premier Stalin of Russia a few days ago.

Seek Moscow Support

Many authorities here believe the Chinese Communists have looked to Moscow, despite their oft asserted lack of connection with the Russian government, for eventual support in the event Russia came into the war against Japan. Considering this possibility, another reason for the broadcasts may be found in their timing with the Big Three meeting.

The latest of the broadcasts spoke of the United States as an imperialist nation and concentrated criticism on Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley.

Cite Support of Chiang

The Communist minority's best hopes for working its way into the Chinese government had rested on support of American officials who sought to persuade Chiang Kai-shek he should do everything necessary to unify all the forces of China. The two sides were never able to get together and there is little hope here now that they ever will.

The dissatisfaction with Hurley on the part of the Communists evidently dates from the time he visited the United States early this year and said at a news conference that the United States would stand behind the Chiang Kai-shek government as the one force which can rule China.

3 'DEAD' FLYERS SAVED AFTER SIX MONTHS' HIDING

MANILA, July 23 (AP) — Three United States 7th fleet flyers reported missing and presumed dead have returned to a navy advanced air base in the Philippines after surviving six months in enemy-held Borneo.

They are Lt. [j. g.] Robert J. Graham, Rosemont, Pa.; Reuben L. Robbins, aviation machinist's mate, Omak, Wash., and James R. Shepherd, aviation machinist's mate 2d class, San Diego, Cal.

Five of the six other members of their Liberator patrol bomber were captured and killed by Japanese. The sixth escaped earlier. An Australian plane finally spotted the three survivors and carried them out of the Jungle.

FIND GIs EAGER TO BUY SURPLUS ARMY PROPERTY

BY ALFRED WAGG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH U. S. TROOPS IN INDIA, July 23—Disposal of United States army surplus property is becoming a hot political and military question, it was learned today. A recent story in the CBI Roundup, service newspaper, which asked the GIs about their interest in purchasing various surplus items brought a flood of letters.

American soldiers in China, Burma, and India want to buy everything from typewriters and fountain pens to tractors and bulldozers, the editors of CBI Roundup found. Barriers to such purchases, it was learned, are transportation and the concern of the Indian government in the sale of any United States army property in India.

The Indian government has made it plain that any sales either to an American soldier or the public will be liable to import duty.

Ways of Handling Suggested

It has been suggested that the sale of surplus property could be handled in one of four ways:

1. Sale of small items to service personnel that could be easily carried with them.
2. Service personnel could have surplus goods shipped by the United States for payment at New York.
3. Sale of surplus items to United States troops for resale in India.
4. Sale by open auction or disposal thru the Indian government acting as agent, as suggested by Ramaswami Mudaliar, minister of supply.

The most likely solution is the one in which goods earmarked for sale to GIs or officers are shipped to the United States on American ships, where the actual purchase can be made at the port of entry.

Seek to Avoid Duties

Army authorities want the GIs to make their purchases without paying any foreign duties. They also want to get a fair price on sale of surplus property, thus deriving an equitable return on the American taxpayer's dollar.

If the plan goes thru to allow the American soldier to purchase the goods, only the unsold surplus would be handed over to the Indian government.

PLENTY OF GAS FOR BRITISH TIED UP IN HARBORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 23—Sufficient gasoline to abolish the basic ration and supply privately owned and commercial vehicles for 12 months is lying in tankers in British harbors, it was reported tonight. More than a dozen tankers are said to be anchored in the Thames river awaiting unloading. Some have been diverted to other ports because of the London dockers' slowdown movement.

The reason for the civilian gasoline bottleneck is that the main storage tanks in England are full of 80 octane fuel used by the fighting forces and service priority still dominates the picture.

Tonight the Fosna, one of the world's biggest tankers, began discharging 7,265,000 gallons of fuel—enough for two months of Britain's basic gasoline ration—for naval depots. Over the week-end an American tanker in the Thames emptied her cargo of 6,750,000 gallons thru an oil pipeline to Europe and started homeward in 23 hours.

Juliana Flies to Holland; Dutch Queen Recovers

LONDON, July 23 [Reuters]—Princess Juliana, who arrived yesterday with her three children from Canada, flew from Prestwick, Scotland, last night for Holland. The children came to London by train. Queen Wilhelmina has recovered from a lung affliction. The Dutch radio said today.

G I Joe in the Pacific

By ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH U. S. 32D DIVISION IN BAGUIO MOUNTAINS, Luzon, July 23—A strange war is being fought up here among the clouds and gold mines. It is not a big, impressive war. Just one of those slow, stubborn wars that is known as a mopping up operation. But some guys are getting killed all the same.

The fight centers on highway 11, a narrow twisting road that the Baguio chamber of commerce claimed "the most scenic mountain drive in the world." Built to serve the Baguio gold mines, the road winds along the ridge tops. Most of the way it is between 5,000 and 6,000 feet above sea level and at one point climbs to over 8,000 feet.

Quite often the ridge falls sheerly 5,000 feet to the jungle valley. It is in places like this, where the road is cut into mountainside, that the Japs have started landslides to slow our advance. But the bulldozer goes to work and in a few hours has carved a new road. The lead battalion goes thru and the dozer stays back to widen the new road.

Operator Bags Souvenirs

The other day while a dozer operator was thus working alone, three Nips strolled around a bend. Surprised, they ran into one of the hundreds of caves they have dug near the road. The operator left his dozer, took his gun, fired into the cave, went in to survey the damage, and came out with two flags, a saber, and two pistols, and resumed work.

Not many Japs give up their arms and lives so easily. Several thousand Nips infest these steep, pine covered mountains. From a peak they can see for miles and they have dug their usual caves on almost every peak. That means that before troops can advance along the road they have to climb every mountain within gun range. If the Japs are there we chase them off with artillery or tank fire or if they refuse to budge, the infantry, puffing from the altitude and the steep climb, must go up and fight it out with rifles and grenades.

Battle Above Clouds

Sometimes the clouds drift down during an attack and you can't see 50 feet. Then the clouds keep right on sinking and pretty soon you and the Nips are above the clouds and the war resumes on the mountain tops, set aside from the rest of the world by a pure white fluffy blanket.

Every morning the 127th regiment's Cub pilot, Lt. Albert Weisskopf, 845 Oakdale av., Chicago, Ill., takes off from the Baguio airstrip, rides the up-currents until he gets altitude, and then floats among the mountains and clouds hunting Nips. Yesterday he was 40 miles from our advance troops when his small washing machine engine stopped. He put the light plane into a dive and the wind spun the propeller—the plane doesn't have a starter—and after what seemed like two years the engine coughed and started.

In the movies he would have kept right on hunting Nips, but he headed back to the airstrip just as fast as two cylinders would take him. Today mechanics are overhauling the plane.

Women Carry Supplies

Fifty-three patrols of from 10 to 30 men make a detour into every valley. Sometimes it takes them five days to get back. The farms hang by terraces to the valley floors and where there are farms you usually find Jap looters. Igorot women dressed in bright striped skirts go along with the patrols as supply carriers.

Some American miners and their families still are hiding in these mountains. Every week a few of them are coming out. One miner's wife, Annette, is a guerrilla. She puts on rags, musses up her hair, and combs the mountains gathering information about the Nips. When she goes back to headquarters at Baguio the information officers there guard her with their lives. They will hardly even let other people talk to her.

When she dresses up and washes her face and combs her hair Annette is quite pretty, and in Baguio nowadays pretty girls to take to the officers' club for a drink and a dance are quite scarce.

GERMAN TROOPS MEET HARVEST NEED: BRITAIN

WITH THE 21ST ARMY GROUP, July 23—(AP).—Operation of the "barley corn discharge" of German soldiers for farm work has been so successful that enough labor now is in the fields to get in all the harvest in the British zone of occupied Germany, the head of the food and agricultural branch of the military government said today.

He disclosed that 400,000 soldiers had been demobilized for the harvest—100,000 more than the original quota. Of this number, 308,000 have homes in the British area and the remainder live in the American or Russian zone and will return to prisoner of war cages when they have finished their work.

He said the British zone produced only 50 per cent of its food in normal times so that even tho there was a good harvest the average calorie count would be about 1,240 a person daily, compared with 1,850 a day last year. The British soldier now gets 9,600 calories a day, he said.

KILLED AFTER FALL OFF TRACTOR

Clinton, Ill., July 23 (AP)—Charlotte Crispen, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crispen, farm family living east of here, was fatally injured today when she fell from a tractor driven by her mother and was crushed by an attached wagon.

ODT DIRECTOR BLAMES ARMY FOR TROOP JAM

Muddle Threatens Drag on War, Probers Told

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 23—Railroad man power shortages threaten a breakdown of transportation of men and supplies for the war against Japan, the senate war investigating committee was told today by J. Monroe Johnson, director of the office of defense transportation. Johnson charged that the army had not warned him of recent heavy troop movements.

J. Monroe Johnson

The hearing was called by Sen. Mead [D., N. Y.], committee chairman, after senatorial criticism of methods used to move troops from the European zone to redeployment centers in this country.

Furlough System Criticized

Johnson told the committee:

1. The problem of moving increasingly greater numbers of men and supplies to west coast ports can be solved only by increasing the man power of railroad operating and maintenance departments.

2. The army's furloughing of railroad men to serve the transportation lines has resulted in the release of only 2,500 men, and of these, 1,000 were not experienced railroaders.

3. The army consistently has increased the numbers of troops being landed at east coast ports without advising the ODT of its transportation needs.

4. The ODT plans to coördinate bus and air transportation to speed returned soldiers from east coast ports to redeployment centers.

Arrivals Exceed Estimate

Johnson said that last May he had been informed the army planned to return 200,000 men from Europe each month. But, he said, arrivals in June exceeded the estimate by 50,000 and that arrivals in July will be 353,000.

He asserted he did not learn of the June total until June 28. The order removing Pullmans from short hauls followed, he said, and later the decision to pool coaches was made.

Johnson said he learned of the increase in troop arrivals over the first estimates only in discussing "other matters" with the war department. Now, he said, he has his "own methods" of determining troop arrivals.

"It was a mistake which has not yet been corrected," Johnson said, "for the army to bring the number of men which have arrived, irregularly and subject to violent fluctuations in number, into the country and thus increase its demands for transportation without advising and consulting with the office responsible for the coördination and direction of traffic [the ODT]."

Termed Principal Problem

Altho the ODT has pooled railroad coaches for troop movements, Pullman sleeping cars have been taken off short runs, and rolling stock continues to be inadequate, the man power shortage is the most serious problem of the railroads, Johnson asserted.

He said western railroads, which are called upon to handle the bulk of troops and supplies for the Pacific war, will be particularly hard hit in the next few months and will be unable to handle increased war traffic without more men.

"I know of no important measure which may be taken by the ODT alone to increase the capacity of the railroads to handle a further increasing business," he said. "The only solution is a substantial increase in man power. This is a matter for authorities other than I.

10,000 Sought at First.

"Had it been within my province, it would have been done long ago. It is having the earnest—tho badly delayed—attention of the war man power commission, the army, which has afforded some relief by the furloughing of soldiers, and other interested agencies."

Johnson said there were 300,000 former railroaders in the army Jan. 1. He recently asked that 10,000 be released, later scaling his request to 4,000.

[In an interview after the hearing Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] said there was no excuse for the army to keep railroad men when they were urgently needed to maintain war transportation.

Johnson said he hoped to ease the congestion of redeployment by calling on domestic air lines and bus companies to move men from east coast ports.

Illinoisans Join in Trek of Yanks Back to School

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ROUEN, France, July 22 [Via courier]—One hundred and twenty-four United States soldiers with battle stars, and some wearing Purple Hearts, climbed into trucks at the 89th infantry division headquarters here this morning to become school pupils at Shrivenham barracks, England.

The group is one of many from the American armies in Europe that will comprise the class of 4,000 that will take eight week courses at the English school. Others will attend classes at Paris and at Biarritz, France. The students were selected mainly from military units whose departure from Europe was delayed either by the shipping shortage or by the German occupation.

Notre Dame Boy Carries On

Illinoisans in the group are typical of them all. Pvt. Charles J. Schulze, 21, of 7214 Yates av., Chicago, left Notre Dame university in the middle of his second year in June of 1943 to become a soldier. He wears the Purple Heart, the infantryman's badge and two battle stars. His schooling in England will give him credits at Notre Dame when he resumes his commercial course there after the war.

Pvt. Elmer Herbaly, 23, of 830 Wolfram st., Chicago, a painter's apprentice who became an automatic rifleman in combat, was in the group.

Tech. 4th grade Lowell M. Walters, 25, son of the Rev. Russell D. Walters, a Baptist minister of Springfield, Ill., will attend the school and hopes to become a teacher. The credits he will gain may give him a degree at Illinois State Normal university, Normal, which he attended for three and a half years.

Up From Night School

Pvt. Joe D. Pantaleo, 21, of 460 N. Aberdeen st., Chicago, got his high school credits by attending night school while working for a Chicago decorator. He was a radio man in combat and is painting signs while his division is in charge of the embarkation assembly area here. He will take a commercial course in England.

Pvt. James J. Rowbottom, 22, of 1410 N. Austin blvd., Oak Park, Ill., has one year's credits at Northwestern university and another year's at the University of Chicago. He will study finance in England.

Pvt. Francis P. Hynes, 19, of 6816 Loomis blvd., Chicago, De La Salle High school, class of 1943, will study journalism.

Ex-Loyola Boy Attends

Sgt. James Moyles, 23, of 866 Blue Island av., Chicago, who got the Purple Heart as an assistant squad leader, will study liberal arts subjects. He has one year's credits at Loyola university.

Gordon A. Fox, 19, expert rifleman, Lebanon, Ill., of the 1942 class at Lebanon High school, also has selected liberal arts studies.

VETS LOSE FIRST ROUND IN FIGHT FOR STOWAWAY

New York, July 23 (AP)—The men of battery C of the 38th field artillery, 2d infantry division, today lost the first round of their move to keep Joseph Eugene Paremba, 12, their duffle-bag stowaway from Poland, in the United States.

W. Frank Watkins, district director of immigration and naturalization, said a board of special inquiry had excluded the lad from the country but that an appeal had been taken to the attorney general.

Battery C brought Paremba to America last Friday, asserting he had fought beside them in Europe for months. The battery collected more than $1,000 for him, and Corp. Leroy Ritchey of Tulsa, Okla., a former school teacher, agreed to adopt him.

PETAIN ACCUSED BY REYNAUD AT TREASON TRIAL

gold oak leaves on the table in front of him he relaxed in the armchair and listened to the proceedings with little change in his pained expression altho his hands moved nervously over the chair arms and at times, especially during Reynaud's testimony, the ceaseless movement of his hands increased to a twitching of the arms.

Assail Trial Procedure

Defense Lawyer Fernand Payen, who is an uncle of Mrs. Clarence Streit, wife of the author of "Union Now," argued that the 1875 constitution was still in force and prescribes that the president of the republic can only be accused by the chamber of deputies and tried by the senate.

Petain, he maintained, was president of the republic because he never had abolished the republic. He also charged that the jury would be suspected of partiality because contrary to all democratic precedent it was chosen from an arbitrary list drawn up by the government from resistance leaders and pre-war parliamentarians who had voted against Petain—hence of men who were already his adversaries. He also declared that the magistrates swore an oath to the marshal and for four years passed sentences in his name.

It was Prosecutor Mornet's answer to this that provoked the first disorders.

'Oath of No Value'

"An oath imposed on a civil servant by a government serving the enemy has not the slightest value," he declared.

There were immediate cries of protest from lawyers standing in the back of the room.

"I'll ask the fifth column to end its demonstrations," thundered Mornet, unloosing another batch of protests.

During the reading of the eight page act Petain listened to the accusation attentively, nodded his head occasionally, at other times shrugged his shoulders, and once or twice smiled sarcastically.

Among other things, the act accused him of participating in a plot against the republic and of succeeding in his plot due to France's defeat. Immediately after obtaining extended powers from parliament on July 10, 1940, the act said, he promulgated three acts which permitted him to replace the president as chief of state and dismiss parliament.

Charge Accord with Hitler

Other charges against him were signing the Montoire accord with Hitler, abandoning Indo-China to Japan, supplying axis armies, contributing to the German war machine by furnishing French products and man power, allowing the Germans to use Syrian air fields, ordering the scuttling of the French fleet, and ordering fire to be opened on the allies in the Levant and North Africa.

After the reading of the charges, Judge Pierre Mongibeaux, president of the court, announced he would question the defendant on the charges. This was expected to take about three days. But the defense declared Petain wished to read a statement first. Then Petain announced he would refuse to answer all questions.

Standing erect, the marshal unrolled his script and read in a voice that was at first faltering but later became steady.

"The high court as it is constituted does not represent the French people," he said, "and it is to them alone that the marshal of France and chief of state addresses himself.

"I will make no further statement. I will not reply to any questions.

"France Turned to Me"

"I have passed my life in the service of France. On the most tragic day of its history, it turned to me. I, thus, became the heir of the catastrophe of which I am not the author. Those who are really responsible take shelter behind me to escape the wrath of the people.

"When I asked for an armistice in agreement with our military chiefs, I accomplished the necessary action of salvation.

"Yes, the armistice saved France and contributed to the victory of the allies by insuring a free Mediterranean and integrity of the empire.

"Power was granted me at that time as legitimate and recognized by all countries of the world from the Holy See to the soviet union. I used this power as a shield to protect the French people. For them I went as far as to sacrifice my prestige.

Cites Nazi Occupation

"I remained at the head of the country under occupation. Can you understand the difficulty of a government in such conditions? I had a dagger at my throat every day. I fought the demands of the enemy. History will tell all I spared you from.

"The occupation obliged me, against my heart and will, to do certain things for which I have suffered more than you.

"I assured our prisoners of the nation's support. Let those who accuse me examine their conscience and try to find out what would perhaps have become of them without me.

"While Gen. de Gaulle pursued the struggle beyond our borders I prepared the way for liberation by preserving a sorrowing but living France. What would it have served to liberate ruins and cemeteries? . . .

Union Was Aim

"For my part my only thought was union and reconciliation of the French. I know that at this very moment, if some have forgotten what they said to me, what millions of Frenchmen who gave me their confidence and retain their fidelity to me, are thinking of me. For them, as for many others thruout the world, I represent the tradition of the French and Christian civilization in the face of excesses of all tyrannies."

This declaration was followed by a new attack on the court by Jacques Isorni, defense lawyer, who cited a long list of alleged irregularities, disorders, and negligences in the preparation of the case. It was Prosecutor Mornet's reply to this that started a small size riot that caused suspension of the session.

To murmur of protest, Mornet howled: "The truth is that there are too many Germans in this court room."

At this remark pandemonium broke loose. Judge Mongibeaux ordered spectators out of the court and the gendarmes took over. Arguments continued in the hallways for a quarter of an hour whereupon the lawyer and Mornet apologized and the session was resumed.

"Joe's Place serves steaks . . . why can't you"?

It's a question of mathematics. A half-pound tenderloin steak costs about 10 red points. The allotment of red points per meal in restaurants getting highest current allowance has been less than 9/10 of a point per meal. . . covering shortening, salad oil, cooking fats, as well as meat. Since July 1, this allotment has been reduced to 7/10 of a point per meal. Obviously, it is not possible to serve steaks, chops and such high-point meats as a regular item, unless they are procured through other than legitimate channels.

"Well . . . Why Not Black Market Meat"?

Black Markets break down the controls set up to give everyone a fair share of food. The more people support Black Markets, the quicker all meat will disappear from your corner butcher shop. That would force you to buy in the Black Market . . . at outrageous prices!

"Couldn't You Serve Steak Occasionally . . Say Once a Week"?

Yes. But let's figure it out together. For the 3,000 meals we average daily in each of our restaurants we are allowed 2,112 red points. 3,000 small quarter-pound tenderloin steaks at 5 points each would take 15,000 points. 3,000 half-pound steaks would take 30,000 points . . . our complete allotment for 14 days!

"Honestly Now . . Don't You Serve Steak to Certain 'Special Customers'"?

Absolutely not. Any dish on our menus is served to all our guests, on an equal basis, as long as the supply lasts.

"Okay . . . When Will You Be Able to Serve Steaks Again"?

Only world conditions can answer that. But rest assured, the first possible day that we can again serve steaks, they'll be there at the top of the menu. And we'll be even more pleased than you will.

NOTE: Stouffer's are running this series of messages concerning food rationing in restaurants because we believe that if you understand the facts you will insist upon effective measures against Black Markets. It is to your interest, as well as ours, that the available supply of rationed foods be distributed through legitimate channels.

CHICAGOANS GET READY AT REIMS TO BATTLE JAPS

Crack Engineers Outfit Won't Come to U. S.

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

REIMS, France, July 23—Edward Smith Jr., 20, of 1434 Maple av., Wilmette, Ill., a 1943 graduate of New Trier High school, was stripped to the waist, and was scrubbing pans in the kitchen when he was visited at the camp of the assembly area command here.

"You can tell the folks," he said, "that I am leaving with my outfit soon to fight the Japs. And you can tell them you saw me doing the work of prisoners of war, punishment for a tardy return from leave. Got back to camp from Paris at 6 this morning. I'm tired, but, gee, it was worth it."

It's a Crack Outfit

His outfit is a crack construction battalion that built 12 highways and 27 railroad bridges in France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany. Two of its bridges spanned the Rhine. The men have been bombed, shelled and strafed on the job.

Sgt. Rudolph Pucel, Joliet, Ill., said:

"I have been writing my wife that I would be home soon, trying to keep up the morale on the home front. I hope she can take the news that we still have a big job to do."

The battalion's carryall scrapers, cranes, and bulldozers are being repaired or replaced. Each man is getting a physical checkup and his records are being brought up to date. The outfit is scheduled to sail directly to the Pacific.

WIDOW CHARGES VICHY BETRAYED ANTI-NAZI CHIEF

Husband Dies in Raid at Buchenwald

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, July 23—Rudolf Breitscheid's widow told in an interview today how the former anti-Nazi leader of the German Social Democrats was handed over to the Gestapo by Marshal Petain's government and how he died in an air raid on a war plant attached to Buchenwald concentration camp in August, 1944. Mrs. Breitscheid had gone voluntarily to the camp to be with her husband.

The Breitscheids, after fleeing Hitler's rule, had found shelter in Arles in southern France. After the defeat of the French the Petain government advised Breitscheid to come to Vichy and entrust himself to the French Surete Nationale [police force] which would protect him, his widow said.

Taken to Paris

"My husband did not believe them," Mrs. Breitscheid continued. "Actually, he almost immediately was handed over to the Germans together with Rudolf Hilferding, former German finance minister. Both were taken to Paris where Hilferding, who was in special danger because he was a Jew, committed suicide by using a sleeping drug."

When Breitscheid was removed to Berlin in February, 1941, his wife was not allowed to accompany him. She returned to Arles "so he would know where I could be reached" and started bombarding German officers and friends with letters. She asked only to be where her husband was. Permission was granted in November, 1941.

Breitscheid, confined under "special arrest for the duration," was taken to Sachsenhausen, where he and his wife occupied a small house between that of Austria's Kurt Schuschnigg and his family and that of Fritz Thyssen and his wife. Mrs. Breitscheid received her own ration cards and was permitted to do her own food shopping on condition that she report exactly where she went.

To Buchenwald Camp

In September, 1943, the couple was transferred to the Buchenwald concentration camp where they witnessed many horrors, altho they were kept somewhat apart from the other prisoners. On Aug. 24, 1944, an air battle raged overhead and Breitscheid thought he and his wife should seek safety in a ditch, altho it was shallow and offered little protection.

"We had barely reached it when the first bomb crashed nearby," related Frau Breitscheid. "I heard a second detonation and then was buried except for a shoulder. The third bomb—I found out afterwards—hit the nearby barracks which went up in flames, crashing around our trench. I was trapped and could not see my husband. To keep my nerve I started counting the time. After 15 minutes I lost track.

"I reawoke in the camp's so-called hospital and was told that my husband had been severely injured. I suffered terrible burns on my arms, shoulder and back. Three days later they told me that my husband was dead. He had been dead when dug out of the debris. I never so much as saw the body."

BERLIN RACKET: GET OUT OF NAZI PARTY FOR A FEE

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, July 23—It seemed good news to the Nazis in Berlin when they heard that an American "mixed claims commission" in Berlin was willing to remove their names from Nazi party membership if they were willing to pay.

The news sounded phony to American authorities, and they arrested the "mixed claims commissioner," Wilhelm Esch, who operated an office in Kurfuerstendamm.

The commissioner charged three or four marks for statements assuring that the bearer, who wanted to go on a trip, enjoyed the protection of American authorities and that his trip should be facilitated. He even provided impressive stamps for the documents, which turn out to be old NRA stamps.

Just what it cost to be stricken from the membership list of the nazi party is a secret.

AFTER 6 YEARS, HOME PORT TO SEE QUEEN MARY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 23—Ending a six year absence, the Cunard-White Star liner, Queen Mary, is expected to return to her home port, Southampton, in mid-August to embark American and Canadian army personnel, mail, and a few civilian passengers. It will be the liner's first visit to the port since the end of August, 1939.

Next month also the Queen Mary's sister ship, the Queen Elizabeth, and the Aquitania probably will dock at Southampton, which has been specially dredged to accommodate the big ships.

During the war in Europe only comparatively small ships used the basin, which for years berthed Cunarders. The report that silting up of the approaches to Southampton delayed the return of the big ships and postponed the departure of American troops was denied by the Southampton harbor board tonight.

ASK NEW LEAGUE TO SCAN NIGERIA LABOR DISPUTE

BY WILLIAM STRAND
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 23—Efforts of British officials to force acceptance of a wage of 18 cents a day in the two month old strike of 100,000 Nigerian workers in the African colony should be reviewed by the new world security organization, members of congress asserted today.

They noted that the charter which is scheduled for speedy approval this week empowers the organization's social and economic council to investigate living conditions of peoples thruout the world wherever such action is deemed necessary to help raise standards of living.

Good Way to Start

"An inquiry into this controversy would be a fine way for the new world organization to get off to a flying start," said Sen. Willis [R., Ind.]. "The points at issue seem to be in line with the established policies in British colonies where there has always been a double standard of living—one for the British; an altogether different one for the natives, the objects of exploitation."

Other members expressed shocked surprise over the details of the dispute published here in dispatches from London. The workers, complaining that the cost of living has risen 200 per cent, are seeking a minimum wage of 50 cents a day [United States currency] compared with their present pay of 18 cents a day. The deadlock is now in its third month and British authorities have reintroduced stringent war time controls, suppressing newspapers and arresting strike leaders, in an effort to end the walkout.

Two Newspapers Suppressed

Constitutional government has been suspended by Gov. Arthur Richards, who was governor of Jamaica during the labor riots of 1938, and two leading dailies have been suppressed for criticizing union leaders who advocated ending the strike. The strikers, also asking reduction of existing inequalities between English and non-English workers, are reported to have vowed never to return to work until their demands are met.

"It certainly proves we are still a long way from Utopia," asserted Rep. Short [R., Mo.]. "The facts as they are published indicate an outrageous situation at a time when the nations of the world are talking about justice and equality and security for all peoples. Too, they indicate the serious economic problems that will be encountered in trying to raise standards of living in such places as Africa and India."

Washington, D. C., July 23 [Special]—Since the end of the war against Germany, the soviet government has returned industrial workers to the pre-war 8 hour day at the same pay they received during the war for the longer work day, Vassili V. Kuznetsov, chairman of the all-union central council of the trade unions, disclosed today at a press conference.

Kuznetsov is chairman of a committee of 10 sent by the Russian unions to visit the United States upon invitation of the congress of industrial organization.

The 10 Russians will leave Wednesday night for Chicago, where they will tour automobile plants, packing houses and farm equipment factories.

TRIALS TO OPEN AT NUERNBERG AFTER SEPT. 15

Lidice Butcher to Go Before Prague Court

MONDORF, Luxemburg, July 23 (AP)—The majority of war criminal trials will be held at Nuernberg, former hotbed of nazism, and the principal cases will start after Sept. 15, Dr. Bohuslav Ecer, Czechoslovak representative on the war crimes commission, said today.

Ecer said Karl Hermann Frank, the "butcher of Lidice" and one time nazi protector for Bohemia and Moravia, would go on trial in Prague about Sept. 1, but that, regardless of the outcome, Frank would be turned back to the united nations war crimes commission for retrial on other charges at Nuernberg.

Frank will be indicted in Prague with 26 other German officials, he added.

Tells of Indictments

Ecer said that if Frank was convicted and sentenced to death, either at Prague or Nuernberg, he then would be returned to Czechoslovakia for execution.

Ecer said indictments will cite the crime of preparing for and launching the war which automatically includes all members of the German government; crimes committed because of religious, racial, or political issues; and atrocities.

[In London, legal experts of the major allied powers, just back from Nuernberg, resumed conferences on plans for the trials, with the probability of final agreement on methods and procedure by the end of the week.]

Ecer said he hoped "press representatives from all nations" would be present at Prague and Nuernberg, "so that the precise legal findings and all facts of the trial will be made known to every citizen of the world and especially to every German."

Guard Murder Boss

CELLE, Germany, July 23 (AP)—Joseph Kramer, ex-boss of the Nazis' Belsen concentration camp, was placed under an around-the-clock guard today to make sure he does not kill himself before his war crimes trial about Aug. 15.

Kramer, a fanatical Nazi, is one of the 78 former officials and guards of the Belsen camp and murder factory held here for trial. About 20 of them are women.

80,000 GERMANS SEIZED IN MASS RAID BY ARMY

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, July 23 (AP)—In perhaps the greatest mass raid in history, half a million American soldiers searched every house in the United States occupation zone of Germany over the weekend for weapons, ammunition and loot, and arrested 80,000 persons, many of them SS men who had been hunted as war criminals.

Fifteen million Germans in the American zone, taken by surprise, were bewildered and scared, but offered no resistance. Only two tried to escape the search. One was shot to death.

Brig. Gen. Edwin L. Sibert of Vineyard Haven, Mass., head of the G-2 [intelligence] division of United States forces in the European theater, said guns, ammunition and loot, such as American uniforms, K rations, gasoline, and vehicles, were seized but there was no sign of an organized German underground.

Given Week of Grace

"The raid marks the passing from a negative to a positive line of action," Sibert said. "We wanted to act before there was even a chance of anything coming up and hitting us in the face."

He added "it upset the civilian population quite a bit, which is good."

Sibert explained the Germans had been given a week of grace, ended July 20, in which to turn over all weapons, ammunition, radio transmitters, and other forbidden articles without fear of punishment. Those caught with such properties face trials in which the death sentence can be applied.

Using "tallyho" as a code word, the American troops struck at daylight Saturday. They halted every vehicle, including United States army jeeps, checked the papers of civilians and soldiers, and swept thru every German house from cellar to attic.

Plug Possible Gaps

Sibert said the raid was ordered three weeks ago but perfect security was maintained. Censorship on the arrests was lifted today. He said that in addition to rounding up Germans hiding arms, the army wished to check its own security and control measures so as to plug any possible gaps.

Sibert said many SS men posing as discharged Wehrmacht prisoners of war were arrested.

The general said some of the persons arrested were in American uniforms, but that these said they had no other clothing. Most of those seized, however, were booked for irregularities in identification papers, he said.

Col. Thomas Sands of Cornwall, N. Y., who led the raid, said the search showed less crime than perhaps would be uncovered in a similar action over a comparable area in the United States.

He described those arrested as more of the "criminal element" than anything else and objected vigorously to any reference to them as "werewolves." He said those seized would get "rough treatment."

WIFE'S RETURN WITH WINDSOR O. K.'D BY KING

Both Welcome in Britain, Duke Told by Brother

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 23—Permission for the duchess of Windsor to accompany the duke on his return to England next month was given by King George VI., the duke's brother, THE TRIBUNE was told on good authority tonight.

It is understood that the duke, who has been carrying on a correspondence with his brother, suggested that he and the duchess would like to visit this country, and the king replied by assuring him that they both would be welcome.

This is not the first time the duke and duchess have been in this country since King Edward VIII. gave up the throne in 1936 for "the woman I love."

Named Liaison Officer

They were here in September, 1939, shortly after the outbreak of the war, when the duke of Windsor, as he had then become after his abdication, returned to offer his services to his country. He was commissioned a major general in the British army and was appointed liaison officer in France between British Commander Gort and French Gen. Maxime Weygand.

It was announced Sept. 12, 1939, that the duke and duchess had returned to England. On Sept. 19 the war office said the duke would proceed shortly to take up a staff appointment abroad and that he had been permitted to release temporarily the rank of field marshal in the British army and assume that of major general, with effect from Sept. 3, 1939. The duke resigned in June, 1940, and as the Germans pushed deeper into France he and the duchess fled to Spain.

The return of the duke and his twice previously married American wife is "a family matter" to be decided by the head of the family, who is the king, it was pointed out. The duchess, as a British subject, technically is able to come to England at any time without the formality of obtaining a visa or any other passport formalities as far as the British government is concerned. She and the duke, it was reported, will travel on a joint diplomatic passport.

No "Political Impediment"

Nov. 25, 1938, Neville Chamberlain, then British prime minister, is said to have told Windsor at a meeting in Paris that there was no "political impediment" barring his return. He did not take advantage of this suggestion, however, until nearly a year later.

Whether Windsor was ever refused permission to return with the duchess has not been disclosed. It is known, however, that many persons in the set in which Edward and the former Mrs. Simpson once moved were hostile to her after the abdication. The duke, who is said to be still deeply devoted to his wife, would not risk having her snubbed. It was also uncertain what reception the duchess would receive in court, but the king's reply to the duke's correspondence has eased his mind on this score. Nevertheless, London society is eager to see just how the duchess is received.

The duke's future probably will be mapped out during their visit. There have been reports that he will become governor general of Canada, viceroy of India or just a country gentleman in his native England. He has said repeatedly that he would be glad to serve England in any capacity in which he could be useful.

16,000 NEEDED TO FIX SHIPS TO FIGHT JAPS

More than 400 ships needing repairs are in San Francisco bay alone, Lt. Melvin F. Landphar, director of industrial incentive for the navy in the 9th naval district, told a large crowd last night in a shipyard recruitment rally at State and Washington sts. The rally will be held nightly thru Friday.

Lt. Landphar said that the navy needs 16,000 skilled workers immediately, particularly electricians, machinists, and sheet metal workers, on the west coast and at Pearl Harbor. Transportation is free. Government housing at reasonable cost is available. Jobs will be assured up to a year after peace.

Pointing to a 5-inch gun from the carrier Franklin, Lt. Landphar said that the Franklin will require 6½ million man hours of work in repairing it.

Last of U. S. Navy Ships Leave British Waters

FALSE VILLAGE HIDES SEATTLE PLANE FACTORY

Seattle, Wash., July 23 [Special]—Officials of Boeing Aircraft company today disclosed the existence of a 26 acre village of camouflage atop the main assembly area of Boeing plant No. 2. It was built by United States engineers to protect the factory from the threat of Japanese air raids. Flying Fortresses and Super Fortresses were assembled there.

The fake village has 53 houses, 24 garages, gardens, three greenhouses, a service station, and a neighborhood store. The buildings and automobiles in the streets are the length and width of real ones but average only four feet high.

Pilots returning to Seattle after the camouflage was set up said it looked so real that they had difficulty getting their bearings.

Camouflage Comes Off

Santa Monica, Cal., July 23 (AP)—A make-believe village is being dismantled to uncover the Douglas Aircraft company's factory, camouflaged since the beginning of the war. Film studio technicians built a hill over the huge building. Fake houses were built on fake streets lined with faked trees. To further confuse any possible stray Jap planes, a faked airfield was constructed nearby. It was so realistic flagmen sometimes worked overtime keeping bewildered airmen from landing.

2,000 BLACKHAWK VETS LEAVE FOR CAMP IN SOUTH

More than 2,000 veteran fighters of the famous 86th [Blackhawk] division from Illinois and neighboring states left in two trains from the Union station last night for Camp Gruber, Okla., where they will undergo further training for war against the Japs.

All were battle tested in Germany, where as an infantry unit of Gen. Patton's 3d army, they helped smash the German defenses west of Regensburg and became the first division to cross the Danube river.

The 2,000 are from Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, and parts of Iowa. Their division, 14,289 strong, arrived in the United States last month, the first complete combat division to return home. They were sent to Camp Grant, where they received 30 day furloughs. The furloughs over, they reassembled at Camp Grant over the week-end for transfer to Camp Gruber. There they will be joined by comrades furloughed from other redeployment centers, retrained, re-equiped and, according to previous indications, sent across the Pacific.

Dynamite Laden Truck Runs Wild; Driver Killed

St. Clair, Pa., July 23 (AP)—A truck loaded with five tons of dynamite went out of control today on a hill, struck two other trucks, and smashed into the front of a house. The driver was crushed to death in his cab, but the dynamite didn't explode. Drivers of the two other trucks suffered cuts.

MAN NEXT DOOR GIVES HUSBAND A TRYING HOUR

Harry Casper, 35, of 538 Rosewood av., Aurora, a war worker, was suspicious of his wife, Hazel, 31, and the man next door, Arlie Leek, 48.

"I won't be back all night," he told his wife as he kissed her goodby Sunday. "I have to work a 16 hour shift on something special."

Casper went off toward the factory with his lunch pail and thermos bottle, then walked back home by a circuitous route. He entered the cellar door without being heard by Mrs. Caspar, and hid in the basement.

"Getting Fidgety"

After a while Mrs. Casper stepped out on the kitchen porch, and Arlie Leek went out on his back porch. They talked in low voices, but Casper heard his wife say: "Wait a little while."

Casper stayed in his hiding place and waited another hour, then his wife went out on her front porch, and Leek appeared on his front porch. They both sat and rocked, while Casper peeked out of a basement window.

Leek was the first to say anything. "I'm getting fidgety," Casper heard him say.

"Do you want to go in the car?" Leek asked Mrs. Casper.

"It's all right with me," she said.

Goes to Work On Leek

"I couldn't stand it any more," Casper told Justice of the Peace Victor W. Johnson yesterday. "I came out of the cellar and found my wife and Leek in the back seat of the car."

"What did you do then?" Justice Johnson asked.

"I went to work on Leek," Casper said.

Leek's face was bruised yesterday when he and Mrs. Casper were arraigned on charges of disorderly conduct. They were fined $10 and costs of $13 each. Leek paid for Mrs. Casper, too.

EAST CHICAGO'S SCHOOL HEAD IS OUSTED IN FIGHT

The Democratic president of the East Chicago, Ind., school board, whose term expires July 31, called a special meeting of the board on an hour's notice yesterday and effected a contract for a new superintendent.

The ousted superintendent, A. C. Senour, had been promised renewal of contract last Feb. 22, it was asserted by Michael Havran, the one Republican on the three man board. "I am keeping my part of the bargain," Havran said in explaining his vote against the change. George Grimmer voted with Dreesen against renewing Senour's contract.

Senour clashed with the Democratic board members over the suspension of Nellie I. Mills, teacher, who was accused of presenting a poor performance when the board ordered mourning for the late President Roosevelt in all classrooms. Senour investigated and reported the charges were unfounded. A suit to compel the board to reinstate her is pending.

The superintendent employed to succeed Senour is Charles Barrett, formerly elementary school superintendent at Summit.

Girl, 12, Raped, Bound, Locked in Clothes Press

A cry for help coming from an old clothes press in a barn in the rear of 2206 Jackson blvd. last night led to the release of a 12 year old girl who had been stripped of her clothes and bound with wire. She said a 16 year old boy had raped her and locked her in the cabinet two hours before. Her cries were heard by Mrs. Lucy Chitjian, owner of a delicatessen at 216 S. Leavitt st., when she went into the back yard to feed her dog.

FARM DOLLARS WILL PRIME PROSPERITY'S PUMP

Farmers' spending money, over 23 billions annually, is ready to buy the things that manufacturers sell. This huge growing back-log of cash will start America on the way to peacetime prosperity. Every company that has anything to sell the farmer for his home or farm will be well repaid for selling farmers intensively.

Advertisers often ask us why FARM JOURNAL sells so much more goods for them than any other rural magazine. Two and a half million subscribers, is one of the reasons. Half a million more farm families read FARM JOURNAL each month, than receive any other farm magazine. Obviously, the more calls you make on farm people who want to buy and have the money to spend, the more goods you'll sell. Dollar for dollar you'll make more sales to farmers through FARM JOURNAL.

VAULT LOOTING TRIAL FIGURE PLEADS GUILTY

State Proceeds Against Two Defendants

Llewellyn Morgan, 44, of 12035 Stewart av., one of three men on trial in Criminal court for the 2 million dollar looting of the E. H. Rumbold company safety deposit boxes last January, entered a surprise plea of guilty yesterday afternoon.

Llewellyn Morgan

Judge Frank M. Padden said he would accept the plea on the understanding that the state and the public defender, representing Morgan, had agreed that the sentence would be not less than three years in the penitentiary and not more than about eight years. Morgan was not sentenced immediately.

Waive Habitual Charge

He pleaded guilty to burglary, the first count in the indictment against him. An habitual criminal charge against Morgan was waived.

Willie Niemoth, 54, an old time safe blower and member of the Joe Saltis prohibition era gang, and Patrick Flaherty still are on trial. A possibility that they might plead guilty was seen for a time by court observers yesterday when their attorneys, George Crane and James M. Burke, went into frequent conferences.

Criminal Record Read

In the afternoon, however, Burke informed the court that "we will have to go on with the trial." It was understood that Judge Padden refused to accept any agreement sentencing Niemoth and Flaherty to less than 15 or 20 years in prison.

The trial proceeded with the prosecution reading Niemoth's criminal record into the court record. Niemoth was sentenced in Baltimore, Md., in October, 1930, to 10 years in the Maryland state penitentiary for a 1926 pay roll robbery in which he and another man obtained $46,678.69.

Acted as Lookout

Flaherty's statement to police after he was arrested June 20, in which he implicated six other men who have been indicted in the vault thefts, also was read in court yesterday.

Flaherty said he acted as lookout in the burglary. Flaherty said he received $9,000.

CIO UNIONISTS ARE ACCUSED OF FLOUTING COURT

Atty. William Grace yesterday filed a motion before Judge Francis B. Allegretti in Superior court asking contempt citations against Irving Krane, business manager, and other officials of local 1150, United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers union CIO].

The motion charged the union officials violated a June 29 order of Judge Donald S. McKinlay when they tried to have Harry Morgan, a turret lathe operator at the Chicago Flexible Shaft company plant, and 15 other employes discharged under the union's maintenance of membership contract.

Judge Allegretti continued the case for 10 days to allow the union time to answer the petition. The company ignored a union demand, sent July 6, that the 16 be discharged.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

July 24—Brigham Young Finds Salt Lake

On July 24, 1847, Brigham Young, leader of a band of Mormons who since April had been trekking westward in search of a place to settle, entered Salt Lake valley in what is now Utah.

The soil of the valley was hard and dry and would respond only to industry and ingenuity—but the Mormons had plenty of both. The mountains were forbidding—but they possessed a stern beauty of their own and they gave promise of a blessed isolation.

"This is the place," Young said.

There, in territory which was part of Mexico but inhabited only by Indians, the Mormons began to cultivate the soil and to lay out their city. They had come to the ends of the earth to escape the hostility of the non-Mormon populations among whom they had formerly dwelt in Missouri and Illinois.

Brigham Young had brought only about 150 Mormons with him on the exploring expedition to the west, but soon others began coming and by the end of 1847 there were about 2,000 settled on or near the present site of Salt Lake City.

The colony prospered because of the industry of its members. The land was irrigated and portions of the wilderness became a garden. More colonists kept arriving from the east and from England.

The transfer of this territory to the United States at the end of the Mexican war and the discovery of gold in California made the City of the Great Salt Lake [as the Mormons called their town until 1868] an important way point and trading center for immigrants moving west. The territory of Utah was organized in 1850 and President Fillmore appointed Young governor.

In 1890 the Mormons gave up the doctrine of plural marriage, thus paving the way for friendlier relations with other Americans. Utah was admitted to the union in 1896. Salt Lake City now is a community of 150,000 with one of the nation's best literacy and public health ratings.

TURNABOUT IN WAR! YANKS ONCE CAPTIVES NOW GUARD GERMANS

Five American soldiers who were prisoners of the Germans in Europe were assigned at Fort Sheridan yesterday to guard German prisoners. They were the first to be so detailed under the army's new policy of using as guards men who suffered nazi imprisonment, said Brig. Gen. John T. Pierce, post commander.

Pvt. Otto Magg

Four of the men were held by the Germans at Bad Orb, one of the notorious German camps. They are Pvt. Otto Magg, 5244 S. Honore st., a prisoner five months; T/4 Francis P. Conely, Brighton, Mich., four months; Pvt. Frank Brooks, Savanna, Ill., seven months, and Pvt. Donald Meads, Earlville, Ill., four months. Staff Sgt. Richard H. Leinaar, Hastings, Mich., was held at Stalag 3C seven months.

ILLINOIS TOPS RIVALS IN BOOST OF E BOND SALE

Final state tabulations on the recent seventh war loan disclosed that E bond sales soared 45 per cent above those in the sixth loan, Renslow P. Sherer, chairman of the war finance committee of Illinois, said yesterday.

Sherer said that this was the greatest percentage of increase among high quota states, and also was the largest increase among states in the 7th federal reserve district.

Illinois was one of only two high population states to fulfill its seventh E bond quota. The quota was 279 million dollars, 60 per cent larger than that of the sixth loan. Final data showed sales of 281 millions, or 101 per cent. National increase was 39 per cent, Sherer said.

Colchester Educator Named to State Post

ELECTRIC LINE CANNOT RAISE PAY, AID SAYS

The Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin electric railroad will be unable to continue operating after the war if a wage increase sought by two operating unions is granted, Walter Swanson, secretary-auditor for the trustees, yesterday told a federal panel hearing the wage dispute.

From 1931 to 1944, Swanson said, operating expenses exceeded operating revenue, except in 1942, and only revenue from a power plant and lines leased to the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois enabled the road to show a small net income. The wage increase sought would cost the road $67,000 annually, he said.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen are seeking raises from 12 to 17 cents an hour from the C. A. & E. and the Chicago, North Shore, and Milwaukee railroads.

NEW SPOT FIRES BREAK OUT IN OREGON FORESTS

Portland, Ore., July 23 (AP)—Foresters tonight ordered a withdrawal of some fire patrols from quiet sections of the big Tillamook-Wilson river fire to organize pack train units to move into the isolated northwestern sector where new spot fires have broken out.

State Forester N. S. Rogers said it would be several days before fighters can be on this westernmost blaze near the forks of the Salmonberry and Nehalem rivers.

He said there are no roads into the region and men will have to move on foot and pack equipment on trails once used by mounted forest patrols.

Waterhouse & Gray Lumber company loggers were reported battling another spot fire near Seaside, Ore., a shore resort.

Woman Cashier Accused of $25,000 Embezzlement

A warrant charging Mrs. Mary E. Colbert, 40, cashier for the Central States Finance corporation, 209 N. La Salle st., with embezzlement of $25,000 was issued yesterday by Judge William V. Daly in Felony court. The warrant was obtained by Manning Cole, manager. She was employed by the company for 10 years.

An inquest into the death of William Provancher, 81, of 4023 Washington blvd., a patient killed in a plunge Sunday from the sixth floor of County hospital, will be held at 9:30 a. m. today in the morgue.

NEW AMBULANCE SERVICE OFFER IS MADE TO CITY

John J. McNeill, operator of an ambulance service at 217 N. Cicero av. and a member of the Metropolitan Ambulance Owners' association, yesterday offered the city an emergency ambulance service that would provide 38 vehicles on call 24 hours a day. The cost would be approximately $50,000 a year.

McNeill's proffer was made to Ald. Kells [28th], member of the council subcommittee on ambulances. It countered an earlier proposal by Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern that the city inaugurate its own service. Dr. MacEachern suggested a minimum of 20 ambulances, at a yearly cost of around $300,000.

McNeill said his service would operate thruout the city, with any call answered within 10 minutes. Cost to the city would be $8 for a day call and $9 for a night call. He urged that the association be given a 90 day trial.

Forecasts High Cost for City

The city cannot operate its own service for less than $30,000 per ambulance per year, McNeill asserted. Each vehicle would require a nine man crew, because the ambulance would be in service 24 hours daily. This would mean $450 a week in salaries alone, McNeill estimated.

Other expenses, on a monthly basis, were listed as $100 for depreciation; $100 for insurance; $50 for laundry; $70 for gasoline and oil; $15 for garage rental, plus the cost of oxygen and equipment.

The city also would encounter difficulty in manning its ambulances with personnel trained in first aid, McNeill said. The ambulance association now has its own trained staff, which would be used on city cases.

Radio to Expedite Service

The association's ambulances would be equipped with two-way radios to expedite service; the association also would pay for new equipment as it became necessary, he said.

McNeill said his proposal was laid before the city council in 1937. It was voted down then, he said, because there wasn't enough money in the general fund to pay for it.

Kells told McNeill that a meeting of the subcommittee, headed by Ald. Gillespie [29th], probably would be called next week, when the proposal would be considered.

Kells said he also would ask the subcommittee to consider another plan, advanced informally, that insurance companies be asked to institute an ambulance service after the pattern of insurance fire patrols. Activities of the fire patrol, he said, result in large savings to the companies, and ambulances might result in savings on personal injury claims.

'Hotshot'

[TRIBUNE Photo]

Capt. Herbert Greenhalgh

There probably were many young women who passed a young air forces captain yesterday in the loop and wondered where they had seen him before. It's a thing that happens frequently wherever Capt. Herbert Greenhalgh of Wellesley Hills, Mass., goes, for his friends swear that he's the original Hotshot Charlie of Milton Caniff's comic strip, "Terry and the Pirates," which appears in THE TRIBUNE.

Greenhalgh wears a battered khaki officer's hat far back on his head. His grin is wide and contagious, and he converses in much the same breezy manner of Charlie. The similarity goes on and on and as a result Capt Greenhalgh's buddies call him Hotshot.

The captain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Greenhalgh, are friends of Caniff. The cartoonist and the pilot met last November. Caniff's "Dragon Lady" inspired the name of a B-24 Liberator which Greenhalgh flew to the European theater in December, 1943. The plane later crashed with another crew aboard it.

SOLDIER CASHES IN ON HIS LOVE FOR CHICAGO

Chicago's friendliness and hospitality made such an impression on Pvt. Kalman Schneider, one of the 17,000 soldiers sent here during the recent trucking strike, that he won a $15 prize and a three day pass for an essay on the virtues of Chicago, published in the Camp Shelby, Miss., newspaper.

Pvt. Schneider liked Chicago. He liked it very much, and he wrote 500 words on it so effectively that his commanding officer, Capt. Ezra S. Webb, sent THE TRIBUNE a copy. Schneider, who is a member of the 262d armored field artillery battalion, found that Chicago is as good a city as he'd heard it was.

"We expected plenty and we weren't disappointed," he wrote. "The Windy City's winds were blowing; the loop really looped. We saw Wrigley Field and our ball team played there. To top it off we met Mayor Kelly himself and he was a regular guy."

Mostly, tho, Schneider praised Chicago's girls.

2D ABANDONED BABY IS FOUND CRYING IN PARK

As police sought a mother who left her two day old baby girl on a bench in Jackson park Sunday, a baby boy about two weeks old was found late last night lying in shrubbery in Lincoln park, near Fullerton and Lakeview avs. Policemen discovered him crying after a woman telephoned to report he had been left there. The boy joined the girl in the nursery of St. Vincent's orphanage.

Three women faced disorderly charges yesterday for child abandonment.

Charges made against Mrs. Julie Conley, accused of leaving her two children in a nursery at 2314 Clark st., rebounded against Mrs. Lucille Waller, the nursery owner. Judge John J. Griffin in Women's court freed Mrs. Conley and ordered an investigation of the nursery, which, the mother told police, was "dirty and unkempt."

The other women cited are Mrs. Penny Kramer, 22, of 420 S. Wolcott av., accused of abandoning her 15 month old son, and Mrs. Doris Henderson, 31, a divorcee, 243 W. 24th st., accused of neglecting her four children while she visited a tavern. Mrs. Kramer's hearing was deferred until Aug. 2.

Capt. T. P. Kearin Named Oak Park Police Chief

Capt. Thomas P. Kearin was appointed acting chief of police of Oak Park by President Stuart Cochran at a special meeting of the village board last night. Chief Benjamin Barsema, chief for 17 years, has been ill two weeks. Kearin has been in the department 32 years.

. . . we make no PRETENSE

If you yearn for that true full-bodied ice cream goodness, there is particular point in making your flavor selection at Stineway's.

We make no pretense that we can get all the ice cream our good customers want. Occasionally, we find it necessary to regretfully* inform customers that there is not enough to carry out. This we do, from time to time, to assure sufficient ice cream for fountain service.

It is our belief, that you prefer the honest "we can't-always-supply-the-demand" approach than to reduce the goodness to increase the volume. We feel that you have every right to get ice cream with the old-fashioned richness . . . made from purest full-strength ingredients. Your ice cream at Stineway's will never be less.

OUR BEDFELLOWS

Mr. Truman, at close range, and our representatives in the senate, from a point more withdrawn, are being given an opportunity to size up our bedfellows in the new united nations league. They were a bit strange before we took to bundling, and the closer we get to them the stranger they seem.

Here, for instance, is Mr. Stalin, the old Tiflis bank robber with the inscrutable grin, announcing on Red navy day that "the Russian people want a still stronger and mightier navy, and will create new fighting ships and new bases for it." Doesn't he know that his united nations partner, the United States, has a navy that is entirely adequate to handle any disturbances which might possibly occur in the new age of amity upon which we are said to be entering?

Where, to be specific, does he want those bases? In the Pacific, to be used against us? Where is the greater soviet navy coming from? Are we expected to lend-lease it to him? One of his major fleet units, the former U. S. S. Milwaukee, was acquired that way. If he intends to strengthen the Caspian sea fleet, which at last reports consisted of two gunboats, there would be no particular objection anywhere except, possibly, in Persia. But if he is going to try to match the American fleet, people will wonder.

Those who have watched Mr. Stalin's tactics to date in all of Europe east of the Danish island of Bornholm in the Baltic will concede that he is accomplished at snatching most of the blankets in the united nations bed. The British empire, which is represented at Potsdam by Mr. Churchill, did its snatching a century or so ago, and it is Mr. Churchill's acknowledged mission to hold what he has got. The task presents some difficulties.

Some of his majesty's subjects in Nigeria, for example, do not seem properly appreciative of the benefits of imperial rule. In that African possession 100,000 native civil servants are currently on strike. They are dissatisfied with the minimum wage of 18 cents a day allowed by the crown and are demanding 50 cents. The royal governor is adamant in the face of this unreasonable attitude and has taken to governing by decree, with the power of imposing a sentence of two years in jail or a $2,000 fine upon any newspaper critics who might say that Nigerian social justice is not all that it might be.

By empire standards, 18 cents a day would not be considered bad at all. Natives in mandated New Guinea who are indentured to the white planters are paid $1.61 a month, minus a head tax to support the police who keep them from causing trouble or running away.

It is summer time now, and Mr. Truman may think that all America needs is the protection of a corner of the sheet in the communal couch. But colder weather is coming. The atmosphere may become positively frigid when Mr. Stalin builds up his fleet and starts looking around for suitable bases at which to berth it. We do not expect the room temperature to go up when the Nigerians, denied their 32 cent pay raise, appeal to Uncle Sam under the united nations social and economic chapter for support against their British taskmasters.

The portents of future troubles come at an opportune time, when congress shows every intention of completing the surrender of American independence. It is folly to expect pleasant dreams when Stalin snores so aggressively and John Bull is evidencing gastric distress from indigestible portions of the earth's surface devoured too greedily.

BACK TO THE DAYS OF "LIFE FOR A PINT"

The OPA has instituted proceedings against a farmer in Van Buren, Ind., which in some ways recalls the infamous "life for a pint" sentences imposed upon prohibition violators in Michigan almost 20 years ago.

Chester Hefner, the Indiana farmer, had a truck which a friend wished to buy. Both men were law abiding. They went before the OPA price board at Marion, Ind., to inquire the proper price for the truck. An OPA employe consulted the directives and fixed the ceiling price, whereupon Hefner sold the truck.

A few weeks later he was notified by the OPA regional office at Indianapolis that he had overcharged the purchaser $30.82 and that OPA was suing for triple damages, or $92.46. Hefner properly replied that, if there were any error, the regional office ought to proceed against its Marion board, which was at fault. The Indianapolis OPA then expressed willingness to settle for the overcharge of $30.82, waiving the triple damages. Hefner was informed that he was liable for the overcharge "even tho the seller did not willfully violate and did take all practical precautions against a violation," and even tho OPA's own office had given him "erroneous information."

Hefner's dander was up by this time. He didn't remit the overcharge, as demanded. The next he heard, OPA had turned over a news story to a Marion paper which announced that suit had been filed against him in Grant county court, not for $30.82, the amount specified in its last demand, but for triple damages. This was the second time that OPA had reversed itself, and, furthermore, the action was not brought in Hefner's home county of Huntington, but in an adjoining county where he would be at a disadvantage as a stranger.

It is almost beyond belief that an agency which itself fixed the terms of a business transaction could then turn around and represent itself as aggrieved as a result of the same transaction. The outcome of the court action should be given the closest attention. Almost any citizen might find himself subjected to similar persecution.

PUERTO RICAN FREEDOM

The new keystone of American defenses in the Caribbean is a giant naval and air base near San Juan, Puerto Rico, named Roosevelt Roads. Navy censorship has just authorized the first mention of this base, construction of which began three and a half years ago.

Roosevelt Roads, Guantanamo Bay in eastern Cuba and our base at Trinidad lie in a triangle to form this defense system. It is significant that only Roosevelt Roads is on American territory. Guantanamo we got from infant Cuba after the Spanish war. The rights to Trinidad were obtained in the destroyer deal with Britain. If we can secure our military ramparts without taking political and economic possession of Cuba and Trinidad, we can with equal safety relinquish political possession of Puerto Rico without endangering those defenses.

There is a considerable movement in Puerto Rico for independence. It is difficult to say how much the demand comes from professional politicians, and how much from the people, but there is a good deal of popular support, at the least. If the majority of the Puerto Ricans want freedom from American rule, they should have it. Our experience with Guantanamo demonstrates that we can retain Roosevelt Roads and supporting bases and air fields without finding it necessary to govern the whole island.

THE NAZI TRIALS

A re-reading of Mr. Justice Jackson's report to the President on the forthcoming trials of the German war criminals before an improvised international tribunal arouses many misgivings.

We can see no possible objection to trying the Nazi leaders and others responsible for German crimes in established courts for violating national laws which were in existence at the time the offenses occurred. If this simple rule were followed, none of the guilty would escape the hangman. The Jackson plan to achieve the same end calls for ex post facto proceedings, in courts recruited for the purpose.

Mr. Justice Jackson has evolved the theory that the law the Nazis violated is the Kellogg-Briand outlawry of war pact, but he does not deny that this treaty carried no penalties and set up no court for trying offenders. The proper use of the pact is to establish the fact that Germany's invasions of neighboring countries were illegal, for that is what the treaty plainly said. If the invasions were unlawful, it follows that every Pole, Frenchman, Czech, or Norwegian who died in the fighting or before a firing squad was the victim of murder, under Polish, French, Czech, or Norwegian law, and his murderers can be punished accordingly in the courts of those countries.

What Nazi leader could escape punishment under this theory? Not Goering, surely, for he helped plan the invasions, or any of his fellows in the top ranks of the party, or the gauleiters or any of the others whom Mr. Jackson means to bring to justice under his ex post facto scheme. Why, then, resort to a plan which offends the sense of justice and sets a precedent for some day dragging Americans before foreign judges for trial under ex post facto laws?

Moreover, the Jackson plan drips with hypocrisy. Probably few Americans as yet fully realize how grossly illegal was the conduct of our own administration in the months before Pearl Harbor. Our army and navy, taking orders from our President, violated the rules laid down for neutrals. We used our armed forces in violation of our obligations under treaties. We were engaged in a shooting war in 1941 without a declaration of war by congress and without having suffered any direct injury of the sort which is supposed to justify a declaration of war.

The hypocrisy of some of our allies is easier for Americans to see. Here, for example, is a paragraph from Mr. Justice Jackson's indictment:

"Our people were outraged by the oppressions, the cruelest forms of torture, the large-scale murder, and the wholesale confiscation of property which initiated the Nazi regime within Germany. They witnessed persecution of the greatest enormity on religious, political, and racial grounds, the breakdown of trade unions, and the liquidation of all religious and moral influences."

Read "Bolshevik" for "Nazi" and "Russia" for "Germany" and the passage makes equally good sense. A Bolshevik judge who would convict a Nazi under such an indictment would deserve to be remembered until the end of time as an archhypocrite among archhypocrites.

Mr. Jackson goes on: "This was not the legitimate activity of a state within its own boundaries but was preparatory to the launching of an international course of aggression and war, with the evil intention, openly expressed by the Nazis, of capturing the form of the German state as an instrumentality for spreading their rule to other countries."

Again make the substitution of "Bolshevik" for "Nazi" and "Russian" for "German" and the indictment is equally sound. The charge so amended can be documented a thousand times over from the writings of Lenin and Stalin, the proceedings of the Third International, and the historical record of what has happened to Finland, Poland, and a lot of other countries overrun by Russia.

It is, perhaps, unnecessary to add that the English jurists summoned to sit in judgment will be chosen by a government whose predecessors recognized the Nazi gang as the lawful rulers of Germany, dealt with them, and assented to many of their most offensive acts.

There is no need to resort to blatant hypocrisy to convict the Nazi criminals. There is no need to improvise ex post facto laws and kangaroo courts. The right way to dispose of the Nazis is to try them under existing laws in existing national courts. No guilty man will escape.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

AUTOBITUARIES

Ipse Dixit's cheery note, "My husband says according to my budget we died two months ago," should be studied, especially in connection with other curious events of recent date. There may be need for an expanded definition of the word posthumous to cover not only works published but works written after the decease of the author.

Contributors to A Line o' Type or Two may well be discouraged if obliged to compete with the dead. It must have been disquieting to some to observe that the late Julius Caesar in collaboration with E. C. Bussert was experting on the peace conference a few days ago, that Alexander Pope and Thomas Gray grabbed space for a pair of couplets not even new, that Shakespeare seized 50 per cent of yesterday's colophon and even added his initials to the Line as a whole, and that Marcus Aurelius strolled in on the arm of Dr. Rousseau Van Voorhies to offer unsolicited advice to Dr. Collins on How to Take a Vacation.

But perhaps the most menacing case is that of Jinks the Poet, who in his first contribution announced his death, glibly explaining, "This is July—that's when we die." He has been writing ever since, answering a reprimand we mailed him [care of Charon, Ferry House, Styx] for trying to rhyme "verse" with "scarce."

Jinks' latest note gives his new permanent address, Elysian Fields, Subdiv. 7, Lot 11. "My brother-poet, Geoff Chaucer, resident here on adjacent lot," says Jinks, "joins me in demanding a proper standard of latitude for rhymes with words like scarce, scarcity, and cites his own Compleynt of Venus [lines 79-82]."

> . . . to me hit is a greet penaunce
> Sith rym in English hath swich scarcitee
> To folowe word by word the curiositee
> Of Graunson . . .

No more Chaucer, please, Jinks. He wrote English before anybody knew how to spell or pronounce it.

TIME'S UP, CHLORIS

[Horace, Book III., Ode XV.]

Chloris, you're an aged lady who, on a veranda shady,
Ought to rock away the remnant of your life.
Yet, altho your hair is graying,
Palsied in the dance you're swaying,
Don't you think a husband ever wants his wife?

When a juke box beats it out you get full of beer and shout,
And participate in bouts you shouldn't oughter;
Seeking kisses 'neath the rose
Is, every other person knows,
Pleasure better fit for Pholoë, your daughter.

She is fair of face and limb, where your beauty has grown dim,
For your figure once so trim is rather floppy.
So, remove yourself from sight!
But, O Chloris, when you write
Your memoirs don't forget I want a copy.

It's a Secretion

[From Godey's Lady's Book, January, 1868]

Each quarter the quantity of bad poetry goes on increasing. No criticism, however severe, can arrest its progress. We are obliged to fall back upon Swift's theory: "Poetry is a natural or morbid secretion of the brain. As I would not suddenly stop a cold in the head, I would as little hinder a man from writing poetry." It is impossible, too, to be very angry with these dwellers on "the Lowlands of Parnassus." They are generally inspired with the most amiable thoughts. But goodness is not always a substitute for inspiration; kind wishes will not always make accurate rhymes; kind sentiments will not supply thought, nor the most orthodox religion protect us from blunders in grammar.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

N. L. asks: "Does a soldier's pay from the army continue when he is absent without leave? If he is absent for a month or more is his allowance to his wife stopped? Does the government pay his insurance?"

No money accures to a soldier during the time he is absent from duty without proper authority, and if payment is made from any sum credited to his account during the period of absence he becomes indebted to the government for the full amount. After he is restored to pay status, monthly deductions are made from his pay roll account until the debt is paid. If a soldier is absent for a month or more his company commander must cancel his insurance, and in order to be insured again the soldier must make a new application. If the man's allowance to dependents is not canceled the $22 which he must contribute toward the family allowance becomes part of his debt. Absence without leave and failure to reapply for insurance are the reasons why some dependents have been unable to collect insurance after men were killed in action, and the A. W. O. L. is the reason a number of men have become heavily indebted to the government.

B. W. asks: "Is my son's widow who lives in an allied country entitled to six months' pay and his mustering out pay as a result of his death in a plane crash? Can she receive a widow's pension and his insurance if she remains in her native country?"

The widow is entitled to six months' pay, but no mustering out pay. She also is entitled to the insurance and pension regardless of where she lives.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

A MOVABLE LUMP ON A WRIST

NOW and then an individual is surprised to find a lump forming on one of his wrists. The area may look as if a bone were out of place yet he does not remember having been injured.

Sooner or later his curiosity gets the best of him and he seeks medical advice. The doctor diagnoses a ganglion and reassures the patient on its benign nature.

This swelling is in reality a small cyst containing a thick, mucuslike fluid. The name is derived from the Greeks who considered it a "knot of tissue." Altho more common on the back of a wrist, the blemishes may be exhibited on the ankles, knees, or the top side of the fingers or hands.

As a rule, the region near joints or in the proximity of the sheaths about tendons are popular sites. For many years physicians thought that there was a close relationship to the latter structure and even today some believe that a rupture of this covering is responsible. There seems to be a constitutional tendency and most victims are young women of slender build. At any rate, no explanation has been offered which satisfies every one. Many authorities refer to it as a tumor, but not of the cancerous variety.

Because of the location, it seems logical to assume that strain is a factor. Typists and piano players are prone to develop the lesions on the wrist; those who walk about, stand for prolonged periods, or have evidence of broken arches are more likely to manifest them on the ankles.

These cysts vary in size from a millet seed to a small egg. When situated along a tendon which pulls up a toe, they are generally small, whereas the larger ones are usually seen about the knees or the wrists. Pain is present in only about one-half the cases but the resulting disability is minimal unless they become infected. The majority can be squeezed or moved about without the slightest discomfort.

In the old days treatment was simple. The patient laid his arm upon the table, gritted his teeth, and the physician hit the enlargement with the family Bible. The good book was selected because it was the biggest, and sometimes the only volume in the household. The force was sufficient to break the protuberance, causing the contents to escape into the tissues beneath the skin. In due time, absorption took place and the swelling disappeared. The only trouble with this method was that in some instances more liquid would accumulate and before long the ganglion had returned.

Now the cyst is removed intact under a suitable anesthetic. For those who are not convinced that the defect is worth surgery, another procedure is available. The fluid is withdrawn with a needle and syringe and an irritating substance, similar to a preparation used to eliminate varicose veins, is injected. The hope is that the sac will be destroyed and replaced by scar tissue.

A still more conservative plan is to apply a pressure bandage. Occasionally this is successful. Fortunately, many disappear spontaneously.

NERVOUS GIRL

J. S. writes: I am almost 16 years old and, for six months, I have been troubled with an almost constant feeling of nausea. Is it possible that a nervous condition is responsible?

REPLY

This is a good possibility, but you are too young to allow the troubles of the world to weigh so heavily upon you. Consult the family physician and he may discover the basis of your worries or unrest.

BLACK AND BLUE MARKS

F. E. H. writes: Several times in the last month black and blue spots have appeared on my hands. They look as tho a blood vessel had burst. What could this be?

REPLY

The tendency to bruise easily or bleed beneath the skin may mean that the capillaries are fragile or that the clotting mechanism is at fault. Occasionally no cause can be found. The question can be answered by submitting to the usual tests for purpura studies.

ROUGE

S. L. writes: Can rouge harm the face in any way?

REPLY

Only if irritating to the skin or if an allergy exists. I think it is here to stay.

CARROTS

R. W. writes: Since carrots are sweet, are they fattening?

REPLY

Not unless you ate bushels of them daily—in addition to your regular meals. They are low in calories.

War's End

Unconditional surrender can't be far off. A janitor collecting garbage on the near north side wore a marine's jungle camouflage suit, a doorman on Oak street wore an army officer's cap, insigne removed, and the zoot suit boy on the south side wore, a neat contrast with his electric blue rompers and his high yellow shoes, a white sailor cap.

Rumor Victim

Staff Sgt. George McMillan, a marine combat correspondent, passed thru town last week on his way home from Okinawa and displayed a snapshot of a building he identified as the Naha hotel. After the island was ours, an Okinawan told him the hotel had been built by an Okinawan who operated it on the American plan. In the big carrier raid on the island last Oct. 10, every building in Naha was leveled except the hotel. The nasty rumor then spread that the owner was an enemy agent. Without further argument, he fled to the hills and hasn't been seen since. Sgt. McMillan, by the way, is not a man to withhold praise of a rival outfit in the services. Returning from 18 months in the Pacific, he saw San Diego rising over the gunwales of his ship. Studying the beautiful little city nestling there, he observed, "Say, the Seabees have been here a long time, haven't they?"

Home Is Perfect

An army nurse, Lt. Evelyn Street, came home on the Queen Elizabeth a few weeks ago greatly relieved at having a chance to ride on good old American trains again. For a good two years she had been thoroly irritated by the English trains which carried her from London to Hereford, six hours away, where she was stationed at the 156th general hospital. In common with all the American nurses and doctors, she traveled in mortal terror of missing the town completely, for English trainmen never call out a station; getting where you are going is your responsibility, not theirs. Either you recognize your stop or you call out a window to a platform lounger and ask what town it is. "In America," Lt. Street would tell the astonished British, "trainmen call out the next stop. They wake you if you're asleep. You can never go by your town on our trains."

Even after several days in America, American trains still looked good to her. Of course, it did take 24 hours for her special train of nurses to get from Camp Kilmer, N. J., to Chicago, and it did take five hours to get from Chicago to Fort Sheridan, but at last she entrained for her home in Dixon, Ill., and relaxed. She relaxed too much, for she looked out the train window finally to see a familiar platform [racing by] and on it her family looking eagerly at the moving train. It was Dixon, all right, but she was on a San Francisco coach. She got off at Sterling, 12 miles beyond, and caught another train home.

Her Wishes Were Three

The general public should extend the greatest possible sympathy to the young lady who appeared at a greeting card counter the other day to ask for a birthday card she had bought there a few weeks previously. The card was covered with purple lilacs, she said, and contained three distinct wishes, altho she couldn't recall what the wishes were. The clerk searched the stock, found there were no more, and offered to order another card. "O, no, thank you," the girl said. "I sent it to a friend of mine overseas, and he liked it so well I just thought I'd come back and study it more carefully to see why."

SEN. VANDENBERG INTERVIEWS MR. VANDENBERG

Washington, D. C., July 20—I have greatly enjoyed The Tribune's good tempered editorial in which "Sen. Vandenberg" is invited to square his present views on international relations with those of "Mr. Vandenberg" who wrote a book extolling "nationalism" in 1926. [That seems like a thousand years ago.] Frankly, I think you sum up the situation yourself and answer your own question when you say that "the future in 1926 doesn't seem to be quite the same thing to the senator as it is in 1945." I accept your verdict and make it my own. I confess that the world looks like a very different place to me in 1945 than it did in 1926. I am trying to adjust my own thinking to this world of today. I may add that I believe "Mr. Vandenberg" would agree with "Sen. Vandenberg" that we must face conditions as they are—and that 1945 is not 1926 in any of these aspects.

Under such circumstances I am really surprised that "Sen. Vandenberg" can still endorse so much that "Mr. Vandenberg" wrote two decades ago when the tremendous dislocations of 1930-'45 and the bloody lessons of World War II. had not even cast a preliminary shadow on the world.

I still think that the primary obligation of Americans is to America. I still think that "no man can neglect his own house and home and compensate society by taking a benevolent interest in his neighbors." I still believe that stalwart, sturdy, intelligent nationalism is the indispensable root of useful international coöperation. I am still totally opposed to anything like a "super-government" or a "world state." [In my opinion, nothing of the latter sort is involved in the San Francisco Charter.] "Sen. Vandenberg" agrees with "Mr. Vandenberg" in all of these respects.

I doubt that "Mr. Vandenberg," on the other hand, would find any inconsistency in today's attitude of "Sen. Vandenberg" when he wants, if possible, to protect this national life against the hazards of another world war which—in the light of the horrible progress in the science of mass murder—would threaten the survival of civilization itself. I doubt that "Mr. Vandenberg" would find any threat to American independent welfare in "Sen. Vandenberg's" willingness to continue to coöperate with the united nations, on a basis which leaves us totally in control of our own contributions, to the end that peace and security shall be preserved. I doubt that "Mr. Vandenberg" would want "Sen. Vandenberg" to oppose our only hope of collective security—which means as much to America as to any other land on earth. I think "Mr. Vandenberg" would agree with "Sen. Vandenberg" that 1945 with its robots and its rockets is not 1926 in this regard.

The real argument seems to be over my quoted statement that "if we were to require the consent of congress to every use of force [by the new security council] we would not only violate the spirit of the charter but the spirit of the Constitution as well." If you will be good enough to underline the word "every" you will have my meaning. It is perfectly clear that there are two constitutional ways to use our troops: [1] by the President [without reference to congress] as has been done 72 times in the last 150 years; [2] by act of congress. Both methods are essential. Both methods must be protected. I want to write a statutory rule of conduct under which our representative on the security council will vote under instructions from the President on the one hand or by order of congress on the other hand, precisely as has been the constitutional practice for 150 years. That could not be done if every such question, no matter how summary, had to await submission to congress. I seek the perpetuation of the total spirit of all the Constitution as it has lived for 150 years.

In behalf of both "Mr. Vandenberg" [1926] and "Sen. Vandenberg" [1945] I thank you for the privilege of commenting upon your editorial, and for the good spirit in which you have called these two gentlemen to mutual account.

A. H. Vandenberg

OVERSTAFFED HOSPITAL

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 16—I wish to comment on your editorial, "Chair Borne" in The Tribune of July 13. Its only fault is that it is an understatement. Allow me to illustrate the employment of a vast personnel to accomplish a trivial task. The installation where I am assigned is a station hospital. It consists of 200 officers and nurses, 400 enlisted men, 100 civilians, and 100 POWs, total, 800. There are 250 patients in the hospital, most of whom are ward fillers—i. e., men hospitalized for observation, convalescence, or slight injuries. About 25 of these cases are serious enough to warrant hospitalization in civilian practice. The remainder walk to the mess hall, attend entertainment, and construct jewelry and model jeeps. Since when are we so abundantly supplied with man power we can use 800 people to care for 25?

OUR MISSION AGAINST JAPAN

Monticello, Ill., July 16—There can be but one legitimate reason for continuing this war and that is to render Japan militarily impotent. If Japan will surrender her war machine, withdraw from all occupied territory, cede the United States Okinawa and the mandated islands, and allow her sea coasts to be patroled, we should quit the war and allow Japan to take care of her own internal affairs. We have no boys to sacrifice for mere revenge or in order to exterminate an economic rival.

WILL

Chicago, July 23—Will my will be legal if I write it out in longhand, dispensing with the services of a lawyer or notary?

L. B.

While the statute does not require the employment of an attorney, we consider such employment advisable. If you try to economize by dispensing with expert help, you are likely to make mistakes which will cost much more than an attorney would have charged to see that the job was done right in the first place. In addition, an attorney might make valuable suggestions as to the wisdom of your testamentary plan.

If, despite the above, you wish to try to handle the matter for yourself, you should obtain a printed form from a stationer and see that it is executed in strict accordance with the attestation clause which precedes the space for signatures of witnesses. The services of a notary are not necessary, and it is not safe to assume that a notary will be a competent adviser.

MICHIGAN PRISON SCANDAL HINTED IN QUIZ REPORT

Medley Escape Cause of 4 Months' Probe

Lansing, Mich., July 23 [Special] —A quiet four months investigation of the southern Michigan prison at Jackson, launched after the easy escape of Killer Joe Medley and reports of numerous scandals in the world's largest penitentiary, was disclosed tonight by Atty. Gen. John R. Dethmers with the announcement he is ready to report on his sweeping inquiry.

Dethmers said he had taken 5,000 pages of testimony, most of it obtained in questioning witnesses in the state police barracks adjacent to the big prison. The attorney general will make his report public in four sections, with the first part released tomorrow.

Altho there have been many rumors of irregularities at the penitentiary, Dethmers said his inquiry "was perhaps brought to a head" by the escape last Nov. 27 of Medley, who has since been sentenced to the electric chair for the murder of red haired Mrs. Nancy Boyer in Washington, D. C., on March 6.

Medley Absconded

Medley, 43, debonair admirer of red heads, was serving a 30 to 60 year term for a robbery-kidnaping when he left prison with nearly $1,000 of inmates' contributions for war bonds. A trusty collector for such purchases, he fled from a prison guard who had driven him to downtown Jackson.

There have been reports that inmates rather than the guards control internal affairs at the prison and talk of a political clique of criminals who control jobs, sell privileges, permit gambling, and use of liquor and narcotics.

Sharp comment has been caused by the appearance of prison inmates in Jackson, Detroit, Port Huron, and elsewhere outside the penitentiary grounds. It has been reported that the price of "liberty" to downtown Jackson is $5, with the additional requisite that the prisoner pay the expenses of the guard who accompanies him.

Most of the criticism has been directed at Warden Harry H. Jackson, in control at the prison for nearly 15 years and whose $7,800 a year salary is the highest paid a state employe with civil service rating.

Suspended in 1941

In 1941 Jackson was suspended for three weeks by the then governor, Murray D. Van Wagoner, for furnishing prison labor to remodel the home of the Jackson postmaster. At the same time William R. Burke, manager of prison industries, was suspended for a week for selling prison canned goods to private citizens.

The suspensions took place shortly after disclosures that prison employes were using excessive gasoline allowances and that the sale of candy and cigars in the lobby had been used to buy awnings for the warden's residence and gold badges for members of the state corrections commission.

Garrett Heyns, director of the commission, made the charges against Warden Jackson in 1941 and asked state police to investigate the prison following Medley's escape, but before he got well started Atty. Gen. Dethmers moved in and took over the inquiry, objecting to the commission probing its own administration.

Atlanta, Ga., July 23 (AP)—The "Commando"—Sgt. Charles Kelly—became just plain Charles Kelly of Pittsburgh today. His army discharge in his pocket, the soldier who mowed down 40 Nazis in a single foray in Italy bought a ticket for home.

In Pittsburgh he will join his bride of a few months and start to work in a war plant.

At a local haberdashery Kelly tried on a civilian suit and commented: "It feels 100 per cent cooler."

Kelly—veteran of the Italian campaign—was discharged from the army under a special provision allowing holders of the congressional medal to resign.

MICHIGAN WARS ON POACHERS IN QUEST OF MEAT

Lansing, Mich., July 23 [Special].—In an attempt to stamp out deer poaching in northern Michigan by meat hungry hunters, the state conservation department stopped 4,500 automobiles last night on six major highways and arrested 46 persons for violating game laws.

Seventy-five conservation officers, 25 fire wardens, and a number of state police coöperated in the drive, which started at 6 p. m. and continued until dawn. Barriers were placed along highways roughly coinciding with a line across the state from Bay City to Muskegon.

Report Many Deer Killed

C. A. Paquin, head of the educational division of the conservation department, said reports had been coming in for weeks that deer were being slain in large numbers by persons hoping to relieve the meat shortage by illegal hunting. The regular deer season is from Nov. 15 to 30.

Ten of the 46 arrested last night were charged with illegal taking of deer. The other 36 were seized for other game law violations, such as exceeding the daily limit of fish.

Conservation officials said one car had two deer and a fawn and another had a 15 pound fawn. Half a deer carcass was found in each of two other machines. A fishing violation was cited in the case of one driver who had 71 bluegills, on which the daily limit is 15.

Face Fines, Jail Terms

Paquin said the persons arrested were taken to justice courts in the areas where the arrests were made. The maximum penalty for conservation offenses, he said, is a $100 fine and 90 days in jail.

Paquin explained that the Michigan conservation law permits a search of cars if officers have reason to suspect that the cars contain evidence of game law violations. No court test of the right to search cars has been made, he added.

Howard R. Sayre, head of the department's enforcement division, who directed the drive, said that many cars contained loaded rifles, indicating that the motorists were on the lookout for a chance to pick up meat at any opportunity.

Deputizes 50 Citizens

Percy Hoffmaster, conservation director, expressed concern at the wide scope of illicit hunting. He said the situation in the vicinity of Clare had grown so bad that the sheriff had deputized 50 citizens to help track down out-of-season hunters.

Prior to the drive on the highways, six deer hunters had been arrested in the Mio and Gladwin forest areas.

Conservation officials said they had received reports that medium sized deer bring from $50 to $75 in southern Michigan cities.

SALE OF FARM EGGS TOLD AT TRIAL OF 4 IN HOOPER SLAYING

Battle Creek, Mich., July 23 [Special] — A farm woman's eggbook today was introduced as evidence in the trial of four Detroit men accused of conspiring to murder State Sen. Warren G. Hooper, who was mysteriously shot to death last Jan. 11.

The owner of the book, Mrs. Alice Nice of near Albion, testified she sold two dozen eggs last Dec. 30 to Sam Fleisher, one of the defendants. The state has charged that he and Sam Abramowitz, who turned state's evidence, were then on their way to Hooper's home town of Albion to slay him if the opportunity presented itself. The three other men on trial are Harry Fleischer, Pete Mahoney, and Mike Selik.

Mrs. Nice identified Fleisher as the man who bought the eggs from her on that day. Her account bore out the previous testimony of Abramowitz that they had stopped at a farm for eggs on that trip to Albion.

WOMAN WITNESS IN SHOOTING AT TAVERN IS SLAIN

Felled by Gun Blast Thru Window

East St. Louis, Ill., July 23 [Special]—Miss Kathryn Morrison, 22, an East St. Louis waitress, free under bond as a material witness in the mysterious shooting last Monday of Joseph Callahan, 28, East St. Louis ironworker, was shot and killed early this morning while working in a Madison tavern, five miles north of here.

Miss Morrison received in the chest the full blast of a shotgun fired thru a screened tavern window opening into an alley. No witnesses saw the assailant.

Two Waitresses Face Quiz

Two other young women waitresses at the tavern were held by Madison police as witnesses and were to be questioned by Assistant State's Atty. John B. Harris.

Chief of Police Steve Lengyel of Madison told reporters the girls were with Miss Morrison in a rear room of the tavern when the shotgun blast was fired at her thru a window.

Police quoted the other waitresses, whose names were withheld, as saying that Miss Morrison had told them several times during the last week that she was worried and "had a feeling something was going to happen."

Miss Morrison, Callahan, and another couple were seated in a car in front of the same tavern at 1:10 a. m. last Monday when, according to Miss Morrison's story to police, another car drew up and two men alighted and approached the car. Miss Morrison related that she got out of the car and in a struggle with one of the men was slugged with the butt of a gun. When she revived, she said, Callahan was lying in the street, a bullet wound in his chest.

Recovers at Hospital

Callahan was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital where his condition remained critical for several days. Recently he improved and told police the shooting was over "some labor trouble." At that time Miss Morrison and the other couple were held as witnesses, but later were released under $1,000 bonds.

Immediately after the shooting today, police ordered closing of the tavern, operated under a license issued to Frank Baltz and Cash Hill. Chief Lengyel said it will remain closed until an investigation is completed.

Callahan, it was learned, previously named two suspects, but neither has been apprehended by police.

Police said records show Miss Morrison previously was arrested by East St. Louis police on charges of vagrancy and disorderly conduct, but the charges were dropped for lack of prosecution.

HOTEL SLAYING CHARGE IS FILED AGAINST SAILOR

Miami, Fla., July 23 [Special]—A charge of manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Ella Mae Eames was filed today in Criminal court against William Parker, 19, navy seaman, by County Solicitor Robert Taylor.

Parker was ordered held for trial after the nude body of Mrs. Eames, 42, the estranged wife of a Brookline, Mass., pastor, was found July 15 in an alley near his hotel. He told police he had met her in a bar and that they had gone to his hotel. He said he struck her with a beer bottle after she had struck him with one and that he put her body in the alley after he found that she was dead.

Taylor said he hoped to begin Parker's trial tomorrow. The sailor, who is from Toledo, O., is free on $1,000 bond.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

July 23, 1945

MARY MEADE'S recent successful experiment in the cooking of a young woodchuck provided no surprise for outdoor fans who either have prepared 'chucks in the field or heard stories of old time woodsmen who considered the woodchuck a real delicacy. Horace Kephart, the North Carolina wildlife authority, often has repeated this conversation with a Smoky Mountain neighbor. Kephart asked the mountaineer if he ever had eaten a woodchuck.

"Reckon I don't know what them is," the man replied.

"Same as groundhog," Kephart answered.

"Oh, groundhogs. I've et dozens of 'em."

"How do you cook them?"

Pepper 'em; Sage 'em

"Cut the leetle red kernels out from under their forelegs; then bile 'em and leave all the strong in the water; then pepper 'em and sage 'em, and put 'em in a pan, and bake 'em to a nice rich brown, and then I don't want nobody there but me."

Miss Meade's method of preparing the woodchuck, which was killed on the Wheaton farm after invading one of the farm gardens, was not greatly different from that followed by the Carolina mountaineer. The meat simmered in a pan for 45 minutes, then was rolled in flour, with pepper, salt, and sage added. Then it was braised in its own fat, and cooked in broth in a covered skillet.

Half a cup of red wine was added to the broth, after which the meat was left to simmer for half an hour. Four persons ate the dish with relish and asked for a return invitation to the next woodchuck dinner.

Very Clean Animals

Woodchucks are exceptionally clean animals, and no one who knows their feeding habits objects to eating this furbearer. They are strict vegetarians, their food consisting mainly of grasses and clover. They occasionally will visit farm gardens to eat snap bean foliage, cabbages, pumpkin vines, and sweet corn.

Farmers consider large numbers of woodchucks a nuisance because of this habit of invading gardens and also because their underground dens are a menace to cattle, horses, and other live stock. Occasionally a horse or steer will step into a den entrance with resultant injury.

In most states, as in Illinois, it is legal to kill woodchucks at any time of the year.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS who have large cabbage plantings should not wait too long to harvest the most advanced heads. This is especially true if the entire crop is to be used in fresh form, because if all plants are allowed to grow to full maturity there is danger of the heads splitting. The large, flat-headed cabbage varieties are especially subject to splitting. When this occurs, the plants are subjected to damage by rain and insects.

A trick used by many gardeners to help prevent splitting of the tops of cabbage heads is that of jerking the roots when the plants have reached full size or show signs of splitting.

By placing the hands under the lower leaves and pulling the root up a fraction of an inch, the small root hairs are dislodged from the soil, arresting plant development. If this is done correctly, the plants will remain in excellent condition even the growth is stopped.

VET MATERNITY AID PROGRAM IS LIBERALIZED

Springfield, Ill., July 23 (AP)—Liberalization of the eligibility policy in administering federal emergency maternity and infant care for wives and babies of service men was announced today by the state health department.

The new policy, retroactive to May 10, 1943, makes the only eligibility requirement proof that the wife was pregnant or that the child was less than a year old while the service man was in one of the four lowest pay grades or while he was an aviation cadet.

Under former regulations, application for benefits thru the federal financed program had to be made while the service man was in one of the eligible pay grades.

CHARGES NAZIS SLEW 6 MILLION JEWS IN POLAND

Dr. Nathan Eck

Majlech Topiol

Dr. Nathan Eck, member of the Polish and French undergrounds, said yesterday in a press conference at Hotel Sherman that the Germans killed six or seven million Polish Jews in their "murder factories," while starvation killed about one million.

He and Majlech Topiol, a leader of the Jewish Maqui underground movement in France, were guests of the American Federation for Polish Jews, the Chicago chapter of which is headed by Herman Bush.

Topiol said that Jews had their own Maqui units. They seized the French city of Castex and destroyed an armored train, killing 200 Germans. Jews survived in France, he said, because the French fought any anti-German.

OPA EXPECTED TO CUT POINTS ON BEEF AND LAMB NEXT SUNDAY

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP)—The OPA is preparing to lower beef, veal, and lamb ration points for the August ration period, it was disclosed tonight.

Reductions of one or two points a pound on steaks, roasts, and other cuts of beef probably will be announced Wednesday and made effective Sunday, July 29. Lamb and veal points will go down as much and perhaps slightly more.

Pork will be omitted from what officials described as the "fairly general" point reduction, because the marketing of live hogs has continued slow. Mutton has a zero point value because there is so little of it that rationing is not considered worth while.

While OPA did not confirm officially the forthcoming changes, the agency's spokesman acknowledged that such action "would appear logical" if reports of improved supply and distribution of meat prove out as expected.

Only 15 Have Registered Enemy Souvenir Weapons

James McCormick, head of the city's gun registration department, said yesterday that only 15 persons in Chicago have complied with a government regulation requiring registration of all souvenir enemy weapons sent or brought to this country. He said he had no idea how many enemy firearms have been brought to Chicago, but he believed that the number must run into the hundreds.

COURT ENJOINS HOMES PROJECT AT WILLOW RUN

Detroit, Mich., July 23 [Special]—Construction of a 3½ million dollar government housing project in the area of the Willow Run bomber plant, which had been protested by the Ford Motor company, was delayed indefinitely today by Federal Judge Frank A. Picard, who made a temporary restraining order returnable Sept. 4.

The Ford company and other land owners in the vicinity had asserted the 1,410 unit project was unnecessary because it is "not needed in the war effort and has no connection with it." The government already has seized 173 acres of land for the project under war powers legislation.

The Ford company said the bomber plant has closed except for a skeleton crew and "we are laying people off daily at the Rouge plant."

Plans Are Laid for Horse Show at Oak Brook

BY JUDITH CASS

NOT for profit, not for charity, but purely to stimulate interest in horses is the Oak Brook Polo club horse show, planned for Sept. 1 and 2 on the No. 7 field of the Oak Brook Polo club in Hinsdale. The field has been prepared as a permanent horse show field, and spectators will be able to enjoy the two day event either from parking spaces around the exhibition space or from a grandstand.

L. F. [Pete] Caufield and Theodore A. Mohlman are serving as general chairmen of the show, with Mrs. Eugene T. Scott as secretary and treasurer. Mr. Mohlman also is in charge of entries and the prize list, while Mr. Caufield will have the additional job of chairman of parking spaces and admission. Mrs. Mohlman is in charge of trophies; Allen Robb is chairman of the stabling committee; Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Johnson will handle the program sale; Francis Newcomb will serve as announcer, and James Emmett Jr., will be ringmaster. Mrs. Lawrence Johnson is chairman of publicity and social activities, of which there will be many over the week-end.

Soft drinks, ice cream, and sandwiches will be available in the concessions, of which Jack Hilton will be in charge. The club is located on York road between 22d and 31st sts., and may be reached by taxicab from the Hinsdale station.

Here and There

Mrs. Harry L. Street's four daughters are enjoying a reunion in Winnetka, as one of them, Mrs. James R. Shannon, has brought her two sons, Reid and John, from Mount Vernon, N. Y., for a three week visit. Mrs. Shannon and her children are staying with her sister, Mrs. Thomas H. Knorr, and Mr. Knorr. The Shannons lived in Denver, Colo., until Lt. Shannon was sent to New York with the naval reserve.

Mrs. Eric Lambart and her daughter, Karen, are living with Mrs. Street, and the fourth sister of the family, Miss Marjorie Street, while Comdr. Lambart is serving on an aircraft carrier in the Pacific. The last of this month Mr. and Mrs. Knorr will spend a week at the Sayner hotel in Sayner, Wis., near Camp Highland, where their oldest child, Hunter, is staying this summer.

The welcome mat is out for two young naval officers who are at home on leave, Lt. Graham Fairbank and Lt. [j. g.] Justin A. Stanley. Miss Betty Vilas will give a small cocktail party today for Lt. and Mrs. Fairbank, who plan to spend next week quietly in Wisconsin, leaving this week-end with their two small daughters. Both the Fairbanks and the Stanleys will see old friends at a beer party the C. Philip Heartburgs will give Thursday night and at a small cocktail gathering in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lambert K. Fish Jr. tomorrow evening.

At home on a 30 day leave is Corp. Thomas C. Fischer, who surprised his parents, the G. Lyle Fischers of Glencoe, by arriving unexpectedly from Europe. Corp. Fischer expects to be sent to the Pacific war theater following an advanced training course.

Mrs. Warren A. Lamson does not expect to meet her new grandson, George Atherton Locke, until next winter, when she will make her annual trip to Arizona unless travel condftions are too strenuous. The baby son of Mr. and Mrs. George

Postoffice

Loyal companies making a determined effort to keep the flow of letters going out to men [and women] in service may be interested in a plan put in operation by Harry T. Johnson at the Clearing branch of Western Electric.

There a small, attractive postoffice has been built with cubbyholes for letters received from each Western Electric service man, filed under his name. In this way, all employes can keep in touch with the latest news of a former associate by scanning his mailbox. And, furnished with this timely inspiration, plus photographs accompanied by correct addresses [placarded beside the mailboxes]—and writing material close at hand for answering soldier mail—the employes feel they have no reason not to live up to their motto: "Read 'Em and Write 'Em."

All that is required to put such a plan in operation is a small amount of paint, some wood, and ingenuity. Then "playing postoffice" becomes a very real contribution to that important morale booster—letters from home.

Office Irk

To have the boss call me just at 5 p. m. as I am dashing out and say, "Take just a short note—I don't care when you write it," so I get my book and take the lengthy letter; but wait! That is not the irk, which comes as he finishes, "O, put a postscript on there and tell him to call me between 10 and 11 o'clock tomorrow morning."

AMY FROM ROCKFORD

Omission

My mother never taught me much
Of cooking, baking pies, and such.
Her argument for that, you see,
Was just that, being apron free,
My bright career I'd follow thru—
I'd little thought of meeting you.
What now of cooking, Mother, dear,
Since matrimony's my career?

The founder of the first public school nursery in the United States [at Franklin public school in Chicago] was Rose Haas Aischuler. . . . The first WAC to receive a promotion from enlisted ranks [because of a war department order sanctioning commissions of persons with special skills] was 2d Lt. Elizabeth Benson, a former lawyer. However, it was her knowledge of lip reading [she had taught it for 17 years] which boosted her from corporal to lieutenant. Stylists Hail Exciting Hattie Carnegie Show

BY REA SEEGER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, July 23—Her temporary lapse from grace and glamour of last season's showing completely forgotten. Hattie Carnegie is back again with romantically beautiful clothes and has easily resumed her tip-top position as designer for American women. The night show of fall and winter fashions was as exciting as any theatrical first night. All the fashion writers here for the fifth annual press week sponsored by the New York Dress Institute came in to watch and cheer the performance, for Carnegie again staged the golden show.

Even the colors were named to live up to the tradition of elegance opulence, and high drama. Winter blonde, for instance, a lush golden cream tone, is seen in Carnegie suits, subtle one piece dresses and coats and is infinitely preferable to the winter white craze. Then for timely interest, what could equal the swank of the Dumbarton stripes a smart striped wool used for many simple but effective suits and available in such flattering shades as blue, raspberry, gold, and green? One dress of dull black also reflected the current events of the day with a slanted band of dull color, called Kremlin green, streaked across the chest from right shoulder to left hip and a band of the same slashed thru the lower half of the right sleeve. These are just particularly tempting hints of the detail of Carnegie originals.

Handsome coats that were inimitably individual provoked many a gasp. Using big bold checks of red and purple, positive stripes of gray, white, and black, the fabric alone provided all the necessary eye appeal. Next in interest were the dashing Beau Brummel suits in black or jewel shades or the breath taking beauties in winter blonde color.

Last and the peak of the excitement were the Hattie Carnegie evening gowns and that dreamlike vision of a bridal gown in heavy ivory faille. The skirt was full and gathered to achieve the "miniature waist," another Carnegie detail, and for lovely contrast, the exquisite embroidery of dusky gold along the neck line and the front panel of the narrow belt. In diametric contrast . . . the picture book evening gown for some blue eyed blonde . . . a gown of stiff black faille with the entire back cut out, and around the neck in front and over the shoulders a ruching of filmy black, sprinkled with hundreds of twinkling star shaped black sequins.

Tour Thru House Will Open a New World to Your Baby

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

One thing a baby or a small child enjoys is to be taken on a tour of the house, or rather of one or another room at different times, in the arms of a grownup. It is one of the things I remember doing when I was a young mother. And now we find ourselves doing the very same thing with "our" blue-eyed baby.

"He, too, likes to peer into the mirror, with his baby face close to mine."

This baby, too, loves the long gleaming prisms of the same girandoles on the mantel and is allowed to touch them ever so gently and make them tinkle softly.

He, too, likes to peer into the mirror, with his baby face close to mine. The two pastels on the wall of our favorite kitten ["General Motors," because he purred so loud] the baby recognizes as being cats, like his own. And he enjoys the window shades which he is allowed to pull up and down with their tassels.

A little lower, the vase of red roses from the garden enthralls him. He already loves flowers and has been able for the last two months [he now is 11 months old] to hold one delicately by its stem without tearing the petals off. We say, "Pretty! Pretty!" to him softly, and just touch the flower with our own finger-tips, and he does the same.

You know, if you think, how it is; babies [I mean crawling or just-walking ones] live way down on the floor, and dozens of interesting things are up above their eye-level—on tables, chests of drawers, mantels, or the walls. It is like a little voyage of discovery for them to make this sort of tour of the house, and is incidentally one more thing to satisfy their curiosity, and so keep them from grabbing at everything, or crying when they must be denied.

You and Your Young Child is a comprehensive booklet which may be obtained by sending 18 cents to Mrs. Gladys H. Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago 11, Ill.

Thru the Looking Glass

Not one but several of our readers have lately reminded us that women aren't the only ones who need to be called to task constantly about good grooming. What, they ask, about the men?

Lord knows we agree that some men need to be cautioned. Men are extremely critical of the grooming and the daintiness of women, but we've all noticed that a lot of them aren't so fussy about the way they groom themselves.

Men need to bathe just as often if not oftener than women do. They generally wear heavier clothing, and they normally perspire more. They need to wear clean linen every day—not just the shirts that show—but immaculately clean underwear and socks. They're unattractive when they're imperfectly groomed, and sometimes they're actually offensive—and complacently ignorant of it.

And if you want to do a good deed, tip off the men in your household—the sons and brothers and husbands—about deodorants. All men should use them, not just occasionally, but regularly. It's to their advantage to be the kind of clean person who's best liked in an office or in the social world, so don't let them give you any arguments!

Then there's the matter of clean hair. It's true that most men are pretty good about this, but some just don't see the necessity of shampooing often. A necessity also exists to keep fingernails clean.

And there's nothing wrong with using a cologne, the more or less unperfumed kind. Cologne is a mild deodorant, you know, and certainly its fragrance is a lot more attractive to the innocent bystanders than the heavy, stale fumes of tobacco and perspiration which surround so many men!

Men are nice—but only when they're neat too.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Stage Notes

Rosemary Rice, who plays the adolescent letter writer who causes the complications in "Dear Ruth," is temporarily out of the Harris cast because of the illness of her mother but is expected to return tomorrow afternoon. Her role is being played by Joan Winninger, niece of Charles Winninger of "Show Boat" fame.

Hugh Marlowe of "The Voice of the Turtle" will represent the actor's point of view at a round-table theater discussion to be held at Cahn auditorium of Northwestern university at 3 p. m. Thursday. This is a feature of the Midwestern Writers' conference which opens tomorrow.

The annual picnic of the Felsenthal PTA is scheduled at 11 a. m. Thursday in Jackson park back of the Museum of Science and Industry.

ON THE RECORD

By Claudia Cassidy

Piano Music by Rubinstein and Casadesus, Operetta, Ormandy's Debussy, and Some Toscanini

Two particularly attractive piano albums are new on the record shelves, Artur Rubinstein's of Franck's Prelude, Chorale and Fugue [Victor M-1004; two 12-inch records] and Robert Casadesus' of Saint-Saëns' Concerto No. 4, C minor, with Artur Rodzinski conducting the New York Philharmonic [Columbia M-566; three 12-inch records]. The glittering showpiece of a concerto is spectacularly played with all the rococo swirls shining in pianistic perfection, riding high on an orchestral surge of incisive brilliance. Not to be outdone by Mr. Casadesus, Mr. Rubinstein's way with Franck's nobly romantic treatment of the classic mood has the sweep and flow of superb performance, and tho the recording is less than perfection, the quality of the music outweighs the flaws of reproduction.

Operetta, Notably "Carousel"

I have not been able to convince myself that operetta on records is anything more than a pallid ghost of the real thing, but a lot of people have been waiting for "Carousel" [Decca DA 400; five 12-inch records] and here it is, handsomely assembled with the New York cast, orchestra, and chorus to display Richard Rodgers' tunes, and with a sleek booklet to clear up anything you might not understand by way of Oscar Hammerstein's lyrics and excerpts from the dialog.

How "Carousel" stands up on the stage I don't yet know, but the music isn't in the same class with that of "Oklahoma!" and many of the lyrics seem contrived by comparison with the spontaneous gusto that poured from the earlier show. However, it's a hit, and perhaps we should forget its predecessor as well as its legitimate ancestor, "Liliom." For my money John Raitt's superior baritone is the best of the album, with Christine Johnson and Eric Mattson next in line. As a heroine Jan Clayton may be delightful on the stage, but on records she is just an inadequate soprano. All the favorite songs are included from "June Is Bustin' Out All Over" and "You'll Never Walk Alone" to Raitt's soliloquy, "My Boy Bill." But don't all the characters seem to be echoes of Curly, Laurey, Aunt Eller, Ado Annie, and Pore Jud? They do to me.

Decca, meanwhile, has put out its own "Up in Central Park" set [A-395; four 10-inch records], sung by Wilbur Evans, Eileen Farrell, Betty Bruce, and Celeste Holm ["The Fireman's Bride"], with the show's chorus and orchestra directed by Max Meth. I like it better than Victor's, generally speaking, but I'll still take my operetta on the stage.

Extras

Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia orchestra have a shining new album of Debussy's Two Nocturnes [Columbia MX-247; two 12-inch records]. "Clouds" is well done and "Festivals" shimmers with brilliance. . . . Best 12-inch single to reach me lately is Victor's of Arturo Toscanini and the NBC Symphony playing the prelude to "Lohengrin" as a master should play it. . . . José Iturbi plays shiny surface Chopin on another Victor 12-inch, a clear cut performance of the A-flat Polonaise. . . . But on my word of honor a third Victor 12-inch features Richard Crooks with orchestra conducted by Maximilian Pilzer, singing not only "The Trumpeter," which sounds like a bad copy of "The Two Grenadiers," but actually doing "Were You There?" with bells! For that gaunt and reverent spiritual, I refer you to Roland Hayes' Columbia single, unaccompanied and superb. . . . Columbia has a recording of Norman Corwin's "On a Note of Triumph," which I haven't had time to hear, and Gershwin is coming in by the carload.

Humor Slight in Two Russian Comedy Films

"JUBILEE"

Produced by Artkino, directed by Vladimir Petrov, featuring Victor Stanitsin, Olga Androvskaya, Vasily Toporkov, and Anastasia Zuyeva. Presented at the World Playhouse.

"MARRIAGE"

By Mae Tinée

Based on plays by Anton Chekhov, "Jubilee" is the better of the two comedies on the World Playhouse screen, but they're both pretty heavy handed and not very funny.

In "Jubilee," two women, a silly one and a shrewd one, reduce a bank president and his bookkeeper to a state of blubbering idiocy, and spoil plans for an anniversary celebration. Anastasia Zuyeva is excellent as a persistent beggar who succeeds in getting her way by stolid refusal to listen to reason. By playing dumb she makes fools of the other people involved, but that's not really much of a problem.

"Marriage" is a tiresome farce about an arranged marriage, a burlesque performed by a cast of fantastically unattractive people, led by a character who looks like a combination of Adolf Hitler and a billiard ball. As satire, it's pretty sad. If you need something for your insomnia, you might try this soporific.

Lying is a gentle art in the exercise of which certain fundamental principles must be observed. One is to avoid the telling of useless lies. Another is to tell only those that have a reasonable chance to be accepted as the truth.

Promiscuous falsecarding at the bridge table often defeats its own purpose. Particularly is this apt to be true on the defense, where you have a partner whose coöperation you may require in defeating the contract, and who might be deceived more than the declarer. However, occasionally a situation will develop in which you know that partner will have little if anything to do with the defense and consequently there is no danger in deceiving him, whereas some dust might effectively be thrown into declarer's eyes.

A most ingenious swindle was perpetrated by the West of today's hand. It required a bit of quick thinking that always gains the plaudits of this department. Our sympathies go out to declarer who was an innocent victim of his adversary's well laid plot.

South became declarer at a contract of three no trump on bidding that was normal in all respects. West led the six of diamonds which was taken with the ace in dummy. With seven top card tricks the best chance for the other two appeared to be development of the spade suit.

A low spade was led to the ace. West could see that the suit was going to produce four tricks for the declarer. He therefore immediately dropped the king under the ace. This play did not sacrifice a trick since West still had the suit stopped. Who could blame declarer for abandoning spades in favor of the club finesse? Even if the finesse failed there was still the chance that the clubs might break so that the 13th club would produce trick No. 9.

When the club finesse failed the diamond suit was cleared and South was helpless, since there was no way to develop the ninth trick without letting West in with a spade.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM

As East, you are vulnerable and hold:

♠ 9 8 4 3 ♥ 9 ♦ 10 9 5 ♣ K Q 8 7 6

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	4 hearts	?

What do you bid?

SYNOPSIS: In the homesteaders' attempt to cut wires used by the cattlemen to fence in government land for their herds, Bruce Sherrill, leader of the homesteaders, is wounded. Bruce shot Ben Randall, son of old Jeff Randall, owner of the Diamond Tail ranch.

INSTALMENT II.

RECOGNIZED

Bruce had been lucky in the horse he had commandeered. The rider swung sharply to the left, still traveling rapidly.

Presently he pulled up to listen. A coyote yelped in the distance, but no rumor of horses breaking thru the brush reached him. For the time he had evaded the enemy. He knew that before morning every mountain pass would be blocked and every ranch on the plains would be on the lookout for him. He must have been recognized. Bill Cairns had been staring at him when he jerked the horse around to start his flight. The chase would concentrate on him. He was the only one of the raiders yet identified and the one who had shot young Randall.

Not counting the peril into which the shooting had brought him, Bruce was unhappy at what he had done. He was no killer any more than he was a horse thief, but now the word would go out that he was both. What else could he have done? Before Pete reached the horse Gilcrest was holding for him Randall would have finished him if he had been let alone.

The boot of the fugitive was already soggy from the blood dripping into it. When he had time he would have to give it attention. He was cut off from his own ranch, even if he had dared go there. Before daybreak he must be out of the valley and in the hills. He decided to make for the Sleepy Cat range.

He pointed northeast, holding the buckskin to a road gait. The strength of the horse must be conserved. It would have to travel far over a wild rough country, and it must have enough stamina left for a hard race if he were seen by one of the posses.

Light was already breaking in the eastern sky when he cut the wires of the Pitchfork pasture and rode out of it into a draw leading to the foothills. A small stream ran down it, and he plodded beside this for miles, working steadily deeper into the approaches to the range. He found what he wanted at last, a gulch running into the canon, its floor sown with young pines behind which he could conceal the buckskin.

Bruce limped back to the brook, the saddle gun in one hand. The wound in his leg was paining a good deal. His blood stained stocking clung to the calf. He put the leg into the running water and let the current wash the stocking loose. The handkerchief that had been around his neck he washed, and after it had dried in the warm sun he tied it around the wound. The sock he threw away. Slowly he inched the boot on again, setting his teeth to keep from groaning. He drank deeply, and washed his face in the cool water. After the buckskin had drunk deep he headed again upstream.

He had not gone a dozen yards when he heard voices. A party of his hunters were coming up the canon. Swiftly he wheeled the horse, rode back into the gulch, and moved into the pines behind a great boulder. Bruce watched the party draw up to water. He could see the discarded sock lying beside a rock not a dozen yards from them.

"Might have gone up this gulch," a cowboy said.

"Not unless he could climb out by his eyebrows," another differed. "There's a 20 foot rock fall straight up and down at the top. Could be hiding in the pines."

The man who spoke next was Bill Cairns, wagon boss of the Pitchfork. He was a wall-eyed man with a leathery brown face.

"Could be, but isn't. Not that bird. He's way up in the range, ridin' like the heel flies are after him. He'd be a chump to fool around down here."

"Mebbe so." The cowboy who had spoken first pulled out a revolver and sent a bullet crashing thru the pines. "That's for you, Mr. Sherrill, if you're roosting there."

Cairns turned on the young fellow angrily. "What you trying to do—warn him we're around?"

"You said he wasn't there," the young rider retorted sulkily.

"He isn't. But don't pull any of that funny stuff when we get higher, Wally. Save yore bullets till you see him."

The foreman rode upstream. The others followed in single file.

Bruce reclaimed the sock and burled it in the creek beneath a rock.

A mile below this point he had passed a rocky gorge down which in the rainy season a torrent poured. He rode back and turned into it. Looking up that boulder filled steep, Bruce doubted if a horse could make it. But he had no other choice. He set the buckskin at its job.

He had to get out of the saddle long before they reached the top. Every step on foot up the gorge tortured him, but he set his teeth and took the pain. All his thought had to be given to the task of maneuvering the reluctant horse up the narrow, rock-strewn bed.

Bruce found himself on a plateau, one side of which dropped down to a small mountain park and the other fell almost sheer to the foothills below. He looked down at the sea of grass stretching to the far horizon. He made out the windmills of the Pitchfork.

All of Sherrill's sympathies were with the underprivileged nesters, but there was some justice, too, in the claim of the cattlemen. For a score of years they had been lords of all they surveyed. They had fought the Sioux and the Cheyenne, had endured droughts and blizzards while building up their herds. Their cattle had roamed over a hundred miles of free grass. By use they had a claim to it, if not by law. Then the hoe men came in to fence the creeks and plow the meadows, cutting off the cattle of the big ranches from feed and water. In retaliation, to protect their herds, the old time cattlemen began to fence all the land in sight.

Tho the sympathies of Bruce were with the newcomers, he had an uneasy feeling that nature was on the side of the range men.

None of the reasoning justified the big outfits in fencing thousands of acres of government land to prevent the small fry from running their poor herds on it. The arrogance of the Randalls and the Dalys and the Applegates would not in the end avail them. They could frighten away this or that homesteader. They could rub out another accused of rustling calves belonging to the Pitchfork or the Bar B B, but they could not stop the tide of hoe men looking toward the cow country.

Bruce dropped from the plateau to the mountain park that bounded it. At the far end of this was a thick clump of aspens running up into the entrance of a small gulch. He rode across the park, skirted the aspens, and descended into a pocket where the grass was good. After he had picketed the horse he pushed up into the gulch to a cluster of great boulders tossed together 50 feet from the floor of the trough. He lay down to rest, and in spite of his throbbing leg, fell into troubled sleep.

Mrs. Mildred C. Barber, Urbana, Ill.—As I open glass jars of home canned fruits and vegetables I place the jars that contained spoiled material in a separate box of "empties" in the basement for careful inspection before I use them again. Often the cause of spoilage is a slight imperfection in the rim of the jar.

Marjorie S., Chicago — I use a moisture-proof bag to keep my leafy vegetables fresh in the refrigerator. I wash it with soap and water at least once a week.

July 24, 1945

BY MARY MEADE

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

When you're trying to think of a hurry-up lunch which will be substantial enough to satisfy appetite and attractive enough to appeal to the eye, consider a cheese and mushroom soup rabbit. Rabbits made of cheese alone are too expensive in red points for most of us, and this variation is really good.

Cheese Mushroom Soup Rabbit
[Serves four]

1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon catsup
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 cup grated American cheese
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Heat milk and soup in upper part of a double boiler. Add remaining ingredients and heat until cheese has melted. Stir occasionally to blend. Serve on toast triangles.

Canned evaporated milk will whip as stiff as cream if it is thoroly cold. The best way to chill it is to pour the milk into an ice cube tray and chill it in the freezing compartment until ice crystals form around the edges. The bowl and beater also should be chilled. Whip rapidly until the milk is really stiff. If it fails to whip, the milk isn't quite cold enough. Chill it again and rebeat. There's no chance of making butter out of it.

Apricot Honey Sherbet
[1½ quarts]

1½ cups mashed ripe apricots
½ cup honey
1½ cups evaporated milk, ice cold
¼ cup lemon juice

Peel and mash fruit, mix with honey, and chill for an hour. Whip milk very stiff. Fold in lemon juice, then apricot mixture, lightly but thoroly. Pour at once into chilled freezing trays and freeze until firm. Peaches may be used in the recipe instead of apricots.

Fresh, raw mushrooms are good in salads, especially after being sliced and steeped for several hours in sharp French dressing. They make a good relish that way, too. Wash them in salted water, drain and slice from top to bottom, so they'll look pretty. Then marinate in well seasoned French dressing for several hours. Tuck them into any combination vegetable salad, toss them in a salad bowl, or put them into a relish dish to be eaten by themselves. A touch of garlic in that French dressing will be admired.

For an elegant sour cream dressing [saves on rationed oil], mix a cup of sour cream with 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, and a little paprika. Good with any vegetable salad, wonderful with cucumbers or sliced tomatoes.

TURN IN WASTE FATS!

Luncheon Set

E-503

BY NANCY CABOT

A luncheon cloth and napkins embroidered in butterfly and rose motifs offer excellent opportunity for needleworkers to produce a charming and colorful set. Cross-stitch is the ideal medium for this combination of flowers and butterflies, since it is as light and graceful as the subject matter.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the rose and butterfly luncheon set, No. E-503, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

THE QUESTION

Would you like to see President Truman appoint a woman to a cabinet post?

WHERE ASKED

County building.

THE ANSWERS

William J. Walsh, deputy county clerk, 7137 Wabash av. — Women vote as men do. They do practically every kind of work that a man does and are doing it efficiently. They've proved themselves to be equally intelligent. Therefore, I think they are entitled to proper representation in the cabinet. I'm in favor of it.

Irving Bilton, lawyer, 2611 Glenlake av.—There's no reason why a woman can't handle a cabinet position. Women have shown themselves to be qualified in many fields and we have had a woman in the cabinet who, some people think, did a pretty fair job. It's a big responsibility but women are as conscientious and capable as men.

Sue Davis, clerk, 1451 Adams st.—Regardless of the fact that women are intelligent and capable, a woman is still a woman. Such an important position as cabinet member should be filled by a man who can make quick, accurate decisions, is stable in his thinking, and can say what he means with the least amount of discussion.

Ann Moore, auditor, 70 E. Scott st.—Women have come a long way up the ladder and have reached a point where they offer keen competition to the best of men. If a woman is capable and able to fill a cabinet post [I know there are many such women] I think it fair that we have at least one in the cabinet.

Hyman Bogash, accountant, 1532 S. Trumbull av.—I think that having women in the cabinet is an exceptionally good idea. They think a little differently than men and tho they aren't hasty in their decisions they're usually quite accurate. It would balance the cabinet, I believe, if they had two or three women in it.

Girl Expects No. 1 Boy to Be Neat Joe

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

When the average young Joe still is in grade school, wearing corduroy knickers, striped polo shirts, and a baseball mitt, he doesn't worry too much about whether or not he looks like a fashion plate from the current "Boy's Life." But as soon as the same rugged character has reached high school, is old enough to tie his own bow tie, and exchanges those knickers and polo shirt for long trouser cords and bright reindeer sweaters, he begins to wonder whether he's strictly the boy Brummel he ought to be. For a neat and well scrubbed personal appearance ranks high on the list of any gal's requirements for her No. 1 dream boy.

No gal expects a fellow to wear a stiff shirt and a carnation in his button hole every day in the week, but they do expect a boy to look well groomed from all angles. Any boy who is neatly pressed and well scrubbed has a higher dating rating than a slow Joe who looks completely "unmade" in a pair of soiled and baggy trousers with yesterday's shirt warmed over. Whether you're wearing last year's sport shirt or the sweater you bought last Saturday, cleanliness is a must.

For school [and some fellows are going to summer school] or for just relaxing, a tee shirt or sweater with neatly creased slacks is considered "smooth." For a casual movie or coke date, your current honey chile will be happiest to see you in either a sweater and slacks or a sport shirt, slacks, and sport coat. Even if you think you do sport a trim ankle, gals have turned thumbs down on trousers turned up more than two cuff widths but they do vote for your relaxing with the tails of your plaid wool shirts out on informal occasions. In the shoe department the girls have a few words to say, too—saddle shoes and moccasins may look as if they've seen the world the hard way, but in other styles, the girls would like to be able to see their faces in the shine. [And with you such a well groomed character the gals will all be at your feet—natch.]

And the gals have just one more request—when it's a special date for dancing or a bright lights evening, do bring out your Sunday togs, a pressed suit, complete with shirt and tie. You may be a smooth operator, desirable in every way, but a little thought about grooming never hurt any fellow's date status. Even the great Van Johnson puts on a tie when he steps out for the evening!

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 23—Alexander Knox started his career as a newspaper man before turning actor. Now he has gone back to writing. He's working like mad on a play for himself and his wife, Doris Nolan. Versatile—my gosh! . . . Frank Borzage signed Stephen Bekassy for the lead in "Concerto." You'll remember he played Liszt in "Song to Remember." . . . Young Richard Jaeckel changed his mind again. He couldn't wait to join the navy. Now he's coming back on a long leave, and hopes his studio can find a picture so he can get to work the minute he's off the bounding waves. . . . Jane Greer sings two numbers in "Falcon's Alibi." It was her voice that first attracted Rudy Vallee. . . . Charles Boyer won't be able to visit France until after two pictures are canned. Did you know he's playing a Jap in one of them? . . . Ballerina Lubov Roudenko not only dances but sings in the New York production of "Polonaise." . . . They say Perry Como satisfies the public. Anyway, he got "Doll Face" and his air deal has been renewed.

After This, What Next?

Stopped in at the Crosby offices, and when the fan mail bag was opened there was a gift from a corporal in the South Pacific. Whatta you think? He sent a raincoat for a horse with ears, headpiece, and goggles made entirely of plastic. . . . William Gargan's praying that Spencer Tracy won't like Robert Sherwood's play. Gargan would like to get a chance at it. . . . The final split-up between Abbott and Costello came at Leon and Eddie's in New York, when it's claimed Costello insulted and ignored Bud completely during an appearance there. I hear from friends it was Abbott who kept the little "bad boy" going in their days of burlesque. He has always been the balance wheel. Costello's shenanigans during his last Metro picture would have made a scandal. Abbott hasn't been a well man, and this whole business has just about put him under. But the thing that's so horrible is that two grown men, who are getting the highest pay any actors ever got, would dare carry on like this when millions of our boys are carrying on for them, giving their lives so that our show might go on.

A New Name! Like It?

It's no longer Ann Hunter—she's now Nina Vail. . . . James McHugh has arranged for the National A. A. U. swimming meet here in August. Esther Williams will be an adviser. She'll swim, too. The meet will be held at Olympic stadium at night. . . . Pat Morrison, Gladys George, George Raft, and the Ken Thompsons all turned out to watch "Trio" unfold. Too bad that Lois Wheeler, Trudi Burr and Eric Linden couldn't have had a better showcase for their talent. . . . When a stranger thanked me for my interest in the Nursery School for Visually Handicapped Children, I was sitting beside Ben Meyer at Constance Hilton's cocktail party. Ben asked about the school. I told him, and he sent a check for $100. . . . Lynn Bari's husband is already building swings and playpens for the new arrival, which doesn't get here until September.

George Is Always Lucky

George Sanders will have six leading ladies in his Guy de Maupassant picture for Lewin and Lowe. You're asked to guess which lady George will fall for. That shouldn't be hard. Frenchmen as a rule don't think a woman under forty is worth making love to. . . . William Powell's trying to do the impossible—face the camera and see what's going on behind his back at the same time. He said he never worked before with four thieves. He'll be happy if they'll just do one scene without having their noses light up, their ties spin around, while their heads do the same thing. He's speaking of James Gleason, Bags Ragland, Frank McHugh and Slim Summerville, scene stealers from away back. . . . Doris Day, who opens with Les Brown at the Palladium tonight, has our talent scouts twirling in her direction. . . . Charles Barnet says it's not hard to meet expenses—you meet them everywhere.

CIGARETS? DIXIE HAS TALL CROP OF 'EM ON WAY

Auctions Start Today in 17 Georgia Towns

Auction Starts Today

Tomorrow, in 67 warehouses in 17 Georgia towns and two in Florida, the tobacco auctioneer begins his unintelligible spiel and the tobacco, at the clip of 400 piles an hour, will be sold to the signals of the buyers.

This will be start of the tobacco year, the start of a job of selling an indicated national tobacco crop of 1,890,328,000 pounds. This isn't quite as big as last year's 1,950,213,000 pounds. But last year's was the biggest crop on record.

Georgia flue cured production this year is estimated at 96,000,000 pounds by the federal bureau of agricultural economics, compared with 93,100,000 pounds last year.

This tobacco, as most of the types of tobacco grown in the southeast, is the kind that goes into cigarets. The Georgia season lasts only a few weeks. Then it moves northward into the Carolinas, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Maryland.

It Waits for Curing

The tobacco growers can get a penny a pound more for their tobacco this year. That is, under the ceiling, the buyers can pay more. The ceiling in Georgia is 40 cents a pound. In other parts of the flue cured belt stretching into the Carolinas and Virginia the average is 44.50 cents a pound.

33 RESTAURANTS CLOSED OVER POINT FAMINE

Olympia, Wash., July 23 (AP)—Only five of the 38 principal cafes and hotel dining rooms were serving meals here today. Adjustment of difficulties between restaurant operators, who closed for an indefinite period Saturday midnight, and the office of price administration, awaited the arrival of a special investigator.

Stanley A. Starr, president of the Olympian Chamber of Commerce, said he had appealed to the district OPA office to review the protests of Olympia cafes against a red point shortage.

James Ramey, spokesman for the closed cafes, said, "We don't want to stay locked up but we haven't the food to serve. We can't get fish, fowl, or eggs."

SUIT TO ENJOIN KROGER CHAIN IS FILED BY OPA

The petition charges that investigators found instances of overceiling sales in 27 of the company's Chicago stores; that round steak, with a 41 cent ceiling, was sold at 71 cents; that American cheese was sold at 17 cents above its 37 cent ceiling.

ARMY RECEIVES CITY'S GIFT TO CAMP IN FRANCE

Mayor Kelly yesterday received a letter from Maj. Gen. John W. Byron, director of the army's special services division, acknowledging receipt of mementos of Chicago that are destined for Camp Chicago 20 miles north of Reims, France. The letter, sent from Washington, assured the mayor that the consignment of Chicagoana would be forwarded to the camp. Camp Chicago is one of 18 redeployment centers in the Reims area from which troops are being sent home. Each bears the name of an American city. Among the mementos were emblems, photographs, flags, and other material recalling Chicago's history.

Louis Heller and Wallace Ahlgrim, owners of a market at 842 Broadway, Gary, Ind., yesterday agreed to an office of price administration suspension from dealing in meats and fats for the duration of rationing. New York, July 23 (AP)—The Paris radio quoted "authoritative circles" today as expressing hope that France would receive 300,000 tons of coal monthly from the United States "in compensation for coal loaned by France to the United States for the redeployment of United States troops."

A fifth coast to coast network apparently is in the making. Leonard A. Versluis, president of the Associated Broadcasting corporation, with headquarters in Grand Rapids, Mich., announced over the week-end the expansion of the chain to transcontinental proportions effective Sept. 16. Versluis operates WLAV in Grand Rapids. The network, which for two years has released programs to more than 100 stations, will have key outlets in Chicago, New York City, Washington, D. C., Hollywood, Cal., and Grand Rapids, Versluis said.

WJJD has been an outlet for more than a year of programs originated by Versluis in Grand Rapids. It is currently carrying a Children's Bible Hour from the network on Saturdays. While the network will maintain offices in the Carbon and Carbide building, 230 N. Discussing new trends in music, Mr. Watson will touch on the work of Villa-Lobos, the Brazilian composer who recently visited the United States. OPA Denied Injunction Against Hide Concern

Federal Judge Walter J. La Buy yesterday refused to grant the office of price administration a temporary injunction to restrain Darling & Co., 4201 S. Ashland av., a hide and fertilizer firm, from continuing alleged overcharges on calf skins. Atty. Harold S. Walter argued that the OPA had found only $225 in overcharges in seven months, altho the company does a business of $50,000 a month.

12 PETS IN FLAT! HER NEIGHBORS LEAD DOG'S LIFE

Mrs. Bertha Johnson, who lives in an apartment at 2617 Potomac av., was defendant yesterday in Racine av. court on a disorderly conduct charge. She told Judge George L. Quilici that the dogs and cats she keeps are for protection against burglars. Neighbors complained she has nine dogs and three cats.

Leslie and Eleanor Cox, 2615 Potomac av., testified against Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. Cox said one of her neighbor's pets bit her, and her daughter, Kathleen, 4, was scratched. Cox testified 37 neighbors had signed a petition against the animals.

Judge Quilici told Mrs. Johnson that two dogs and two cats were enough for protection and pleasure. She retorted that she would rather give up her home than her pets. The case was continued until Aug. 8 to give her time to reduce the menagerie.

VET OPENS GAS STATION HELD UP BY OPA PERMIT

Louis G. Pike Jr., 23, of 1654 N. Francisco av., discharged army veteran of three years in the South Pacific, yesterday was open for business at his garage and gasoline service station, 3553-55 N. Clark st.

"Now all we need is customers," said Pike, whose difficulties in getting a gasoline ration permit were promptly solved by the area office of price administration after THE TRIBUNE told of his plight. Pike applied for coupons June 26 with his local rationing board, No. 40-46, at 1005 Belmont av., but last week still was waiting for them with his rent piling up at $85 a month. A check by OPA officials disclosed that the permit had been forwarded to him July 13 by registered mail but was not delivered because he was not at the address to receive it.

All but 43 of the 587 minor girls reported missing in the first six months of this year have reappeared or have been located by police, Lt. Joseph B. Starshak of the missing persons bureau said yesterday. Fewer than half of the missing girls return home of their own volition, he said. The number reported missing in the corresponding period of 1944 was 694; in 1943 it was 581.

BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

AN OPEN LETTER

from the New York Stock Exchange to Every Owner of Series "E" War Bonds

PLEASE DO THIS—get out your Series "E" War Bonds and check them with the chart at the right. Then you will understand why we say:

"Hold the 'E' bonds you already have . . . you can't afford to cash them in.

AS THE CHART at right shows, the increase in value of an "E" bond is greatest in the later years of the bond's life. (White bars represent $75 original investment on an "E" bond of $100 face value—the black bars show the increase in value by years over this original amount.) Note how the rate of increase goes up in the second three years of an "E" bond's life—and goes up again even more sharply over the final four years.

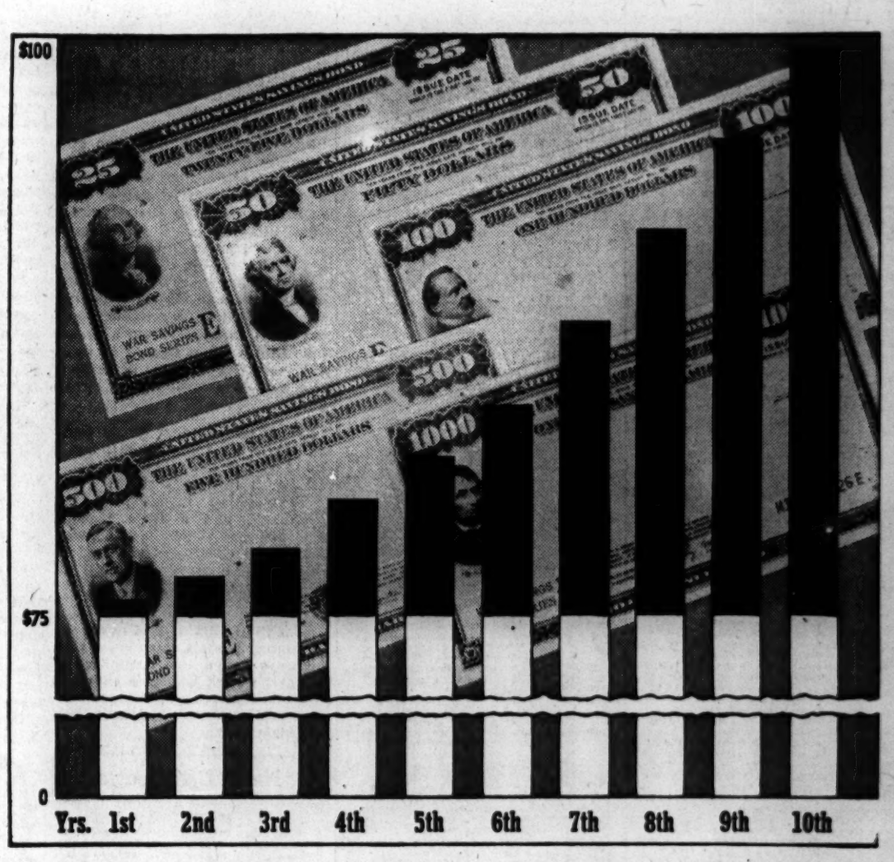
Yrs.	Increase In Value	Total Value	% of Worth the Yr. Before
1	$ 5.00	$ 755	.67%
2	10.00	765	1.32
3	15.00	780	1.96
4	20.00	800	2.56
5	20.00	820	2.50
6	20.00	840	2.44
7	40.00	880	4.76
8	40.00	920	4.55
9	40.00	960	4.35
10	40.00	1,000	4.17



The greater values that accumulate in the later years of a $1,000 "E" bond's life are apparent—$40 a year in each of the last four years, compared with an average of only $10 a year in the first three years, or $20 a year in the second three years. Right-hand column of table shows percentage of the bond's worth in each previous year, now added to its value. These percentages apply in the case of "E" bonds of all denominations.

If you have owned such bonds over the last few years, you are now entering the period of far better-than-average increase. You would literally be throwing money away to cash them prior to maturity.

The bonds of our Government are the only securities this Exchange has ever recommended in the more than 150 years of its existence. We urge you: "Buy War Bonds with certainty. Hold them with confidence."

Poor Circulation Through Your Furnace Wastes Coal Needlessly

Valuable heat is lost if the warmed air does not circulate properly throughout the house. An indication of circulation trouble is the overheating of the outer casing of the furnace. Correct by installing additional cold air returns. Their area should be at least 20% greater than that of the heat supply pipes; or a small screened opening at the bottom of the furnace will help. Coal gives abundant heat—but don't waste it... through poor circulation.

HYNDMAN, GILBERT PACE TAM O' SHANTER AMATEURS

PAIR CARDS 71 IN QUALIFYING FOR TOURNEY

Hogan Shoots 65 in Practice Round

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

William Gilbert III. of Cincinnati, O., and William Hyndman III. of Philadelphia, Pa., yesterday shot a brace of fancy 71s to lead the final qualifying phase of the All-American Amateur golf tournament at the Tam o' Shanter Country club. They were right nice 71s, one under par, for the William the thirds, but the real job of the day was submitted by Lt. Ben Hogan of the army air forces.

The lieutenant didn't have to work, as did Hyndman and Gilbert, but he took a trial spin over Tam with his long time friend, Byron Nelson, the man who has won three of the first four All-American open titles. Ben found the flying good, landing as he did with a 65, seven under par, which included a six on the 400 yard 18th. Nelson, the natural favorite to capture first prize of $13,600 in war bonds, come the conclusion of the big show on Sunday evening, said Hogan, who hasn't been in these parts since he tied for the 1944 Chicago victory national open title, played one of the best rounds of his career, blending excellent tee-to-green work with superb putting.

Gilbert Cards 35—36—71

Gilbert, who won the 1940 Big Ten title while at Ohio State, put together a 35—36—71. Bill just received an honorable discharge after three years in the coast guard, including 14 months in the South Pacific. The handsome Hyndman, who comes here with a long game respected by even the more powerful pros, was away slowly with a 38, then brought down an eagle three at the 10th and finished with a nine of 33 for his 71.

Nearest to Gilbert and Hyndman, 29 year old sales engineer who is spending his vacation here, were Flight Officer Frank Stranahan of Fort Myers, Fla., low amateur in the 1941 Tam o' Shanter open, and Wilford Wehrle, former western amateur and Chicago district champion who now registers from Louisville, Ky. Stranahan and Wehrle each posted par 72s, one stroke better than the 73s submitted by Art Doering of Denver and Arnold Minkley of Miami, Fla.

Complete Field of 28

Yesterday's examination completed the field of 28 who will argue for the 1945 All-American amateur title vacated by last year's winner, Ed Furgol, who will compete this year as a pro. Twelve of this number were determined last month in a test for nonexempt amateurs from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Yesterday's doings were restricted to those hailing from outside those four states, with 12 earning places in the main event. The exempt amateurs who fill out the amateur ensemble are Chick Evans of Edgewater; Bob Cochran, runner up for the All-American title in 1943; Freddie Haas, one time national intercollegiate champion from New Orleans, and Staff Sgt. Pat Abbott, incumbent western amateur champion.

Today's program will settle the distaff side of the cast with 36 women playing 18 holes for 24 places in the All-American women's tournament proper. Those exempt from this examination are Betty Hicks of California and Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia, champion and runnerup for the 1944 crown; Lt. Patty Berg of the marines; Mrs. Catherine Fox Park of Philadelphia; Phyllis Otto of Atlantic, Ia.; Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill., and Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex.

Compete for 40 Places

The weeding out process will end tomorrow, when approximately 75 nonexempt professionals will compete for 40 places in the open, which enlisted the brightest company of stars in the five year history of the George S. May carnival. The lure of the aggregate purse of more than $60,000 in bonds offered by May doubtless has had something to do with this enthusiasm.

The tournaments proper will be conducted in three divisions—open,

M'CARTHY PLANS TO REST BEFORE REJOINING YANKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, July 23—Joe McCarthy will resume his duties as manager of the New York Yankees as soon as he has regained his health.

An official statement issued by the Yanks' ailing leader today snuffed out rumors of friction between the manager and the New York club's front office. It also made it apparent that the club's rejection of his resignation as manager will not be challenged, and gave assurance that illness is the only factor standing between him and a return to leadership.

McCarthy offered to resign but the club refused to consider the offer, President Larry MacPhail said.

MacPhail Wants Him Back

McCarthy, who has been away from his club for three days because of illness, told MacPhail that he felt the Yankees would be better off under some other manager. The Yankees' head said that he advised McCarthy to return to his Buffalo, N. Y., home for a few days' rest and a physical checkup and that he firmly believed McCarthy would be able to resume his post within a short time.

"The club's attitude is that McCarthy is the manager and will be the manager as long as his contract runs," MacPhail said.

Office Job Awaits Joe

McCarthy's present three year contract expires at the close of the 1946 season.

"In the event McCarthy makes up his mind that he doesn't want to manage the club he can come into the front office as my assistant," McPhail said.

In the absence of McCarthy, who has been troubled by an ailing gall bladder, Coach Art Fletcher will manage the club.

BY WILFRID SMITH

Two Indiana university tackles, whose last season with the Hoosiers was 1942, have joined the All-Stars for their game with the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football league, in Soldiers' field Aug. 30. They are Bob Zimny and Edward Bell.

Both are from Chicago. Bell played at Austin High school and Zimny was at St. Rita High school

Edward Bell

Bob Zimny

before matriculation at Indiana. Their ages and weights are identical, 220 pounds and 23 years of age.

Have Parallel Careers

The parallel careers of these excellent linemen may be extended, for they were enrolled in the same courses at Indiana, entered military training within a period of less than two weeks, and now are in the medical department of the army. Bell entered service May 22, 1943, while Zimny was sworn in June 4 of that year.

Zimny has had more experience than Bell since leaving the campus. He was a member of the 1944 All-Star squad and Lynn Waldorf, head coach, and his assistants chose him to start the game against the Bears which the Collegians lost in the fourth period, 24 to 21. Bob lists his participation as an All-Star as his greatest thrill in athletics.

Praised by McMillin

Not only because of experience, but because he already has proved he can match the power of a professional lineman, Zimny will be of the greatest assistance in the battle with the Packers. Bell is rated highly, also, by Bo McMillin, Indiana coach.

"An All-Star team must have strong tackles," McMillin said in his prediction that Zimny and Bell would be in the front line in Soldiers' field. "The Packers will find out that these tackles of mine are as good as any they have met in last year's campaign when they won the national title."

Charge Hard, Block Accurately

The Hoosier stars are agile. They charge hard and are accurate blockers. They have the weight to back up their charges and blocks. Zimny received three varsity letters at Indiana while Bell was awarded two before entering military service. Bell is 6 feet 2 inches, two inches taller than his one time teammate. Bell, who has yet to experience the Philadelphia, Pa., July 23 (AP)—Buck Newsom pitched and batted the Philadelphia Athletics to a 1 to 0 victory over the Detroit Tigers tonight before 10,703 Shibe park fans.

The big right hander yielded only four hits as he won his fourth straight victory. He also drove in the winning run in the second inning with a single to left that scored George Kell with two out. It was Detroit's eighth defeat in the last 12 games.

INDIANS BEAT SENATORS, 2-1

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP)—The Senators' bid for top spot in the American league got another setback tonight when Cleveland's Ed Klieman yielded only five hits and beat Johnny Niggeling, 2 to 1, in a pitchers' duel.

Singles by Frankie Hayes and Al Cihocki followed by Klieman's double in the fifth inning brought the Indians their first run.

What proved to be the winning run was scored by the Indians in the sixth on a pass to Jeff Heath, Lou Boudreau's single sending Heath to third, and Frankie Hayes' long fly.

CUBS TO BATTLE 10 RUN PHILS IN FINAL TODAY

Reds, Pirates Next for Pace Setters

BY EDWARD BURNS

The Cubs, not the least broken in spirit because the Phillies scored 10 runs in the seventh inning of the second game of Sunday's double header before 33,073 who paid to see something different, this afternoon will conclude their series with the tail enders in Wrigley field. The first placers expect to utilize the match as a warm-up for their game tomorrow with Bob Feller and his Great Lakes Bluejackets. For several years the Bluejackets have been rougher with the Cubs than the Phillies, barring the aforesaid 10 run inning Sunday.

This afternoon's game will end the second 1945 invasion of Wrigley field by the eastern clubs, which began with a double header with the Braves on July 12. In the first game that day the Cubs added a victory to the 10 game winning streak they brought home with them from their second eastern trip.

Find Cards Hard to Beat

In the second game on July 12 Carden Gillenwater knocked a homer with two out in the ninth to beat Claude Passeau but thereafter the Cubs put together a new winning streak which ran to five straight before Bill Voiselle and the Giants whipped them on July 16.

No matter what happens today, the Cubs will emerge from their second home and home 1945 series against eastern teams without having lost a set. Their last loss of a series with National league competition was when they dropped the first three of four played in Chicago with the Cardinals on June 22-24. After winning two of their first three with the Cards the Cubs have lost six of their last seven with the otherwise badly faded world champs.

Reds Arrive Thursday

Thursday the Cubs will be hosts to those dear fellows, the Cincinnati Reds, in the first of a five-game series. The Reds have lost eight out of eight in competition with the Cubs, all of them before the Cubs seriously were listening to the buzzings of the pennant bee.

The Pirates will be in Chicago on Aug. 1 and 2 to help the Cubs end their three-week home stand. The last time the Cubs engaged the Pirates in Pittsburgh, Frankie Frisch's chattels stepped on Cub necks to climb into first place. But that was a long time ago. When the Pirates subsequently visited Wrigley field, on June 20 and 21, the Cubs accorded them a couple of spankings.

SAILORS HIT 7 HOME RUNS IN 16 TO 1 VICTORY

Camp Ellis, Ill., July 23 (AP)—The Great Lakes naval training center nine today defeated Camp Ellis, 16 to 1, hitting seven home runs. Walker Cooper, formerly of the St. Louis Cardinals, got three homers and Max Marshall, former Cincinnati Reds outfielder, hit two. Score:

Sour Grapes

For I'm vacationing on the porch.
I won't be scratching mosquito bites
Behind the screen these summer nights.
I'll sit in comfort and ease right here,
No living from suitcase and trunk this year;
And thus I'll escape the unending chore
Neither need I waste a glance
Furthering summer time romance;
Vacation at home will be fun, that's clear—
A case of sour grapes, I fear.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, July 23—Bill Dietrich, the right hander who puzzles either himself or the enemy, did the latter today and even a marked scarcity of White Sox base hits in behalf of his victory quest was insufficient to swerve him off his course. The bespectacled gentleman, finding himself against a tough foe in the person of Bill Zuber, hung on until he had accomplished an eleven inning 1 to 0 victory over the Yankees in the final of the series.

By winning their second straight overtime game from the Yankees, the Sox moved into third place and dropped the New Yorkers into a fifth place tie, the first time this season they've been out of the first division. Tonight the Sox trailed the league leading Detroit Tigers by four games and the second place Senators by only a game and a half. Both the Tigers and Senators lost night contests.

Only One Yank Reaches Third

In the entire 11 innings today only eight Yanks reached first base, one on a pass. Three of them went as far as second. Of these three only one penetrated as far as third, almost precipitating a Yankee run.

The Sox themselves weren't much good at getting to third, at least in the first 10 innings, when only two drifted that far. In the decisive eleventh Zuber had two out when he walked Johnny Dickshot, who immediately went to second and third on two wild pitches. Having got himself into this predicament thru wildness, Zuber naturally wanted to stay that way against hard hitting Tony Cuccinello. He gave Tony an intentional pass.

Hockett's Hit Does It

Then Oris Hockett hit what would have been a grass cutting drive straight into center if Zuber hadn't been bold enough to attempt an interception. He succeeded in stopping the drive but couldn't hold the ball. When he picked it up he slipped on the soft turf, recovered his balance, and finally threw wildly to first. Meanwhile Dickshot had scored and Cuccinello was streaking for the plate. But Hockett tried to go to second and was nailed, Nick Etten to Frank Crosetti.

Dietrich had to play 'em close to his vest to dodge a run in the sixth when George Stirnweiss tripled over Hockett's head with one out. The squeeze play was put on and Crosetti made good by bunting, but for some reason Stirnweiss wasn't at the plate as quickly as he should have been. He was out on Dietrich's throw to Mike Tresh. Dietrich, in his excitement after tossing the ball, kept running toward the plate and sprawled into Tresh and Stirnweiss.

Double Play Stops Sox

The Sox' best chance to score prior to the finish was in the second. It opened with a pass to Cuccinello who was forced by Hockett. Cass Michaels supplied a single but Tresh grounded to Crosetti for a double play.

The Sox will remain in New York until Thursday night, going direct to Detroit for a three game series. As time killers for their vacation here they will exhibit at Camp Kilmer tomorrow and Floyd Bennet field Wednesday.

EVELYN MOORE'S 78 WINS MEDAL IN WOMEN'S GOLF

Mrs. Sick, Defending Champion, Posts 79

A former champion, Mrs. Evelyn Moore of Acacia Country club won the qualifying medal in the Cook County Women's golf tournament at Jackson park yesterday by carding a 78, eight strokes over par.

Mrs. Moore who has been out of competition for two years, won the title back in 1939, and then came back two years later to again annex the championship. In pacing the field of 96 contestants yesterday Mrs. Moore toured the out nine in 38, four strokes over par, and finished the back nine with a 40.

Encounters Trap Trouble

The medalist had trap trouble on the second and eighth holes, and on the latter made a perfect recovery to come within 10 feet of the pin. Three putt greens on the sixth and eleventh also cost her a few extra strokes.

Par—Out	444	443	434—34
Moore—Out	454	454	534—38
Par—In	444	355	434—36—70
Moore—In	454	365	544—40—78

Mrs. Sick Turns in 79

Next in line with a 79, one stroke back on the medalist was the defending champion, Mrs. Bernie Sick of Cog Hill. Altho she was exempt from qualifying, the titleholder sharpened up some of her shots on the south side course in preparing for the defense of her championship. She had a total of 35 putts, and this amount included two three putt greens. Her score could have been a few strokes lower, but trap trouble and a three putt green on the 15th hole, where she finished with a 7, raised the count.

Mrs. Greco Among Leaders

Another former champion, Mrs. Elaine Sorenson Greco, playing unattached was also among the leaders. Out of action last year after winning the crown in 1943, Elaine finished the qualifying round with a 43—40 for an 83 total. Today's pairings:

Pirates Beat Braves, 8 to 5, on 3 Homers

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 17 (AP)—A 17 hit attack, highlighted by three home runs, gave the Pittsburgh Pirates an 8 to 5 victory over the Boston Braves today.

MAJORS REJECT MINORS' DEMAND ON DRAFT PRICE

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

The major leagues yesterday flatly rejected a demand by minor leagues that the draft price of class AA players be doubled from the present fixed $7,500 tag.

Debate on the subject monopolized a joint meeting of major and minor league committees in the Palmer House to study proposed revisions in the major-minor league agreement.

"The majors absolutely refused to consider any increase in the draft price," said Thomas H. Richardson, Williamsport, Pa., chairman of the minor league committee following a six hour session.

John Coyle Is Reinstated as Fight Promoter

The Central A. A. U. boxing committee has voted to reinstate Johnny Coyle, promoter of weekly bouts in the West Side club, 10 S. California av., it was announced yesterday by Capt. Roy E. Davis, committee chairman. Coyle was indefinitely suspended by the A. A. U. last June 24 on charges of having paid Jackie Boyd, 1945 Chicagoland Golden Gloves flyweight champion, an excessive amount of expense money for a bout with Fred Latson, St. Louis featherweight, in the West Side arena on June 20. The committee's ruling that Boyd is a professional remains. Coyle will resume operation of shows tomorrow night.

BROWN KNOCKS OUT BRENT IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Collins Brown, ex-Golden Gloves middleweight champion, knocked out Luther Brent in the fifth round of a scheduled eight round bout in Marigold outdoor arena last night before 2,322 fight fans. Brent gave Brown's backers some anxious moments before the finish. Luther was down three times, once each in the third, fourth, and fifth rounds.

Robert Satterfield and Gene Roberts, former Golden Gloves sectional champions, scored knockouts in supporting matches, the former flooring Herman Hayes, Chicago light heavyweight, for the count in the first round and Roberts stopping Dickie Miller, Peoria junior lightweight, in the second. Roberts' achievement was his eighth success in a row and his sixth straight knockout.

Benny Droll, Peoria middleweight, and Curly Denton of Cincinnati fought to a draw and Bertrand White, ex-Catholic Youth Organizations bantamweight title holder, beat Vic Jade of Cleveland in five round events.

BUSHER DRAWS TOP WEIGHT, 126, FOR CLEOPATRA

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Louis B. Mayer, the Hollywood movie mogul, lost $30,000 in purse money when his Thumbs Up was beaten a nose by Mrs. James Nemecek's Devalue in the $58,100 Stars and Stripes handicap at Washington Park Saturday, but his chances are excellent to get part of that back tomorrow with Busher in the $25,000 added Cleopatra handicap.

Busher, a 3 year old daughter of War Admiral, victor in the $50,000 Santa Margarita handicap and the $25,000 Santa Susana stakes at Santa Anita recently, has been allotted 126 pounds for the mile race, three pounds more than her ranking rival, War Date from the Maine Chance farm string.

War Date and Busher should make the Cleopatra a race for the book, for the former's record is just as noteworthy as the Mayer colorbearer's. War Date, also a daughter of War Admiral, won like a champion in the Princess Doreen stakes and the Modesty handicap during the current meeting. Many horsemen are inclined to think she has developed into just as good a filly as Busher, which was voted the best in 1944.

Twosy Highly Rated

Taking her sex allowance into consideration, Busher has been rated at five pounds over scale weight for the Cleopatra. In the Santa Anita Derby, in which she was beaten only half a length by her former stablemate, Bymeabond, she carried her full scale weight of 121 pounds at the mile and an eighth distance. She lost ground coming into the stretch and was just beaten tho conceding seven pounds to the winner.

Others named for the Cleopatra are by no means ordinary. For instance, there is Calumet farm's Twosy, winner of the Sagamore stakes at Pimlico last fall and the place horse in the 1944 Arlington Lassie, Princess Pat, and Matron. Rapid improvement in her 1945 form was indicated last Wednesday when Twosy was beaten only a head by Fighting Don in 10:10 3-5, the fastest six furlongs of the meeting.

Double Returns $147.40

Thomas Piatt has named Come and Go, his Kentucky Oaks and Ashland stakes winner. Others which may start are Twosy's stablemate, On Your Toes, Walmac farm's Wallflower, David Straus' Corina Lark, H. W. Ostle's Donna Brand, James C. Stone's Stonette, Herbert M. Woolf's Devastating, and Recce's running mate, Flyweight.

Joyce W., the favorite, ridden by Doug Dodson, won the first half of yesterday's double at $4.20, while Billy Thompson brought in the Swanee River's Misty Mark at $38 in the second half. The combination was worth $147.40. The mutuel handle was $1,115,934.

Norman W. Church sent out Plucky Lea and Safe Reward in the third race and they finished in that order with Dodson scoring over Georgie Woolf in the photo. The entry paid $5 to win and $5.40 to place. J. C. Stone's Sgt. Spence was third in the field of 12 maiden 2 year olds.

Dodson also piloted Leon Tikulski's Icangetit to victory by a nose in the day's feature, the $3,500 Jock purse. Icangetit stepped the mile in the fast time of 1:36 2-5. The Murlogg farm's Fighting Step, ridden by George South, was second and John Marsch's Art Roi third in a field of six. The winner paid $6.80.

Maple Lake Acclaimed as Fishing Site

BY BOB BECKER

Maple lake, at 95th st. and Wolf rd., near Willow Springs, offers the best fishing in the forest preserves this year, says Roberts Mann, naturalist of the forest preserves district. There are 32 boats at Maple lake, which is accessible by the bus line on Archer av.

Mann tells us that some experienced anglers maintain that their catches of large mouth bass, bluegills, and warmouth bass have equalled those they obtain from some northern lakes. This year several good sized bass have been caught from Maple lake, including one four pounder.

The bluegill fishermen report good luck because these fish have grown up a little. They have been averaging about five to a pound. Strings of perch also have been caught in Maple lake this summer.

Many fishermen continue to fish the upper Des Plaines river. We have noticed them recently when we've had occasion to get into the river valley. Mann reports that during one week recently fishermen working the river between Touhy av. and the Lake county line caught 80 crappies, 3 pickerel [four to six pounds], 50 bullheads, one black bass, and 30 carp. This is considered just about normal for the old Des Plaines. Hundreds of carp were killed in the river last winter when the snow blanketed ice suffocated the fish.

THIS FACTORY HAS 'WELCOME VETS' SIGN OUT

Quincy, Mass., July 23 (AP)—An honorable discharge from the army or navy is the first requisite for a job at Yule Industries, Inc.

For the organization, founded recently to repair and rebuild automobile and truck engines, is owned by two men who were disabled in World War II.—two men who conceived the idea of forming their own company while patients in the army's Percy Jones hospital.

The owners are Maj. Douglass Yule, who was injured seriously at Camp McCoy, Wis., and Lt. Burl Harrison, holder of the silver star, who lost a leg at Tunisia.

"We hire war veterans only," Yule told newsmen today, "and if they are disabled, that doesn't matter. We decided that if a man couldn't stand, we'd find him a bench job. If a man needed outside work, we'd find that for him. We decided to adjust our business to train them."

There are 35 veterans working right now and the major is in hopes of having "200 former cripples" at his place before long.

NEW RAILROAD VISTAS OPENED THRU DOME CAR

Gets Test Run; G.M. Models New Train

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

Two previews were given yesterday of the type of trains the railroads will use to meet their post-war competition in the air and on the highway.

The Burlington railroad in a test run to Oregon, Ill., demonstrated its just completed Vista Dome car designed to enhance the visual pleasures of traveling. In this car a glass enclosed dome is built into the roof, giving passengers an unobstructed view.

The Electro-Motive division of General Motors corporation exhibited a model of a super-luxury train, the Astra Liner, and announced that it will build a train of this type as soon as materials and men are available. This train is boldly imaginative, with previous conventional concepts of car design thrown into the discard.

Enter Dome by Staircase

The Vista Dome car was hitched to a local train pulled by a diesel-electric locomotive. Reporters passed thru main floor space as luxurious as any found in the most modern club and mounted to the dome by a short staircase at the rear of the car.

Under the dome at the center of the car were 24 comfortable seats enclosed in ray resistant laminated glass. As the train left the Union station there was an interesting view of the busy terminal area.

There was an uncanny feeling as the car passed under overpasses which seemed so low there was almost a tendency for the passengers to duck their heads.

Follow Course of Track

At Lisle the train was running at 80 miles an hour. There was virtually no sound and little car movement. The effect was that of floating thru the air. One traveler commented the effect was like that of a plane just as it leaves the ground, only there was much less noise. It was possible to follow the course of the track and it was a thrill to watch the locomotive as it rounded a curve.

The Vista Dome is a coach built by the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company and remodeled by the Burlington. Ralph Budd, president of the road, who was aboard, commented that in building a new dome car it will be possible to make it even better than the remodeled car. Also on board were engineers to observe the riding qualities of the car. Enjoying the ride as a passenger was Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, former Vice President of the United States.

Present Firms to Build It

In announcing plans for the Astra Liner C. R. Osborn, vice president of G. M. in charge of the Electro-Motive division, said it will be built by existing car builders. The Vista Dome car itself was created from ideas developed by the same G. M. stylists who designed the Astra Liner.

"Our sole purpose in building the new train is to contribute to the post-war success of the American railroads with which the Electro-Motive division is so closely identified," Osborn said. "We have taken steps to protect the designs, but only for the purpose of preventing some one tying them up to restrict their usage. We have informed railroads and car builders that they may freely use the designs."

All Cars Include Dome

Four types of cars to be built for the Astra Liner include a coach, diner, sleeper, and observation car. All cars will include the dome which will increase the height of the standard car by only 18 inches.

In the sleeper new arrangements in berths and other facilities provide approximately 50 per cent more free floor space for daytime use than conventional sleepers. A reserved seat in the dome will accompany each sleeping space in the sleeping car.

The lounge or observation car will have five levels: the regular floor level, a center ramp, a lower cocktail lounge, a rear observation lounge, and a dome. The car will have 75 comfortable seats, of which at least 40 will be movable.

MAKE CHEMICAL PRODUCTS FROM NATURAL GASES

New York, July 23 (AP)—The Celanese Corporation of America today reported its new plant near Bishop, Tex., is engaged in the first large scale production of certain chemicals by a process using natural gases as raw material.

The company said the principal chemicals produced—acetic acid, acetic anhydride, acetone, methanol, and formaldehyde—had been made in the past from petroleum raw materials.

Did Not Seek WLW, Crosley Buyer Avers

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP)—An official of Aviation corporation, New York, testified today his company had "no intention or desire" to acquire broadcasting facilities when it began negotiating to purchase Crosley corporation, Cincinnati, O.

Powel Crosley Jr.

At the opening of federal communication commission hearings on the transaction, Irving Babcock, Aviation president, said his company originally sought to buy only the Crosley manufacturing plants, organization, and distributing office.

Investigates Sale Price

He said he was informed, however, that "because of tax interests" it would be necessary to purchase the entire Crosley corporation including radio station WLW, Cincinnati, and other international, television, and relay stations. The sale price of 22 million dollars is under consideration by the commission.

"No separate valuation was placed on station WLW or the other radio stations, because there was no necessity of doing so," said Babcock.

Powel Crosley Jr., president of Crosley corporation, testified he had made no attempt to sell station WLW separately from the manufacturing branch of the corporation. He agreed on the sale of Crosley, he said, because in the event of his death "I would like to see the corporation in strong hands and at the same time know what would happen to stock otherwise left in my estate."

Will Be Run Separately

Babcock said that if the purchase is completed, the two properties will be operated separately. He said he would become president and Crosley would remain a director.

James O. Welden of the office of war information, described the war activities of six international stations operated by Crosley for the government with programs controled by OWI. Three have transmitters at the Bethany plant, near Cincinnati, owned by Defense Plant corporation and on which Crosley holds an option.

Welden said the Bethany plant was "the best equipped plant in the United States, undoubtedly included in any plan for post-war international broadcasting." He said there is room for installation of three additional 200 kilowatt transmitters.

ASK MERCHANT FLEET OF 860 TO 1,325 VESSELS

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP)—A minimum United States post-war merchant fleet of 860 ships totaling 6,155,000 gross tons was recommended today in a report by the Harvard school of business administration. Made public jointly by the navy and the maritime commission, the report recommended a maximum 1,325 ships of 9,185,000 gross tons.

It emphasized that altho the study was made at the request of the two agencies, the recommendations do not necessarily reflect ultimate government policy.

The recommended minimum would include 350 dry cargo ships in foreign trade, 250 dry cargo ships in coastwise and intercoastal trade, and 65 dry cargo ships in noncontiguous trade; 10 passenger vessels in foreign trade and 10 in domestic; 25 tankers in foreign trade and 150 domestic.

The recommended maximum would increase the vessels in these categories and add 60 tankers in foreign service, and 230 in domestic.

SEC TO REQUIRE DATA ON WAR JOB CHANGES OF LISTED COMPANIES

Philadelphia, Pa., July 23 (AP)—Current information on changes in dollar volume of war business held by corporations with securities listed on national exchanges will be furnished to investors thru reports filed with the securities and exchange commission under two rules adopted today by the SEC.

The first rule made listed corporations responsible for immediate filing of details of any war contract cancellation if the value of the business covered by the termination was 20 per cent or more of total sales the preceding fiscal year.

The second rule required listed companies whose war business amounted to more than 25 per cent of total sales in the last fiscal year to report the dollar value of unfilled orders at the end of each fiscal quarter and sales during the period, showing war business separately. Reports must be made within 30 days.

VINSON TAKES OVER POST AS TREASURY HEAD

Policies on Taxes Are Awaited

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 23—Fred M. Vinson was sworn in today as treasury secretary, succeeding Secretary Morgenthau, and his assumption of the post raised speculation in the capital on what influence he will exert on future tax bills of individuals and corporations.

On the basis of his record as a member of congress and as economic stablization director, Vinson is regarded as a staunch Roosevelt New Dealer, but his latest statements on national tax policy have indicated he is turning toward tax relief for business and individual rates based upon ability to pay.

As a house member from Kentucky, Vinson was a Roosevelt administration stalwart and in large part was responsible for pushing early New Deal tax laws thru the house.

Backed Profits Tax

Records show that he supported the undistributed profits tax, which imposed high levies on corporation profits not distributed to stockholders. This tax proved unpopular and he agreed to its repeal.

Vinson has been a consistent opponent of retail sales taxes and it is known that he favors removing those now in effect. He also is known to favor reducing federal excise taxes.

As economic stablization director, Vinson was a leader in the unsuccessful New Deal effort to limit individual incomes to $25,000 a year.

Budget Poses Question

A major question unanswered as Vinson took office was whether he will continue to follow New Deal economic philosophy and allow the nation's huge peace time budget to remain unbalanced as during the Roosevelt administration, or whether he will attempt to balance expenditures with tax receipts.

If he follows the latter course, observers said, he will face the problem of working out tax policies which will yield triple the revenue of pre-war taxes yet which do not stifle business expansion and reduce employment in the reconversion period.

Those who believe that Vinson will depart from his New Deal leanings base their convictions upon his July 1 report as director of war mobilization and reconversion. In it he said modernization of the national tax structure is the foundation necessary to assure full employment after the war.

"Fair" Taxes Advocated

He said the personal income tax must be the chief source of tax revenue, but that individual taxes must be fair and based upon ability to pay so as not to restrict purchasing power. He indicated the view that the individual tax base must remain broad after the war thru small exemptions but that taxes should be light on small incomes and heavy on large incomes.

Recommending repeal of the corporation excess profits tax after the defeat of Japan, Vinson asserted taxes must not interfere with the expansion of business, the creation of jobs, and the maintenance of mass purchasing power.

It was learned today that Vinson is determined that both individual and corporation income taxes will remain heavy until the end of the war. Meanwhile, he will seek to increase the specific excess profits tax exemption from $10,000 to $25,000 to encourage new, small businesses, reliable sources said.

Seeks Sound Economy

When Vinson was sworn in he called upon the people to preserve a sound domestic economy as a vital factor in a stable world economy. He asserted the government will not attempt to accomplish this by itself, but will aid the people in doing the job.

He took office, as the seventh new member of President Truman's cabinet, in the presence of Morgenthau and more than 300 persons who packed the house ways and means committee room.

Vinson, who is 55, has had a spectacular rise in the government in the last two years. Leaving congress, where he served 13 years, in 1938 to become an associate justice of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, he resigned from the bench in May, 1943, to become economic stabilization director. President Roosevelt named him federal loan administrator last March to succeed Jesse Jones and less than a month later appointed him war mobilization director.

Vinson will be succeeded as war mobilizer by John W. Snyder of St. Louis, recently appointed federal loan administrator, who was sworn into his new office today.

2,000 Strike, Halt War Work in 39 Chicago Area Foundries

About 2,000 members of the International Moulders and Foundry Workers' union [AFL] went on strike in a wage dispute yesterday and halted war production in 39 Chicago area foundries, 25 in Chicago and the remainder in Joliet, Aurora, and Batavia.

William Lorenz, district representative of the union, said the men struck under the terms of the Smith-Connally labor disputes act because they have received no wage increase since 1942. The employers dispute this.

Seek "Fringe" Concessions

Altho the union is willing to accept a straight four cent an hour increase offered by the employers, Lorenz said, it believes the raise will be disallowed when presented to the war labor board. Instead, it seeks "fringe" concessions in a contract to apply if the WLB rules against the wage increase.

Such fringe issues include paid vacations, sickness benefits, and rest period provisions.

A workers' ballot taken June 29 resulted in a four to one vote favoring strike action. Since that time, the United States conciliation service repeatedly has brought together the employers' group—the Chicago Foundrymen's association — and union officials. A deadlock has resulted.

Calls Strike Unjustified

Charles T. Millies, employers' representative, said the strike was unjustified because mediation procedures had not been exhausted and because the employers had offered the four cent raise and other concessions. Lorenz said the WLB rejected a similar offer last year.

Millies said a wage settlement last fall under WLB order gave the men an increase retroactive to December, 1943. Lorenz contended the raise applied to nonjourneymen only.

Five locals of the union are involved in the strike, two of which are in Chicago. Al Leonard, a union organizer, said 4,500 members of the locals continued to work at independent foundries which had signed separate contracts.

The majority of the 39 foundries affected employ less than 100 men. They are engaged in both ferrous and nonferrous production, but mainly turn out gray iron castings as jobbers.

Idle Cut to 46,000

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Back to work movements in half a dozen cities which ended strikes of more than 11,000 persons yesterday reduced the nation's idle to 46,000, the fewest in more than a week.

The largest returning group consisted of 4,500 Wright Aeronautical corporation employes in Cincinnati, where a walk-out of 500 foremen last week tied up production of B-29 engines. The men returned on condition representatives of the Foremen's Association of America and officials of the national labor relations board consider the suspension of three foremen, the action which led to the walk-out.

Some 2,900 Graham-Paige CIO-United Auto Workers, out two weeks in protest against instructor lay-offs, returned.

Forecast Big Hike in Civil Shoe Output

An increase of more than 4 million pairs of leather soled shoes monthly for civilian use, chiefly thru a cutback in army requirements, was predicted yesterday by the shoe leather bureau of the Tanners' Council of America, which said increasing amounts of leather footwear will be manufactured beginning next month.

The army decrease of 1½ million pairs monthly, including combat boots, service shoes, lend-lease shoes, and tropical boots, has released almost 8 million feet of upper leather and an equal amount of sole leather a month for civilian shoes.

With supplies for civilians substantially increased, attention is being given by the war production board, office of price administration, and trade representatives to the prospects of more shoe rationing stamps and even to eliminating shoe rationing "in the not too distant future," the bureau reported.

Three difficulties in connection with changes in shoe rationing were forecast. Retailers' stocks of ration type shoes thruout the country have been reduced to an estimated 150 million pairs from more than 270 million pairs in 1943. Second, the consumer reaction to the elimination of rationing may bring about a rush to fill long deferred needs. Third, retailers and wholesalers have stocks of nonration footwear of composition materials which will not be wanted when leather shoes can be obtained.

These branches of the industry may urge that they receive some protection against costly inventory losses and markdowns, the bureau said.

AM. TELEPHONE DEBENTURE 2¾S SELL IN 2 HOURS

Largest Marketing Thru Bidding

A new 175 million dollar issue of American Telephone and Telegraph company 2¾ per cent debentures was won yesterday by a nation-wide group of underwriters formed by Morgan Stanley & Co., which announced two hours later that the securities had been sold and the books closed.

The issue was the largest ever sold thru competitive bidding and one of the largest in corporate history in the United States. The winning group bid 99.559 for the issue, due in 1980, and reoffered it at 100 and interest. Mellon Securities corporation and Halsey, Stuart & Co. and associates bid 98.919.

Full Underwriter Strength

The two syndicates represented virtually the entire underwriting strength of the country, the Morgan Stanley group having 103 members and the Mellon Halsey syndicate 215 investment houses.

Financial observers considered the bids in line with general expectations in view of the size of the undertaking. In nearly all cases of exceptionally large offerings in the past prices received by the issuing company had been below the prevailing market for comparable bonds issued in smaller amounts, it was said.

Hoped for Higher Bid

"The company had hoped for a higher bid and disliked letting the issue go under par," said Donald R. Belcher, A. T. & T. treasurer, "but we decided nevertheless to accept Morgan Stanley & Co.'s bid."

American Telephone will use the proceeds to redeem at 105 and interest its 3¼s due in 1961. The last previous debenture sale of a comparable character by the company was in 1940 when 140 million dollars of 2¾s due in 1970 were taken by a group of insurance companies at 98½.

The 100 million dollar issue of Great Northern railway bonds sold last September was the largest previous piece of competitive corporate financing. On this occasion a Halsey, Stuart group won the issue, outbidding a Morgan Stanley syndicate.

Offer R. J. Reynolds Shares

Dillon, Read & Co. and Reynolds & Co. head a group which today will offer 381,940 shares of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company 3.6 per cent $100 par preferred stock at par and accrued dividends. The offering represents the unsubscribed portion of a 490,000 share issue on which warrants to the common and class B stockholders expired July 21.

Proceeds will be added to working capital. The offering, one of the largest industrial financings this year, will be handled by an underwriting group of 134 members.

INLAND BARGES CARRY LARGER TONNAGE IN 1944

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP)—A total of 2,084,156 tons of freight was transported in Inland Waterways corporation barges last year, compared with 1,932,662 in 1943, the corporation said today in its annual report. Increases were reported in tonnages transported on the lower Mississippi, upper Mississippi, and Illinois rivers, and decreases on the Missouri and Warrior rivers.

The report, submitted to Secretary of Commerce Wallace by John S. Powell, acting president of the congress created corporation, showed that in addition 404,093 tons were handled on a towage basis for other accounts, a decrease of 29,291 tons below 1943.

The bulk of the cargo handled consisted of soft coal, sulphur, petroleum products, and grain. The company towed more than 270,000 tons of ships, principally combat vessels taken from inland shipyards to the sea. The corporation operated at a deficit of $385,545 after charging off depreciation of $702,503.

France Asks Data on Deals for Levant Oil

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

PARIS, July 23 — The French government has officially requested the United States for all information on the reported completion of arrangements by American oil companies to construct refinery installations in Syria or Lebanon.

The Standard Oil company [New Jersey] and Socony-Vacuum Oil company were reported to have obtained a 70 year option to build a large refinery in Tripoli with a guarantee that except for skilled technicians only Lebanese labor would be employed.

Meanwhile the Arabian-American Oil company—owned by the Texas company and Standard Oil Company of California — has decided definitely to construct a large pipe line from its fields in Saudi Arabia above the Persian gulf to the Mediterranean.

Seven Routes Considered

Seven possible routes for such a 1,000 mile pipe line were surveyed secretly last autumn, terminating at Tripoli, Beirut, Haifa, Jaffa, El Arish, Port Said, or Alexandria.

It is known that certain preliminary negotiations, or at least inquiries, have been undertaken by Washington regarding the possibilities of obtaining free port rights either in Tripoli or Beirut or both.

A terminal point in the Levant states may be preferred if their complete independence were assured, it is believed, because of the free port possibilities, simplification of transit difficulties, and possible additional financial and international complications if the line ended in either Palestine or Egypt where the British have control.

Curious Coincidence?

Some French observers consider it is a curious coincidence that shortly after the Levant crisis of May and June had cooled with substantial loss of position for France, one large American oil combination should take an option to construct a refinery on the Levant coast and another finally should decide to construct a costly pipe line.

Arabian-American Oil is expected to build either a 24 or 26 inch line to pump huge quantities of Saudi Arabian oil to the Mediterranean to avoid tanker transportation to Europe's back door and eliminate Suez canal tolls.

Standard of California and the Texas company originally had hoped to obtain a United States government loan to help finance this project. However, it is understood that Arabian-American, which already has invested approximately 100 million dollars in the Saudi Arabian property, is going ahead on its own.

Unground Pepper Imports Drop to Nothing in 1944

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP)—No unground pepper was imported in 1944, the census bureau said today. Virtually all pepper imports in the past came from areas still held by the Japanese. In 1941 imports of unground pepper were 73,957,710 pounds. Imports were negligible in 1943.

STOCK MARKET SLIPS BACK IN QUIET TRADING

Losses of Leaders Run to 2 Points

New York, July 23 (AP)—Leaders generally sold down fractions to 2 points or more in relatively slow dealings today in a weak stock market.

Many customers trimmed accounts on the persistent idea a sudden Japanese surrender would upset domestic economy, at least temporarily. Others stood aside to await British election results Thursday and news from the Potsdam parley. Earnings and dividends were stabilizing factors, as was passage of the reconversion tax relief act. Investment sentiment also was buoyed by the quick sale of American Telephone debentures. A. T. & T. common, however, ended off ½ at 177¾.

Decline Begins Early

Rails began to decline early and soon were joined by industrials and utilities. Only scattered recoveries were in evidence at the close. Transfers of 750,000 shares were little more than the 650,000 Friday.

The Associated Press 60 stock average dropped 0.6 to 64.2. Of 854 issues appearing, 567 declined, only 132 advanced and 161 were unchanged.

Pan American Airways was the most active issue and finished with a loss of ⅝ at 17¼.

BOND MARKET DRIFTS

New York, July 23 (AP)—Modest selling in rails sent the bond market irregularly lower today in quiet trading. Transactions of $4,430,000, compared with $3,290 face value Friday, were among the smallest this year. The quick sale of the 175 million dollars of American Telephone debentures provided more interest in bond quarters than actual transactions in existing securities.

CHICAGO STOCKS SLIDE

Prices declined yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in turnover of 31,000 shares. More active issues included Chicago corporation common and Radio corporation, each down ¼; Commonwealth Edison, off ⅛; Marshall Field, up ⅛, and Admiral corporation, up ⅛.

16,000 VETS PUT IN CIVIL SERVICE POSTS IN JUNE

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP)—More than 16,000 veterans were placed in federal civil service jobs in June, the United States civil service commission said today.

The total of 16,501 placements included 12,068 veterans and 539 wives of disabled veterans or veterans' widows of World War II. Jobs were provided for 3,342 veterans and 102 wives or widows of veterans of World War I. or other service.

More than 95,000 veterans placements have been made this year and more than 374,000 in the two and one-half years ended June 30, the commission said.

Closely Held Corporations

THE owners of many closely held corporations are taking advantage of present favorable market conditions to distribute a portion of their stock holdings through public offering with the objective of securing better diversification. This is frequently being done in conjunction with the raising of new capital for their companies.

This firm solicits the opportunity to discuss this possibility with corporation executives having such a program under consideration.

WIDE CHEMICAL FIELD FOR WAR VETS FORECAST

[This is the 15th article in a series outlining opportunities for returning war veterans.]

BY ANTHONY WIRRY

Industry and government sources predict the growing, war accelerated chemical industry will provide thousands of post-war jobs for war veterans interested in this type of work.

As appraised by Dr. Gustav Egloff, president of the American Institute of Chemists and research director of Universal Oil Products company, and the war man power commission, the chemical industry is only in the early stages of its development, has an extremely diversified output, and has expanded steadily since 1914.

Only the Surface Touched

"As great as the accomplishments of the chemical industry have been, the people of the United States have really only nibbled at the possibilities of our raw materials for conversion into something useful in our mode of life," said Egloff.

"Every scientific and technical man in military service should have no difficulty in getting a job in the chemical industry in the post-war period. The industry will be able to use every one of the 15,000 to 20,000 chemists and chemical engineers now in service and thousands more. There is a large man power shortage in this line."

Few Trained During War

Egloff said the demand for these men will be large because so few have been trained during the war years when young men postponed or interrupted their schooling to enter military service.

Among the many types of technicians required will be men who can develop specific substances for particular jobs, who understand chemical processes by which raw materials are made into plastics, and who can reduce the present cost of making steel rustproof. Rust has been "conquered at a cost," Egloff explained.

In an analysis prepared for the United States employment service, the WMC says the industry is basic, producing items used in all other manufacturing industries, agriculture, and nonmanufacturing establishments.

Markets Are Diversified

Employment and production have risen steadily since 1914 as new combinations of baric ingredients have been discovered, reaching an output in 1939 valued at 2½ billion dollars. Ranked as the 13th largest manufacturing group, the industry has about 6,750 establishments. Few industries have more diversified markets.

In 1939 the larger industrial chemical producers paid professional chemists from $130 a month for recent graduates with no experience to as much as $500 a month for those with a doctorate and special research and work experience, the WMC said.

Beginning salaries are higher now, but it is believed they will tend to return to former levels after the war. However, rates paid after a year on the job are 30 to 50 per cent higher than those paid beginners, WMC said.

MEDICAL DEDUCTIONS

The allowable deductions—under limitations set up in the income tax law—broadly include any actual expenses paid by the taxpayer during the year for the prevention or alleviation of any physical or mental defect or illness of himself, his wife, or recognized dependents.

The cost of medical, hospital, obstetrical, or dental care is included. The cost of accident or health insurance or of membership in an association furnishing coöperative or so-called free choice medical service or group hospitalization also is deductible. The deductions may include the cost of nursing, along with the nurses' board if paid by the taxpayer, travel essential for treatment or alleviation of disease, and such items as ambulance hire and eyeglasses.

Reimbursements received in the same year, whether from insurance or otherwise, must be deducted from the expenses. If reimbursement is received in a later year it must be included in the taxpayer's income for that year.

The net medical expenses may be deducted to the extent that they exceed 5 per cent of your adjusted gross income, which for many taxpayers means the same as total income. However, the deduction is limited to $1,250 if you claim only one exemption and to $2,500 if you claim more than one.

If you use your withholding receipt, form W-2 [Rev.] as a return or if you file form 1040 and use either the tax table or standard deduction, however, you may not deduct any medical or dental expense because you will then receive a standard allowance in lieu of such deductions.

JULY RYE SETS 20 YEAR HIGH ON 4¾ CENT CLIMB

July rye advanced 4¾ cents a bushel in the last day of trading in that future yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade to $1.60½, a new 20 year high, and closed at $1.60½ to $1.59¾. July barley gained 4½ cents and closed at $1.22, a new seasonal high, in light trading.

July wheat, after a firm opening, broke late and closed at $1.63⅛ to $1.62¾, down 2⅞ to 3¼ cents. July corn held at $1.18½, the ceiling price.

Brokers said July wheat and oats contracts would be evened up quickly by deliveries of grain, but large defaults are expected in July corn, with trading in all July contracts ended at the close yesterday. In the distant deliveries wheat closed ⅛ to ⅝ cent lower, rye down 1¼ to 1¾, oats ⅛ to ½, barley ⅛ to ½, and corn unchanged to ⅛ lower.

HOG OFFERINGS SLUMP TO 9,000; PRICE IS STEADY

Only 9,000 hogs were received at the Chicago stock yards yesterday, including direct shipments to packers, one of the smallest totals for a July Monday in the 80 years of stock yard history. Volume was 8 per cent below a week earlier. Prices remained at ceilings.

Cattle receipts were 14,000 head, 12 per cent below a week ago and 26 per cent below a year ago.

Warm weather caused cattle at the yards to take heavy water-fills, which actually raised the cost to packers, despite the fact no changes in quotations were made from last week's close. Best steers sold at $17.85, with the bulk $15.50 to $17.50

RECORD OF 4 BILLION COINS MANUFACTURED BY MINT DURING YEAR

Washington, D. C., July 23 (AP)—The mint set new records in the fiscal year ended June 30, turning out 46 tons of metal money a day for a total of more than 4 billion coins in 12 months.

Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, said the three plants at Philadelphia, Denver, and San Francisco produced 2,646,134,101 pieces of domestic issue [value $124,754,925] and 1,388,971,000 pieces for 11 foreign governments. In the preceding fiscal year domestic coinage consisted of 2,578,640,270 pieces with face value of $109,464,837, and total coinage was 3,066,487,270 pieces.

Nearly 2 billion pieces of the 1945 production were pennies, with about 156 million nickels, 342 million dimes, 126 million quarters, and 63 million half dollars. Mints worked 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

USE OF LARGER CURRENCY AGAIN LESSENS IN JUNE

Washington, July 23 (AP)—Large denomination currency [$50 and larger] in circulation continued to decrease in June for the fourth consecutive month. Treasury figures disclosed a striking reversal of trend in $100, $500, and $1,000 bills starting with March. Their use had been expanding for several years.

Government economists agreed that this development was connected with the treasury's drive on tax evasion; also on reports that spread last spring that the government was considering calling in big bills. Apparently many persons traded their large denominations for smaller ones, since the use of $20 and smaller bills have continued to mount.

In the four months ended with June, the total amount of money in circulation increased by 935 millions, but the use of $100, $500, and $1,000 bills decreased by 487 millions.
